AN OLD VALENTINE.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, BY T. C. HARBAUGH.

"The rose is red, the violet's blue,
Tall and green the rushes, O!
Love is sweet, and so are you!"
Wrote the lassie to her beau.
You have treasures, this is mine,
Yellow now, once white as snow,
For this was my valentine
Five and twenty years ago.

Oh, the changes time has made!
Roses red and violets blue
Bloom and wither in the glade
Where the lassie's love was true.
Ask me not if I forget;
Five and twenty years are few;
Ah! I hear the whisper yet:
"Love is sweet, and so are you!"

Past my feet the stream of time
Glides away with gentle flow;
Childhood is a fairy rhyme,
Mine was ended long ago.
Oft before the boy-god's bow'r
Peeped the rose thro' rushes, O!
Who has not a rhyme or flow'r—
Memories of belle and beau?

Flowers plucked in shade and shine,
Where they in their beauty grew,
Link me to my valentine,
Traced by heart and fingers true.
Heart of mine, there are no dead;
Just beyond the bended flue,
Wait for us the lips that said,
"Love is sweet and so are you!"

NED HARRIGAN'S REMARKABLE STORY.

Told at the Munchausen Club.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

Art mixtures had several times passed round the circle of Truth Tellers, on the occasion of the meet of the Munchausen Club last Thursday evening, at the Hoffman House Art Gallery, when Ned Harrigan meandered into the flowery bed of Truth, and, like a proud peony, opened out as follows:

"In the dark ages, brothers, when I was roaming through the Dark Continent in search of 'Pete,' not knowing that he existed, but believing he did, and hoping to find him, an incident occurred in connection with my peregrinations, which, though it will not interest you at all, I will relate on account of its truthfulness, a quality so much admired by my brother Truth Tellers. Let me state here, however, that my exploration of the Dark Continent was in vain, and that I later ran 'Pete' to cover in Sullivan street, of this city.

"One day, after reaching the heart of Africa and crossing, in a compressible boat which I carried with me, and which no African traveler should be without, the N'Yanki River, until then unknown to the white man, I came to the chief city of the Mimwimjis, a numerous and powerful tribe presided over by one Ilgobla, an autocrat as pronounced as the Czar of all the Russias, though occupying a less exalted position on the stage of contemporary life.

"I of course at once proceeded to the palace of the Mimwimji king and presented my credentials, which were taken in to H. W. M. by a flunkey on a salver at once unique and ghastly, being formed of the articulated and highly-polished bones of the human hand, the first two joints of the fingers curving upward at the edge of the salver, the nails preserved and stained black, shining like polished ebony, and presenting a startling contrast to the gleaming white of the polished bones.

"I was shortly ushered into the presence of the autocrat, whose blackness was only equaled by his nudeness, and received with native dignity and extended hand, the ebon czar being seated between the horns of a bullock's glistening skull. I extended my hand for a shake, but was given to understand by the African potentate that he wished, not a shake, but a 'take,' as he expressed it. I understood him at once. These African kings are ready to take and gobble anything a white man has about him, and Ilgobla was no exception.

"I at once presented him with a paper of 2oz. flat-headed tacks. He had never seen any tacks before, and was much interested in them. It was evident that he didn't know the uses to which they could be put, but he never let on that they were too much for him. Suddenly a smile wreathed his generous lips as he looked at the flat heads of the tacks, and beckoning to a flunkey ordered one of the wooden chairs, many of which were arranged around the throne-room, to be brought in front of him. This done he set four tacks on their heads on the seat of the chair, about six inches apart, forming a square. Then he ordered the nude flunkey to sit down on that chair. The unsophisticated savage sat down, as per order, but unbidden rose instanter, whirling to see what the matter was, while one of his hands explored the rear portion of his anatomy. The experiment was a shining success, and pleased highly his black majesty, who instantly ordered all the throne-room chairs to be arranged in a semicircle before him. A hundred flunkeys moved to obey, and a hundred chairs were at once arranged as per order. Then the sable autocrat himself arranged the tacks, sending then for his hundred wives, intending to give them a surprise party, as it were.

"Well, brothers, it was a surprise party, and the most pronounced success in that line ever recorded. Those hundred wives, fat, black, nude and sassy, at the order, went down as one wife. As one wife, on the spur of the moment, so to speak, they bounced to their feet with howls and shrieks in major, minor and intermediate keys, each fat and black specimen whirling to see what it was that influenced her sudden uprising; a hundred pairs of hands, by a natural impulse, flying rearward simultaneously to caress the at-tack-ed parts.

His High Mightiness, Ilgobla, was convulsed with laughter. He said to me that it was better than a circus, and commanded me to laugh on pain of his displeasure, and I laughed per command, and so heartily as to win his approbation. To tell the truth, brothers, I didn't have to exert myself greatly. It was a ludicrously moving scene, I assure you.

"Well, not to dwell, allow me to say, brothers, that through the instrumentality of that paper of tacks I became a favorite with King Ilgobla, there being nothing in the kingdom too good for me. Immediately after the episode of the tack-fandango the king presented me with fifty wives, I in turn, and in acknowledgement of the kingly gift to me, presenting him with a fountain pen, with whose functions he was completely dazed. At first thought, these fifty wives, though black as a pot, might be considered a white elephant; but they were not so, by any means, the king providing their sustenance, and I having no dressmakers' and milliners' bills to pay. That is one and a great advantage of marrying into certain circles in Africa, brothers.

"Of course I went to housekeeping at once, and, it being known to the tribe that I was in high feather with the king, you may rest assured that I had a soft snap of it, brothers. Albeit, Ilgobla was a man of moods. He and I got along swimmingly together. When he grew moody beyond putting up with conveniently all I had to do to bring him out of the mood to the plane of respectable pleasantry, was to show him a tack, head down and point up. This reminded him of the dance and concert of his wives in the throne-room, when at once he would pull himself from the slough of gall and cavort in the meadow of sweetness, as it were.

"Three years I whiled away with my dusky wives in the sunny Afric land of the Mimwimjis, knowing nothing of the trials, troubles and tribulations that lie in wait for and beset civilized beings. In moments when ennui oppressed I would go down to the river and calk one of the king's men-of-war, calking the entire fleet in the course of three years. I was a calker in my young days, you remember, and Ilgobla regarded me as a corker of the first magnitude, and couldn't do too much for me.

"On the whole, it was a life among the roses, so to speak; a dolce far niente existence that one could wish would last forever. To be sure, my dark-complexioned compatriots would now and then get up enthusiastic feasts, the bodies of their enemies, and sometimes those of their friends, furnishing forth the viands that graced the festive board. Civilization recoils at such viands, but, after all, it is nothing but prejudice. And to what better use, brothers, can a people put its enemies than the furnishing of its larders with their carcasses? And how better testify appreciation of friends than by eating them? All I have to say in the premises is, brothers, that baked African is a dish never to be forgotten by those who once partake thereof.

"I should probably have remained for life in that Afric Eden, with my extremely decollete wives, but for the incident I spoke of, which brought about a crisis in my affairs and put an end to the dolce far niente existence I was leading. The incident, with more or less detail, was as follows:

"On leaving my kraal one morning about 10 o'clock, I found in the centre of the plaza a pyramid of freshly-decapitated human heads. There were as many as three hundred of these ghastly members of the human form, all set right-side up and facing out—all those that could be seen, and presumably the others. A close inspection showed me that they were the heads of the king's nobles, with all of whom I had been on the best of terms. Wondering what had exercised Ilgobla to this extent—he was a peculiar man, and often dispatched twenty or more of his subjects, himself wielding the broad-axe, 'just for luck,' as he would say—I strolled toward the palace to learn the why and wherefore of this wholesale decapitation and waste of blue blood. I had never before known of his chopping off the heads of more than ten of his nobles at once, and why three hundred at one fell swoop, so to speak, puzzled me not a little.

"The king received me with open arms, still bloody with his morning's work, remarking that he had fixed the bloody anarchists? I asked him to explain the coup d'etat or coup de grace, getting an explanation that made mine hair like bristles on a boar's back stand up, mine eyes to bulge like Bermuda onions, and made me very, very tired all over, brothers.

"'My dear Ned,' said the king, 'know that the greatest of all compliments that a Mimwimji King can pay a dearly beloved friend is to eat him. I had decided that you, above all others, deserved this compliment, and incidentally remarked to my nobles that I would do you the greatest honor possible by eating you. To my surprise they kicked, but the heads of the duffers are piled up yonder—as I can make more nobles, you know. So you see, Ned, I was true to you, my friend, and will do you the honor of eating you at dinner!'

"Make sure, brothers, that I made haste to assure him that I was all unworthy of such high honor, and most respectfully declined being the recipient of such—he looked reproachfully at me when I said I declined the honor, and said he didn't think I was so mean as to shock his sensibilities in that way—preferring to live for the wives he had so graciously bestowed upon me; in fact, said everything I could to get the infernal notion out of his head; but with this regard—the honor he felt bound to confer upon me—he was punctillious to a fault, and I could not budge him a hair. Feeling hurt that I didn't rejoice at the favor shown me, and thinking it was on account of my wives, he considerately told me that he would take them into his own harem, and that I needn't worry on their account.

"With that I began to revile the African autocrat, but got no further along in the vocabulary of approbrious terms than 'chump' when he clapped his hands, and I, in a trice, was seized and bound hand and foot, and ready for the sacrifice. I did not need to be stripped, as you might think, as I had long before adopted the prevailing decollete style of dress. Ah! it was then I realized, brothers, that the friendship of some kings was as fatal to life and future prospects as their emnity under conditions most favorable to them.

"Suffice to say that I was at once conveyed to the grill, the chief cook and assistants being ready, if not eager, for the broil. When the High Priest of Sacrifice had sang Boulanger's March or something similar, I was lifted on to the huge gridiron, to be grilled alive for the king's table! Brothers, it makes me sick and tired, both, to think of that hair-bleaching moment."

"Holy horror! I should think it would!" exclaimed a wild-eyed non-member of the Munchausens—"but what happened then, for heavens sake!"

"What happened? Poor simple mortal, nothing happened. The work of grilling was proceeded with without delay, and I was grilled to the King's taste, no doubt!"

The "P. S. M." saw that he had put his foot in it deeply, and at once ordered art mixtures for all concerned, being allowed then to sink into obscurity.

"BUCK" THORNE.

"You say that you have been engaged to be married three times?" said a young man to a Stockton belle. "Yes." "Well, then I don't think there will be any use of my making any engagement to go to the theatre with you to-morrow night." "Why not?" "Because you don't appear to keep your engagements."

THE great beauty of every Southern sanitarium is that it "enjoys" dry air for people who require dry air, and moist air for people who require moist air. "You pays your money," etc.

HARRIETT JAY, ACTRESS.

AT THE PLAY.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

Dim burn the lights, and the music
Is as sad as sobbings and tears,
When mine eyes behold the vision
That has haunted my dreams for years!

She, in her silks and diamonds,
Away down in the stalls,
While I, up here in the gallery,
In my working overalls.

Oh, her eyes are as blue as the heavens,
And as bright as the sun at noon;
Her neck is as white as the whitest cloud,
And her bosom as round as the moon.

Ah! if I could but be near her!
And, heavens! could kiss but her hand!
Then I would not change places
With the proudest in the land!

But her eyes are on the stage-lover,
And her bosom it rises and falls;
And little she knows, and no more she cares
For me, here, in my overalls. J. H. B.

THE NEW MAILING LAW.

Bill passed by Congress Jan. 20: Mailable matter of the second-class shall contain no writing, print or sign thereon or therein in addition to the original print, except as herein provided, to wit: The name and address of the person to whom the matter shall be sent, index figures of subscription book either printed or written, the printed title of the publication and the place of its publication, the printed or written name and address without addition of advertisement of the publisher or sender, or both, and written or printed words or figures, or both, indicating the date on which the subscription to such matter will end, the correction of any typographical error, a mark except by written or printed words, to designate a work or passage to which it is desired to call attention; the words "sample copy" when the matter is sent as such, the words "marked copy" when the matter contains a marked item or article, and publishers or news agents may inclose in their publications bills, receipts and orders for subscriptions thereto, but the same shall be in such form as to convey no other information than the name, place of publication, subscription price of the publication to which they refer and the subscription due thereon. Upon matter of the third class or upon the wrapper or envelope inclosing the same or the tag or lable attached thereto the sender may write his own name, occupation, and residence or business address, preceded by the word "from," and may make marks other than by written or printed words to call attention to any word or passage in the text, and may correct any typographical errors. There may be placed upon the blank leaves or cover of any book or printed matter of the third-class a simple manuscript dedication or inscription not of the nature of a personal correspondence. Upon the wrapper or envelope of third-class matter or the tag or label attached thereto may be printed any matter mailable as third-class, but there must be left on the address side a space sufficient for a legible address and necessary stamps. With a package of fourth-class matter prepaid at the proper rate for that class, the sender may inclose any mailable third-class matter, and may write upon the wrapper or cover thereof, or tag or label accompanying the same, his name, occupation, residence or business address, preceded by the word "from," and any marks, numbers, names, or letters for purpose of description, or may print thereon the same, and any printed matter not in the nature of a personal correspondence, but there must be left on the address side or face of the package a spaces ufficient for a legible address and necessary stamps. In all cases directions for transmit, delivery, forwarding, or return shall be deemed part of the address; and the Postmaster-general shall prescribe suitable regulations for carrying this section into effect.

SEC. 2. That matter of the second, third, or fourth class containing any writing or printing in addition to the original matter other than as authorized in the preceding section shall not be admitted to the mails, nor delivered, except upon payment of postage for matter of the first-class, deducting therefrom any amount which may have been prepaid by stamps affixed, unless by direction of the Postmaster-general such postage shall be remitted; and any person who shall knowingly conceal or inclose any matter of a higher class in that of a lower class, and deposit or cause the same to be deposited for conveyance by mail, at a less rate than would be charged for both such higher and lower class matter, shall for every such offence be liable to a penalty of ten dollars.

HARRIETT JAY.

The portrait on this page is that of Harriett Jay, who was born in 1859, and adopted the stage in England about 1880, when she joined a country company and played for some time under an assumed name. Her first appearance under her own name was at the Crystal Palace, London, where she appeared with Henry Neville and played the part of the Queen of Connaught, which was originally sustained by Ada Cavendish. Her first appearance at a West-end theatre was as Lady Jane Grey, in "The Nine Days' Queen." After that she played for a season at the Olympic, and then accepted an engagement from George Rignold to star in the provinces as Lady Clancarty. Returning to London, Miss Jay created the part of the Hon. Cecil Brookfield in "Lady Clare," a part she played during the run of that piece at the Globe. She then accepted an offer from Augustus Harris, and went for a season to Drury-lane. This was followed by a visit to America, where, during her brief stay, Miss Jay appeared as the Hon. Cecil Brookfield and Lady Clancarty, making her debut in this country in the latter role at a special matinee at the Madison-square Theatre, this city, Nov. 26, 1884. On her return to England she was seen at the Olympic in "Alone in London," playing first the character of Tom Chickweed, a costermonger boy, and afterwards that of Nan. During the run of "Alone in London" she was engaged to appear at matinees at the Opera Comique, in the character of Sappho. During a provincial tour of "Alone in London" Miss Jay played the part of Nan. Many years of hard work were beginning to tell upon her health, so on the termination of this tour she took a long rest. Her next appearance was at the Novelty Theatre, where she filled the parts of Lady Ethel Gordon in "The Blue Bells of Scotland," and of Lady Madge Slashton in "Fascination." Miss Jay is the sister-in-law of Robert Buchanan, the English poet and dramatist.

Special Reports by The Clipper's Correspondents of the Opening Night of the Week.

The Clipper's Special from 'Frisco—M. B. Leavitt Attaches the Receipts and Costumes of Conreid & Hermann's Opera Co.—"The Gipsy Baron" is Sung as Announced—"She" Again at the Golden Gate.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 14.—To test the validity of his contract, M. B. Leavitt, before the raising of the curtain at the Baldwin last night, put an attachment on the box-office receipts and costumes of the Conreid & Hermann Opera Co. "The Gipsy Baron" was, however, sung. The house held an immense audience.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—"A Dark Secret" will close its profitable season Feb. 18. "Lost in New York," with elaborate stage-settings, will be put on 20, for a possible run.

ALCAZAR.—The Webster-Brady Co. produced "She" last night to a packed house. The company for this date includes L. R. Stockwell, Charlotte Tittel, Laura Bigger and others.

BUSH STREET THEATRE.—W. H. Power's "Ivy Leaf" Co. opened last evening to large business. The play interested. "A Hole in the Ground," by the Hoyt & Thomas Co., commences a three weeks' engagement 27.

BREVITIES.—The Tivoli retains last week's bill. .....Martin and Lonsdale, Prof. Marquis and Green and Harris opened at the Orpheum last night. Royce & Lansing's Bellringers come 20. The "Peak Family" Bellringers were engaged for the same date, but, though fares had been advanced, nothing has been heard from the troupe. [If the managers of the Orpheum had read THE CLIPPER carefully they would have easily known that "Peak Family" Bellringer troupes are numerous, and none of them genuine.—ED. CLIPPER]. .....Santaro's Japanese, Adams Sisters, the Burtons and others are announced for the Wigwam. .....Laura Mulich and Hanson and Colton are among the late engagements for the Vienna Garden.....Sam Mott is here, taking a much-needed rest..... J. O. Barrows is announced for 20 at Morosco's Amphitheatre. He will appear in "She" on that date.....James H. Love has disposed of his interest in the Lyceum.

"Madelon," the Dalys, "Jim the Penman," Henry Irving et al., Delight Boston Playgoers—Big Business Everywhere, but No Novelties Introduced.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 14.—"Madelon" opened at the Globe Theatre last evening to an overwhelming house. Mr. Aronson's people had been constantly traveling for hours, and were a bit fatigued. The strain tired one or two of the principals, but in the main the opera was given an effective representation. John Braham's head, as it popped from under the stage into the conductor's chair, was the signal for a hearty outburst of genuine cordiality. J. T. Powers got plenty of royally good hands on his entry. He was very successful as Taborean, his "I Haven't Discovered It Yet" scoring very heavily. Bertha Ricci was an extremely tuneful Trompette. The company will draw capitally, but it won't be because "Madelon" is the best thing they have done or can do.....Dalys' "Upside Down" began a return week at the Hollis-street Theatre last night before a houseful of friends, who gave both company and piece a reception that more than duplicated its first Hub success. The same humorous features and a great many new ones set the auditors in fits.....Palmer's "Private Secretary" commenced its fortnight at the Park last night to a two-thirds house. Outside of W. H. Gil ette and M. A. Kennedy the company is a deal inferior to the one that played last season. The business will probably pick up as the engagement progresses....Henry Irving's last week, with "Faust" as the opening bill, began last evening to a house greatly diminished in numbers from his last week's audiences....."The Silver King" was warmly received by a great audience at the Grand Opera-house. The leading parts, by Carl Haswin and Ethel Greybrooke, were carefully handled with commendable results. ....Williams' Specialty Co. opened to a capital house at the Howard....."Bells of Hastemere" began its second week last night to more than satisfactory figures.

Death of Archibald Foster, Actor and Journalist.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 14.—Two big audiences witnessed "The Still Alarm" at the Academy Sunday, and a good attendance was noted last night.....At the Grand, "The Pickpockets of Paris" had a good audience Sunday, and a very light house last night, owing to the merits of the entertainment.....The Siltons' Co. had a good audience at the People's.....Sheehan and Coyne, and Lulu Hurst are drawing finely at the Museum. Bigon Carew and Tom Brantford are additions.....Yank Newell did well Feb. 12, at the Palace.....Archibald Foster, of the Effie Ellsler Company, died at four o'clock yesterday afternoon, of inflammation of the bowels. Mr. Foster was thirty years old, and made his first appearance with Grace Courtland and John Mowry about 1882. He afterwards returned to the staff of The Sentinel, until last season, when he successfully played Harold Armytage, in Litt & Poore's "Lights o' London" Co. He was a member of Milwaukee Lodge of Elks, under whose direction he will be consigned to his last resting-place. The body will be brought here for interment.

Pittsburg Pointers.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 14.—Margaret Mather appeared at the Bijou as Juliet last evening before a large audience....."Harbor Lights" was given to a good attendance at the Grand Opera-house..... Schoolcraft & Coes' Novelty Co. turned people away from Harry Williams' Academy of Music.... Henry Chanfrau's "Kit" packed Harris' Theatre. .....The attractions at the Casino Museum filled it three times yesterday.....The London Theatre with its vaudeville attractions turned people away. .....Gorton's New Orleans Minstrels had a good audience at the Lafayette Theatre.

Washington Wirings.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 14.—Rice's "Evangeline" Co. opened at Albaugh's to a big house..... Gillette's "She" at the National, Ada Gray at Harris' and Arizona Joe at Kernan's made a good beginning on their respective engagements..... The New Dime Museum and Theatre had a fair start.....Campanini's concert, at the Congregational Church, was rendered to a large audience.

Conflagration Averted in Buffalo's Music Hall.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 14.—The Orpheus Carnival at Music Hall Sunday night was a magnificent success in point of attendance, brilliant and novel costumes and effects. At four o'clock yesterday morning the portiere-curtains in the main entrance took fire, and the destruction of the new hall was only averted by prompt measures. The burning drapery was pulled down, and the fire extinguished with but slight damage. The dancers were badly scared.....At the Academy, Kiralfy's "Lagardere" opened to a big attendance, despite the counter attractions, and the "take" for the rest of the week is large.....John A. Mackay in "Pop" was welcomed by a very large audience at the Grand Opera-house.....'Zozo" at the Court-street filled the house completely.....Jack Dempsey was responsible for "S. R. O." at the Adelphia long before the curtain rose. ...."The Blackthorn" at the Grand Central was greeted by a heavy house.

Minnie Palmer in the Falls City.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 14.—Minnie Palmer opened at Macauley's to a large audience in "My Brother's Sister." Miss Palmer responded to several curtain-calls....."The Little Tycoon" at Masonic Temple was favored with an excellent house, this being a return engagement.....Every seat was taken at matinee and evening performances at Harris' Theatre, where "Hearts of Oak" were performed..... The "S. R. O." sign was out at the rise of the curtain at the Buckingham Theatre, where "The Early Birds" were holding forth.....The Grand Central had a fair house.

Mrs. J. B. Potter in the Crescent City.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

NEW ORLEANS., La., Feb. 14.—Mrs. James Brown Porter was royally received at the Academy by an immense and brilliant assemblage, composed largely of society people who were once her schoolmates and personal friends.. ..."Jim the Penman" filled every seat at the Grand, and is pronounced a great go. May Brookyn and Wright Huntington both received ovations....."Michael Strogoff" was presented to a very large audience at the St. Charles.....Agnes Robertson in "My Geraldine" packed the Avenue.....The Leonzo Brothers in "The Planter's Child" opened to splendid business at Faranta's.....The final presentation of "Faust" by the French-opera Troupe was witnessed by a grand house.

Two Disbanded Companies.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 14.—Hallen & Hart's Co. opened to "Standing-room Only." Every song was encored, and the company gave general satisfaction.....Fred. Bryton had an immense audience at Pope's last night for Manager Hagan's benefit.....Edwin Arden had a top-heavy house at People's to see "Eagle's Nest."..... Jos. Murphy also had a top-heavy house at the Grand to see "Kerry Gow."..... Clara Morris had a large and fashionable audience last night to see "Renee De Moray."..... Manager A. B. Coley of the "Crimes of a Great City" left town with the company's share of the receipts, and they are left without a cent.....The Agnes Herndon Co disbanded here.

Lotta's Luck.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 14.—At the Coates last night Lotta opened a week's engagement to the biggest business this theatre has had during the present season, most every seat in the house being sold for the week.....Redmund and Barry at the Gillis had a light attendance, although the performance was good and well appreciated.....P. F. Baker at the Ninth-street came in for a full share of business.

"Held by the Enemy" Breaks the Record.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

BANGOR, Me., Feb. 14.—Gillette's "Held by the Enemy" scored a big success at the Opera-house last night, before one of the largest audiences of the season. John J. Farrell, as Bean, the correspondent, made a decided hit. He is a Bangor boy, and was at one time the correspondent to THE CLIPPER from this city.

The Wallace-Villa Co. Re-engaged.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

MISSOURI.

ST. LOUIS.—At the Grand Opera-house, Joseph Murphy commenced a week's engagement Feb. 12. Mrs. D. P. Bowers did a fair business last week. Minnie Palmer is announced for week of 20-25.

OLYMPIC THEATRE.—"Held by the Enemy" drew well last week. Clara Morris commenced a week's engagement 13. "The Dark Secret" 19.

POPE'S THEATRE.—Frederic Bryton appeared for Manager O. L. Hagan's benefit 13, and will remain during week. Agnes Herndon did a fair business at Pope's the first part of last week, but the attendance dropped very low by Friday. The Redmund-Barry Co. will be here 19.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.—Edwin Arden will present "Eagle's Nest" every night this week. "My Aunt Bridget" drew well last week. "The White Slave" come 19-25.

STANDARD THEATRE.—Hallen & Hart's Co. are the attraction this week. "Crimes of a Great City" did a light business last week. W. J. Cogswell claims to have written the drama, or adapted it to the stage. It is the old story of an innocent bank clerk being made to suffer for the crime of another. But Silas Pumper" (Mr. Cogswell), got up as Solon Shingle, follows the villain and defeats all his plans. He and Josie Batchelder carry the play through. The Weston Brothers 19.

PALACE THEATRE.—Artie Flint and Steve Hearne (boxers), Dan Ducrow, Mlle. Bellotta, Virgie Varney, Billy and Mary Golden, Houssaburo Sam, Smith and Campbell, Lottie Andrews, John E. and Mamie Clive, Walter Bray and the stock this week. Business is fair.

CASINO THEATRE.—Edwin R. Lang, Viola Rosa, Wm. A. Lang, Burns and Donnelly, Smith and Fuller, Bessie Belle, Hanley Brothers, Ryder and Lamont, Clara Franklyn, Woodville and Drew, and the stock this week. Business is fair.

ESHER'S THEATRE.—Alice Atkinson, Nellie Malden, George Heller, Emma Milton, Vintie Valdean, Lew Milton, Lillie Mason, Maud Lewis, Bob and Lillian Barrow, and Eva Howard this week. Business was good last week.

NEW MUSEUM AND BIJOU THEATRE.—The living chicken, Signor Dodaretti (iron jaw), Prof. Black's Musical Co. and Adams & Dakin's Specialty Co. this week. This establishment is well patronized on Saturday night and Sunday, but business is only fair during the week.

CHAT.—A concert of the Musical Union was given at the Exposition Hall 9. Signora Elena Varesi, Sig. Guido Parisi and Prof. Aug. Waldaner's Orchestra took part. The attendance was large..... Blanche Thorne, leading lady of the "Held by the Enemy" Co., and David C. Johnson, a New York bookmaker, were quietly married in the parlor of the Southern Hotel 9. It is stated that Mrs. Johnson will only travel with the company for two weeks longer. A number of St. Louis gentlemen tendered them a dinner after the performance in the evening....It is stated that Mrs. D. P. Bowers will go to New York to reorganize her company.... Hattie Schell of the "Held by the Enemy" Co. was quite ill last week, and left for New York to rest. Miss Dupree, who has been taking the same part with the Southen company, took her place and made a hit.....Geo. McManus, treasurer of the Grand Opera-house, takes his annual benefit 20, when Minnie Palmer will appear. .....John B. Doris says he will buy in the Doris & Colvin Circus 23.....The Wilburn Opera Co. are presenting comic-opera in Carondelet (South St. Louis), with Ed. Blair as stage-manager, Edwin Shouert, musical-director and the following: W. Murphy, Ed. Blair, E. P. Smith, J. H. Bell, Wm. Sellery, Jessica Santley, Tilly Haynes, Kitty Seville, Annie Farrell.....On Saturday the Agnes Herndon Co. seemed to be having a "heap of trouble." Thos. Dillon sued Miss Herndon for $35; the Great Western Printing Co. sued out an attachment for $62, and H. S. Hewitt of New York another for $325, being the balance of $1,000 which Miss Herndon was to pay him for "A Commercial Tourist's Bride." There are also internal dissensions in the company. Miss Hamilton and Stage-manager McCullum, who are at variance with Miss Herndon, will probably retire from the company.

KANSAS CITY.—At the Coates Opera-house this week, Lotta. The first half of last week, T. W. Keene appeared before large audiences. Week of Feb. 20, Clara Morris.

GILLIS OPERA-HOUSE.—The first half of this week, the Redmund-Barry Co.; the balance of the week is filled out by Barry and Fay. The first three nights of last week the house was closed; the last three "Around the World" did fairly well. Week of 20, "The Still Alarm."

WARDER GRAND OPERA-HOUSE is dark this week. Week of 20, Rhea.

NINTH-STREET THEATRE.—This week, P. F. Baker in "Chris and Lena." Last week, Lizzie Evans did an unusually big business. Week of 20, Hallen & Hart's Co.

MUSIC HALL.—This week home attractions.

COLISEUM THEATRE.—Arrivals 13: Fields and Burdell, the Mullallys. Remaining: Nellie O'Neil, Wayne and Evans, Lewis and Carroll, Clifford and Hickey. Business is fair.

WALNUT-STREET THEATRE.—Opening 13: Ja Ja Kuffey, Alice Clark, Hearne and Howard, the Osbornes. Remaining: Lavender and Thompson, the Kherns. Business is good.

KANSAS CITY MUSEUM.—In the auditorium this week, "Never to Late to Mend." On the lecture-hall stage: MacCollum and Barrington, and the Challenge Quartet. Business is immense.

CHAT.—T. W. Keene, on his arrival here evening of 5, was met by a committee of the Elk Club of this city at the depot, and escorted to the Elk Club rooms, where he was royally entertained.....Bert Kendrick, in advance of Barry & Fay's Co., was shaking hands with friends here last week..... C. A. Burt, advance of P. F. Baker, is in the city.

ST. JOSEPH.—At Tootle's Opera-house, "A Hole in the Ground" played to enormous business Feb. 6 and 7. T. W. Keene presented "Julius Cæsar" 9, and every seat was sold in advance. This was Mr. Keene's first appearance in this city since his illness. Barry and Fay 10 and 11, Helen Blythe 13 and 14.....Josh E. Ogden, representing Helen Blythe, was in the city 7.....Manager Douglas is informed that there is a man now in Chicago going under the name of Clarke, and representing himself to be the treasurer of Tootle's Opera-house. Mr. Douglas wishes it stated that no such person is in his employ, or authorized to represent his house in any way.....While nearly all theatrical towns are complaining of poor patronage this season, Tootle's Opera-house has, with the possible exceptions of three or four nights, been comfortably filled, if not crowded, every night this season.... Real estate is still on a boom here.

HANNIBAL.—At the Park Opera-house Feb. 6, Gormans' Spectacular Minstrels played to a good business. Barry and Fay played "McKenna's Flirtation" 8 to a fair-sized audience. "Around the World" is booked for 20.

IOWA.

DES MOINES.—At the Grand, Mrs. Scott-Siddons Feb. 15, Hanions' "Fantasma" 21, 22, Januschek 24, 25. James O'Neil, in "Monte Cristo" Feb. 2, had a fine audience. P. F. Baker's "Chris and Lena," booked for 7, tried to cancel, but Manager Moore did not see it, and will hold them for damage. [See Davenport, Ia., letter.—ED. CLIPPER.]

FOSTER'S.—Clara Morris 9 had the largest advance sale of the season. Vernona Jarbeau's "Starlight" 21, 22, "Town Lots" 23, Kate Castleton 27. W. H. Power's "Ivy Leaf" 6 did excellent business.

CAPITAL CITY.—De Lorme-Neal Co. 6-18 have done an excellent business so far. Rentfrow's Pathfinder 20, and week. I understand Mitchell Ladish, manager of the De Lorme-Neal Co., recently procured a divorce from his wife, a non-professional.

DAVENPORT.—Booked at Burtis' Opera-house: T. W. Keene Feb. 14, Vernona Jarbeau 20, home lecture 22, W. J. Fleming's "Around the World" 25, McNish, Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels 28. P. F. Baker presented "Chris and Lena" 6, 7, to fair audiences. A repetition of "The Mikado" by home talent 11, tested the capacity of the house. P. F. Baker, through an error of his agent, was booked here for 6 only, instead of 6, 7.

BURLINGTON.—At the Grand, Vernona Jarbeau plays a return date Feb. 15, Janauschek 22, Fleming's "Around the World" 23, Minnie Palmer 28. "Streets of New York," Geo. Boniface leading, came 4 to good business, Gormans' Minstrels, 8, also did well. P. F. Baker, in "Chris and Lena," came 9 to a small house. Every seat is sold for Clara Morris, 10, and matinee 11.

SPRINGFIELD.—At Black's Opera-house, the Bennett & Moulton Opera Co. did good business. There is nothing on the docket for this house.....At the Grand Opera-house, Margaret Mather 7, did well. "A Bunch of Keys" 10 had a fair house. McNish, Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels 13, "The Highest Bidder" 15.....The local Lodge of Elks, No. 51, gives a minstrel performance March 1 and 2. From what I know of the plans, this will eclipse all other efforts in this line ever attempted in this city..... I understand that the old Crystal Hall of this city, formerly a variety theatre, will soon be fitted up again.

OSKALOOSA.—At the Masonic Opera-house, "Streets of New York" Feb. 6 did a fair business, followed by Rentfrow's Jolly Pathfinders 13 and week. "Town Lots" 22.....Lee Moses, late of the People's Theatre, Omaha, Neb., is the new manager of Seever's Opera-house. Nothing is booked until March 5, when May Temple's Gaiety Co. appear.

ASHTABULA.—The Opera-house will remain dark until March 3, when Aiden Benedict will present "Monte Cristo." Sisson & Cawthorn's "Little Nugget" drew a good house Feb. 7. John F. Knoll played in a concert here 9. The Cob-pipe Orchestra, a local organization, have been giving a number of concerts in the neighboring towns.

MARSHALLTOWN.—At Woodbury Opera-house, "Streets of New York," with Geo. C. Boniface as Badger, pleased a fair house Feb. 7. Rusco & Swift's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" 11.....Harry Gilfoil, of "Streets of New York" Co., who sprained his ankle, is now convalescent. During his absence his part was taken by Manager Kusel.

OTTUMWA.—Rentfrow's Jolly Pathfinders opened the Turner Feb. 6 to a crowded house, and business continued good the entire week. Coming: 13, T. W. Keene; 16, Rusco & Swift's "U. T. C." Co.; 17, Janauschek.

WORLD OF AMUSEMENT.

— Odell Williams will resume starring in "The Judge" Feb. 18, under J. H. Adams' management.

— W. H. Holloway, advance, left J. Z. Little's "World" Co. Feb. 4.

— Dell Kellogg, Mrs. Fannie Fuller and Gus Williams' brother are on the sick list in this city. Mrs. Fuller is a sufferer from malignant cancer, and her recovery is despaired of. The Actors' Fund is helping her. Miss Kellogg is at St. Vincent's Hospital. She fell on the ice at Stamford, Ct., recently, and broke her leg in two places. She was compelled to give up her engagement with the Barry and Fay Co. Mr. Williams' brother is dying of consumption, and is also at St. Vincent's Hospital, where, thanks to the comedian's generosity, he is receiving excellent care.

— C. D. Hess has retired from the business-management of the Minnie Palmer Co., and Nathaniel Childs has succeeded him.

— Sydney Armstrong has returned the manuscript of "The Pointsman" to A. M. Palmer (its American owner), and H. C. Miner has taken it, with a view to an early production of the play.

— George and Edward Hanlon became naturalized citizens of the United States recently.

— Delia Bardo (Luella Hughes in private) has joined the Wilbur Opera Co.

— Edwin Varrey, now playing in "Paul Kauvar" in this city, will join Joseph Jefferson for the latter's Spring tour. R. C. Hilliard, also in "Paul Kauvar," will be in "A Possible Case," opening March 26.

— R. C. Hudson's contract as F. B. Warde's manager has expired, and he will not be with that star next season, we are informed.

— Mlle. Bonfanti closed her engagement with "The Arabian Nights" Feb. 11.

— Estelle Clayton's tour closed prematurely at Binghamton, N. Y., Feb. 4, and she returned to this city. She states that she had been booked in too many one-night stands. Another report asserts that her backer, W. E. Elliott, had weakened.

— Ed. Carroll, who joined Hanlons' "Voyage en Suisse" Co. a few weeks ago, as understudy, played Ned for the first time Feb. 7 in Philadelphia, Pa.

— D. R. Locke (Petroleum Nasby), editor of The Toledo (O.) Blade, who has been ill for some time, is reported to be improving, and is now out of danger.

— Harry A. Ellis of the "Taken from Life" Co. was arrested in Williamsburg, N. Y., Feb. 6, charged by his wife with abandonment. Their differences were subsequently amicably settled, and he was discharged.

— The injunction suit of Rudolph Aronson to restrain Manager Geo. A. Baker of Bennett & Moulton's Opera Co. from playing "Robert Macaire" or "The Two Thieves," on the ground that they were "Erminie" rechristened, was decided in the plaintiff's favor Feb. 7, by Vice-chancellor Van Fleet of New Jersey.

— Fanny Davenport has signed a contract with Manager R. M. Field of the Boston, Mass., Museum, to play "La Tosca" at his theatre for twelve weeks, beginning in November next. By the terms of the agreement, Miss Davenport is to furnish, besides the play, the necessary scenery and costumes, and will be supported by the Museum stock.

— Alexander Bunn, at one time part owner of the Chestnut-street Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa., has been declared insane, and is now an inmate of the Kirkbride, Pa., Insane Asylum.

— J. E. M. Sanford of The Boston (Mass.) Courier has written a new opera, music by B. F. Baker, entitled "William Penn." The story deals with the American life of William Penn, who is depicted as a somewhat different personage from the one familiar in school histories. The plot was suggested by the "Friends'" occupancy of Philadelphia in 1682.

— Chas. T. Vincent is still an inmate of St. Luke's Hospital, Chicago, Ill., where he has been since the middle of last July, under treatment.

— John Robinson and May Pearce have joined Daniel Sully's Co.

— The date (Feb. 13-18) of the A. S. Phillips "Faust" Co. at the Brooklyn, N. Y., Theatre, has been cancelled, and the troupe will open their tour, as now announced, Feb. 20, at the Broad-street Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

— Mlle. Valerga is engaged for the Campanini season of Italian opera at the Academy of Music, this city.

— Alice Vincent joins Carleton's Opera Co., to fill the vacancy caused by Lily Post's retirement.

— Will T. Clark joined the Hyland Comedy Co. at Butler, Ind., Feb. 4.

— After her performance at Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 4, Ramie Austin was presented with a silver imitation of the Statue of Liberty, the base of which was of flowers, and the light a diamond. It was suitably inscribed.

— Charles and Ella Jerome and Lester and Williams have secured "Dreams, or Fun in a Photograph Gallery," on a royalty, and will take it on tour next season, opening in August.

— Logan Paul has joined George S. Knight's Co. for the balance of the season.

— Charles Coghlan is to rejoin Mrs. Langtry Feb. 13, in Chicago, Ill., having been released by Manager A. M. Palmer. He has made up his differences with Mrs. Langtry, and takes M. H. Barrymore's place.

— The lot and monument to J. T. Raymond, in Greenwood Cemetery, will cost $1,400. Of this $720 has already been subscribed by Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, A. M. Palmer, Abbey & Schoefel, Robson and Crane, Joseph Brooks, H. C. Miner, E. G. Gilmore, Rose M. Leland, T. H. French, Mrs. Langtry, N. C. Goodwin Jr., Fanny Davenport, Joseph Murphy, Ruth S. Cowles, Clinton Stuart and H. G. Fiske. Ellie Wilton and A. M. Palmer will receive subscriptions.

— J. S. Clarke's season will close Feb. 18.

— Harry Dalton has retired from George L. Harrison's "Silver King" Co.

— Sam Reed retired from the Kate Castleton Co. recently. He did not wish to go to San Francisco.

— Henry Miller will leave the Lyceum Theatre stock, this city, at the close of the present season. May Robson, now in the Madison-square forces, will join the Lyceum company for the season of 1888-9.

— H. H. Periet, engaged as leader for Al. S. Phillips' "Faust" Co., has resigned, and there are again rumors that the troubles between Mr. Phillips and his backers have been renewed.

— Blanche Thorne, now with one of Gillette's "Held by the Enemy" Cos., was married at St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 9, by Rev. Edwin Benedict of Trinity Episcopal Church, to David C. Johnson, of the bookmakers' firm of Appleby & Johnson, of this city. Miss Thorne will retire from the stage in two weeks.

— W. O. Wheeler is at present in the city, where he arrived a week ago. He is here in the interests of Daniel Sully, of course, and has many novelties in progress, with which to boom his star. Mr. Sully plays Harlem next week, and will be on the Eastern circuits for several weeks to come. A city run will be inaugurated at an early date. Mr. Sully is busy on a new piece, and has it well in hand. He thinks it far ahead of anything he has ever attempted. Good business everywhere is the report Mr. Wheeler gives.

— The regular season of the "Hoodman Blind" Co. closes Feb. 25, after which date the company will be reorganized for a Spring tour.

— Mason Mitchell, dissatisfied with his assignment for "Cushla-ma-chree," has resigned from Dion Boucicault's Co.

— Samuel J. Ryan says that he has not joined the "Daniel Boone" Co., but has been with Geo. S. Knight, playing Bridget in "Over the Garden Wall," and in conjunction with Will H. Sloan, as Snitz, will play the same next season.

— T. C. Howard, leading-man of Clifton's "Ranch King" Co., has been re-engaged for the entire season, which extends over the territories and California circuit.

— H. T. Wilson announces that he is arranging a starring tour for Kate Purssell, in "Calamity Jane."

— Mrs. Mary H. Fiske is added to the list of people who are writing plays for J. S. Haworth.

— H. B. Warner has retired from the business-management of Dion Boucicault's tour.

— The stranding of Adelman's "May Blossom" Co. is referred to in our Milwaukee, Wis., letter.

— E. K. Collier soon adds "The Jewess" to his repertory.

— Prof. Thomas Ogden has organized a band and orchestra in Kokomo, Ind., which will probably take the road shortly. They made their first stand at the Kokomo, Ind., Opera-house Feb. 9. The roster is: Prof. Otto Remler, leader; W. Collins, second-violin; Prof. John Shawhan, trombone; J. L. Collins, basso; Chas. Pickett, clarionet, and T. Ogden, b flat cornet and manager.

— The Miner-Potter-Abbey difficulty was definitely and amicably settled last week. It is arranged that Manager Miner takes his option of a second season with Mrs. Potter, commencing March 19, and extending from that date over a period of three months. Mrs. Potter and the company will visit the Pacific coast, playing en route, and returning by way of the Northern Pacific Railroad. Mr. Miner, Mrs. Miner and Mr. and Mrs. Al. Hayman will visit California during Mrs. Potter's engagement, after which they will make a tour of all the places of interest on the Pacific coast, returning to this city about July 1. Mr. Miner and his family left for New Orleans Feb. 9, and will be at the opening of Mrs. Potter's engagement in that city, 13. Afterwards Mr. Miner will do a little shooting in Southern Louisiana and Florida. Mr. Miner has waived all claims on Mrs. Potter for the season of 1888-9, and thus the lady will be free to star under Henry E. Abbey's management, as has already been announced she would. For her Spring trip under Mr. Miner Mrs. Potter will receive a percentage of the profits, we believe, in addition to a salary.

— Constance Hamblin, who for some time has been leading-lady with T. W. Keene's Co., is making rapid strides toward the front rank in her chosen profession, and winning many friends wherever she appears. While in Winona, Minn., recently an informal reception was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Langley, at which a number of the leading citizens of the town were present. The next day another reception was held in honor of Miss Hamblin, when a large number of ladies and gentlemen of the best society in St. Paul and Winona attended, including ex-Gov. and Mrs. Yale. Miss Hamblin is a descendant of a well-known theatrical family, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hamblin (Mrs. Shaw), and was named Constance in honor of Mrs. Shaw's favorite role.

— May Waldron has re-engaged with Robson and Crane for 1888-9.

— "Papa" Ryan, stage-doorkeeper of the Union-square Theatre, this city, will celebrate his eighty-third birthday Feb. 20.

— Edwin Booth's collection of historical theatrical portraits has been recently enriched by the addition of a score of valuable pictures, the gift of J. S. Clarke.

— Chas. L. Davis will play a week in New York during May. He has completed arrangements to produce his new piece in this city early in the Fall, playing at two of the theatres, one week each. He has great confidence in his new drama, and thinks it will more than duplicate the success of "Alvin Joslin," which has made so large a fortune for him. The present season has been a great one. His travels have extended from one end of the continent to the other, and the season is not half over.

— C. H. Mestayer requests us to deny that he ever had anything to do with H. W. Browne in the management of "The Tourista," or in fact with the management of any other company. Mr. Mestayer says he has always played under a salary, and does not wish to be paraded as a manager.

— Phosa McAllister appeared in Justice Engel's Court, Williamsburg, L. I., Feb. 11, to answer the complaint of William Lee of her company, who sued for $60 wages. He got the money.

— Rosa Hall (Mrs. Charles Bachmann) has been very ill for the past three or four weeks at her home in Cincinnati, O.

— Fanny Delano, of the "Passion's Slave" Co., has resumed work again in the role of Pattie. Her rest was of short duration.

— According to a complaint from Walter Loftus, at first agent and afterwards treasurer of the "May Blossom" Co., the manager of that company, Joseph S. Adelman, suddenly left Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 5, with the major portion of the funds. Mr. Loftus also states that but for the kindly aid of a philanthropic relative of one of the members of the company, the whole party would have been placed in a sad fix, with bitter prospects of reaching home. Mr. Adelman, he adds, was with Janauschek for two or three seasons, and afterwards assumed the role of Jagon in "The Stranglers of Paris," previously filled by Newton Beers. Prior to his management of the ill-fated "May Blossom" Co. he had been playing Steve Harland in support of Benj. Maginley. His parents, it is said, are quite wealthy, and reside in this city.

— In a recent interview Dion Boucicault put himself on record as in favor of moderate ($1 down) theatre-prices.

— "Punch" Wheeler's latest and funniest: "I have just made arrangements with the Postmaster-general to put Newton Beers' portrait on the new two-cent stamps—a meritorious piece of advertising agility."

— Harry Colton of "A Great Wrong" Co., who had lately been seriously affected with rheumatic troubles, is again in harness and playing his former role.

— Charles Brickwood left Loranger's National Theatre Co. Feb. 6 at Mechanic Falls, Me., on account of ill-health. Louis Gorton has been engaged to fill the vacancy.

CIRCUS, VARIETY AND MINSTREL.

THE LATE LEW JUNE'S features will be easily recognized by followers of the white tents, and, indeed, by a large portion of the amusement-loving public, to whose pleasure he catered so long and so brilliantly. A sketch of his life appeared in THE CLIPPER two weeks ago.

IN London, Eng., Feb 12, a pack of caged wolves escaped from Sanger's Circus. The elephants, camels, horses and other animals became mad with terror, and were liberated with difficulty. The wolves were trapped in a stable, where they furiously devoured a horse already slain.

GEO. WHITCOMB, a costume-peddler of Boston, Mass., was found dead in his house in that city Feb. 8. Foul play is suspected, as he is said to have had money.

MAY STOVER, a variety actress, was married to Lawrence Trimble, son of the late Judge Trimble, of Covington, Ky., in Cincinnati, O., Feb. 3, and on 8 she applied to Judge Kumler of the Court of Common Pleas of Cincinnati for a writ to secure the release of her husband from a sanitarium, where, she asserted, he had been placed, at the instance of his mother. The writ was granted.

DICK MOROSCO has joined the stock at Miner's Bowery Theatre, this city.

LESTER AND WILLIAMS, Wood and Sheppard, Dan Mason, Webster and Brady, Maggie Cline and the Inman Sisters comprise the troupe at the Grand Theatre, Williamsburg, N. Y., this week, billed as the Howard Athenæum Co., No. 2.

LORETT closed with Hi Henry's Minstrels Feb. 7, and went to his home in Oswego, N. Y., on account of the illness of his wife. The Shelly Bros. took his place with the company.

JAMES T. SPROAT, in behalf of the Rochester, N. Y., Lodge of Elks, presented Carrie De Hass, of Eduard and Caroline De Hass, with a basket of flowers, Feb. 3, at the Casino Theatre, that city.

THE roster of Duncan Clark's reorganized minstrels is: Clark and Evans, Billy Lee, Haynes and Leigh, Maude Gerald, Oona and Nina, St. Julien, Gilson and Miles, the Quaker and Charles F. Haynes. This is Mr. Haynes' return to his first love.

THE Weston Bros. inform us that J. W. Randolph is no longer connected with their company.

THE Guy Bros.' Minstrels and Specialty Co. gave a benefit to the Fire Relief Co. of Mount Holly, N. J., Feb. 8, to "Standing-room Only," we are informed, and have been requested to return. The company report good business all along the line.

LOUIS DE CASTRO is spending a few weeks at his home in Jacksonville, Fla. He has signed with J. M. Barry's International Circus and Menagerie for the third season.

THE roster of Mme. Thompson's Glassblowers and Novelty Troupe, as reorganized, is: Prof Wm. Thompson (of elephant fame), proprietor and manager; Chas. Shields, advance-manager; Madame Thompson, and Profs. Thompson, Reubens, Herrnam and Carver, glassblowers; Nellie Ma Janta, snake-charmer; Mlle. Olivia, albino and mind-reader, and Prof. Griffin, wonder worker, director of amusements. Prof. Thompson calls this show "The Guinea Pig," a slang phrase, we presume, for "Mascot." They opened at Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 13 for an indefinite period.

ANNIE FLORENCE will be hereafter known as Annie Beudon, her marital name.

JULIA BENNETT informs us that her husband, Tom McGill of McGill and Ryland, sketch-team, died in St. Mary's Hospital, San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 3, of consumption, aged thirty-three years.

CHAS. ANDRESS contemplates starting his tenting campaign at Louisville, Ky., about the middle of April. The company are playing in the South, and have found good business. Harry and Mary Miron have signed for the season.

EDWIN FRENCH closed at Dockstader's, this city, Feb. 9. He proposes to play dates, his first being at Tony Pastor's, March 5.

LEE, the juggler, has fully recovered from the illness caused by his broken ankle. He is now in Colorado.

IT is reported that Barnum & Bailey have been looking at the Casanova property, in the Twenty-third Ward, this city, and near the N. Y., N. H. and H. R. R., with a view to establish their Winter-quarters there. The lot is about eighty acres. Mr. Bailey is anxious to make the deal, but nothing has yet been decided upon.

BILLY WATSON, of Gardner and Watson, wears a handsome gold watch and chain—a present from his wife.

HARRY HARDY, the cornettist, has joined Gormans' Minstrels.

GEORGE THATCHER, George H. Primrose, William H. West and Manager H. J. Sayers were among CLIPPER visitors Feb. 10. The minstrels were in a merry mood, consequent upon the amicable adjustment of their difference with A. M. Palmer, as above detailed. They had made an inspection of the Tombs, and Mr. Thatcher had been accidentally locked in the cell of Driscoll, the late Whyo murderer. As an early-morning episode, this seemed to "go;" but it did not last long. Manager Sayers had his customary report of steadily large business—a report, it is fair to say, that has been endorsed by THE CLIPPER correspondents everywhere. There have been no important changes in the company's roster of late. Next season they will offer some novelties of conspicuous attractiveness.

AL. G. FIELD'S MINSTRELS were met at Guthrie, Ky., last week by an officer from Glasgow, Ky., with an order for Mr. Field Lawrence Diamond and Louis Behlen, but they managed to elude him, and are still on their travels.

H. R. WESLEY writes us that Wesley and Ward have closed with Sparks Bros.' Co. and dissolved partnership.

AT Sedalia, Mo., Feb. 10, there was born to Mrs. Millie Williams a child whose face was covered with long, silken blonde hair, and whose nose, mouth and ears resembled those of a dog. The mother asserts that she was frightened last Summer by seeing Jo-Jo, the dog-faced boy, with the Barnum Circus.

THE breach-of-contract suit of A. M. Palmer against Thatcher, Primrose & West was amicably settled in this city, before Judge O'Brien, Feb. 10, the minstrel firm paying $1,000. This is to be considered a victory for them. Mr. Palmer originally sued for a much larger amount. The suit grew out of the agreement of T., P. and W. to play a long sharing season at the Madison-square Theatre, this city, in the Summer of 1886. They subsequently refused to carry out their contract, on the ground that Mr. Palmer had not only refused to properly advance their interests, but had also slurringly referred to the approaching engagement by stating that at its close "he supposed he would have to fumigate the theatre." Mr. Palmer denied all this, and brought suit. The case had been through the usual series of delays before its final disposition. When the case opened in court Feb. 10 counsel for T., P. & W. announced that a very important witness, Richard Mansfield, was not present, and had refused to obey a subpœna. He asked for an attachment against him. The attachment was granted against the actor, but the case was settled before he was needed.

P. HENDERSON, of Henderson and Russell, while visiting Philadelphia, Pa., last week, purchased a brick residence and store. He intends going into the retail shoe business about June 1.

LOUISE STETSON, skipping-rope dancer, was married to David Wehner of Watertown, Wis., Jan. 19, at St. Paul, Minn.

AT the Florence Music Hall, Bridgeport, Ct., this week: Dick Mack, Emma Colter, Boinson, Annie Murtha, Vinnie Stuart, Maude Wilson and W. J. Cook.

H. K. LONG and wife (Maggie Claire) arrived on the Etruria from Liverpool Feb. 12. They left immediately for their home in Detroit.

THE latest engagements with the Walter L. Main Circus for 1888 are: Giles Pullman, general-agent; Dwight Clapp, contracting-agent; Ernest Houghton, boss-hostler; Curley Platner, boss-canvasman; W. H. Snekley, boss property-man; Billie Wiley, head-cook; Williard A. Damon, treasurer; Signor Down, knockabout-clown; W. Reanik, grotesque-clown; Wm. Lucifer, contortionist. The show will open about April 28, and will go East again. Much of the stuff will be new.

MANAGER WILLIAM HARRIS will sail for Europe May 10, and will spend the Summer in searching for novelties for the Howard Athenæum Star Specialty and the Combined Kernell Attractions.

MYLES MORRIS has returned from his tour of Pennsylvania and disbanded his Irish opera company, to be reorganized after the Lenten season.

HARRY THORNE and Maggie Willett deny that they are at the head of any particular company. In correction of our Portland, Me., telegraphic item of last week, they assert that they did open there then, and are at present filling a team-engagement at that place.

IT IS reported that Manager Renz, of circus fame in Germany, is soon to build a new hippodrome in Hamburg, somewhat similar to the one in Paris.

FOREIGN.

CZIBULKA, the composer of "Amorita," which had a successful run at the Casino two years ago, has written a new opera, which is called "A Wight of Fortune."

MME. COQUELIN, mother of the French actor, is now well on toward her seventieth year, and lives with her sons in Paris. While their own apartments are furnished with every luxury demanded by modern taste, the old lady has her rooms fitted up with the simplicity which characterized her peasant days in Boulogne.

SIR ARTHUR SULLIVAN is ill in London, Eng., as the result of over-exertion.

MARIE GEISTINGER says she will retire to private life at the close of her present successful engagement in Berlin, Ger.

"ARIADNE," instead of "Wedlock," was finally settled on as the title of Mrs. Campbell-Praed's dramatization of her novel, "Born in Wedlock." The piece received its premier Jan. 8, at the Opera Comique, London, Eng. It is credited with feebleness and repulsiveness of plot, and the production, even with a strong cast (including, as it did, such popular people as Mrs. Bernard-Beere, Laura Linden, Henry Melville and M. Marius), was a pronounced failure.

MARIE GORDON, the divorced wife of the late John T. Raymond, is reported to be seriously ill at Maidenhead, Eng., and grave hopes are entertained for her recovery.

THE will of the late Mme. Otto Goldschmidt (Jennie Lind) bequeaths to her grandson the cabinet of books presented to her by New York fire companies. The freehold estate is bequeated to her husband. A legacy of 50,000 Swedish crowns is bequeathed to the university at Upsala, Sweden, for the maintenance of poor students. The university at Lund, Sweden, receives 5,000 crowns, to be applied to the aid of poor students who propose entering the ministry of the Protestant Church. The personal property of the dead singer is valued at £40,630.

JUSTIN MCCARTHY has written a new play, called "The Red Rag," for J. L. Toole, who is still too ill to act.

PATTI will sail for South America March 8. She is now touring Spain with great success.

MARIE VAN ZANDT is to sing fifteen nights in St. Petersburg and ten in Moscow.

BARRY SULLIVAN, who has been at Carlsbad for his health, is soon expected in England, having entirely recovered. He will rest until September, and then start on a protracted tour through England, after which he contemplates a five months' trip through America, and then a tour to Australia for a season.

ROBERT BUCHANAN has completed a dramatization of Fielding's novel, "Joseph Andrews." The piece is now being rehearsed at the Vaudeville Theatre, London, Eng., and is to follow "Fascination," which has attracted disappointing patronage.

"PARTED ON THEIR BRIDAL TOUR," the new play recently done at Sadler's Wells Theatre, London, Eng., was written by Laura Jean Libbey, an American lady. It was performed for copyright purposes.

"BABETTE" closed Feb. 11 an unsuccessful run at the Strand Theatre, London, Eng. Willie Edouin has taken the lease of this house.

LATEST reports from Paris, Fr., of the proposed rebuilding of the Opera Comique convey the idea that the arrangements are not completed, and are not likely to be for some time to come.

"LE PROCES FERNAUD," a three-act comedy by Busnach and Canbar, received its premier Jan. 15, at the Moliene Theatre, Brussels, Bel. A pleasing reception was accorded the play.

"LA DAME DU MOUSSEREAU," at the Paris Opera, has been a failure, in consequence of which Ambroise Thomas has agreed to give the management his three-act ballet of "The Tempest," from Shakespeare, some time during April.

GOUNOD recently led "Faust" for the first time in Angers, Fr. Palms and laurels, woven into a crown, were offered to the composer.

"HAMLET" is to be revived at the Paris Opera, with Fides Devries as Ophelia.

MME. CELINE MONTALAND and MM. Traffier and Boucher have recently been elected societaires at the Theatre Francais, Paris, Fr. They each received one-quarter of a share.

A LETTER of Richard Wagner's, dated April 2, 1861, was sold recently in Paris, Fr., for ninety-nine francs.

HELEN BARRY appeared in "Arkwright's Wife" afternoon of Feb. 14, at the Prince of Wales' Theatre, London, Eng. "The Postcript," a new drama by F. Hamilton-Knight, was included in the performance.

"DECORE," a three-act comedy by H. Meilhac, was performed Jan. 27 for the first time at the Varieties Theatre, Paris, Fr. The play is highly spoken of.

"WELL PLAYED, OR THE MAJOR'S DILEMMA," a farcical effort in one act, by A. F. Knight, received a favorable premier Jan. 28, at the Assembly Rooms, Uxbridge, Eng.

"LOVE AND HALFPENCE," a comedietta, by William Poel, was produced Jan. 31, at St. George's Hall, London, Eng.

IF rumor be correct, Edgar Bruce has taken the Royalty Theatre, London, Eng.

"HIS ROMANCE," a farcical-comedy from the German of "Michael Klapp," is announced for a matinee performance Feb. 16, at the Olympic Theatre, London, Eng.

SOME NEW PLAYS.

Dion Boucicault's "Cushla-machree" a New Version of "Guy Mannering."

Dion Boucicault will, for the first time on any stage, make known his new play, "Cushla-machree," at the Hollis-street Theatre, Boston, Mass., Feb. 20. It is derived from the novel, "Guy Mannering." When Mr. Boucicault derived his drama, "The Colleeen Bawn," from Gerald Griffin's novel, "The Collegians," he was not deterred by the fact that this story had been previously dramatized. A play entitled 'Eily O'Connor" was performed in 1828, with Helen Tree as the heroine, but the work was a failure. In like manner, "The Heart of Midlothian" and "Rip Van Winkle" had appeared in dramatic form before he wrote his version, "Jeanie Deans," and before he had given the inestimable "Rip" to Joseph Jefferson. Once more he has chosen a popular novel to present a new version of "Guy Mannering," transferring the scene to Ireland, and, discarding all the scenes which appear in the old piece, he constructs a work entirely dissimilar from the old play which is known to the stage. The first act begins with the eviction of the cotters that nestle on the mountain lands of Timoleague, the murder of the landlord, Sir Garret O'Neale, and the stealing of the child. Here we find a character which corresponds with the Meg Merrilies of Scott, but who is a young and brawny peasant girl, one of the evicted O'Fails, the foster-mother of the stolen boy. Twenty years elapse. The boy returns, but is ignorant of his true name. Morna O'Fail, a beggar woman, is now a crazy but stalwart vagrant. She recognizes him. He is also recognized by the man who holds possession of Timoleague, and by whose machinations he is thrown into prison. The Bridewell is attacked by a gang of smugglers and set on fire while he is locked in his cell, from which he is set free by the vagrant, who is familiar with every window and cell in the jail. The links in the chain of incidents are to be found in Scott, but were ignored in the older drama. The part of an Irish farmer, played by Mr. Boucicault, corresponds with that of Daniel Dinmont. The new play is in four acts, and contains eighteen scenes, of which five are strong features of a melodramatic kind, the eviction, the murder on the Giant's Causeway, the ruined village, the Irish farmer's fireside and the destruction of the Bridgewell at Portrush.

"The Light on the Point."

Waldron and Fay's new four-act drama, "The Light on the Point," was first publicly produced at Stamford, Ct., Jan. 31. The plot of the piece has little depth, and interest is maintained by appropriate stage-settings, startling situations and unexpected turns, which serve to delay the climax and hold the audience good-natured. It opens with a scene of Nantucket Island. Ned Buckley a young fisherman, and Ralston Coles, a polished villain, being in love with Julia Coe, the heroine and pretty daughter of Capt. Dan Coe. Ned's love is reciprocated, and he is also loved by Clara Monett, who has been ruined by Coles. By the aid of Clara Monett, who becomes his tool, Coles contrives a meeting between himself and Julia to be witnessed by Ned, who is led to believe that Julia is untrue to him, and in consequence he leaves home and takes to drink. Dick Clincher, a broken-down sport who has a grudge against Coles, learning of the scheme against Ned Buckley, starts out to find him and square things. He finds Ned at Glen Island intoxicated, but, having occasion to leave him, Buckley strolls off and Coles takes his seat. Upon Clincher's return he mistakes his man for Buckley, and tells him what was intended for Buckley. Coles, finding himself about to be exposed, undertakes and apparently kills Clincher. Julia appears on the scene in time to see the murder, but Coles, disappearing as Buckley appears, she mistakes the one for the other, and accuses her lover, who, being drunk, is doubtful whether he is guilty or not, and is jailed at New Rochelle, where he is visited by Coles, who acknowledges his love for Julia and makes propositions for Buckley's release on conditions which are not accepted. In the heat of passion Coles accuses Buckley of killing his own friend, Dick Clincher. Clincher, not having been killed, as supposed, appears alive, the tables are turned, Ned is freed, marries Julia, and Ralstin Coles makes his escape, only to be captured in the last act, and is accused of a multitude of sins. Clara Monett, thinking nothing is left to her but disgrace, tries to drown herself, but is rescued by gipsies, and finds happiness in being forgiven by those to whom she unintentionally was the means of causing sorrow.

"Masquerade."

Agnes Herndon's new play, "Masquerade," is, we believe, an adaptation from a German source by Scott Marble, and was originally acted at Rockford, Ill., Feb. 2. The first act opens in the home of Senator Butler, who, in order to ascertain the views of a political opponent on the tariff, instructs his servants to interview his antagonist's help, and is somewhat amazed to find out that these tactics have already been used by the opposition. At that moment a note is brought in, requesting him to be at the masquerade that night, where he will hear something to his advantage. The note is in a feminine hand, and is signed "W. X. Y." In order to avert the suspicion which his absence would arouse, he makes a row at the dinner-table, objects to the food, etc., and breaks things generally. This causes his wife's ire to rise, and she, in turn, demolishes what few things are left. The row is immediately followed by his exit in a tearing rage, when he again spies the note, and resolves to impersonate "W. X. Y." by dressing in a pink domino and a black mask. In the second act, Mrs. Senator Butler, accompanied by Kittie Clyde and Dr. Joseph Barnacle, arrives at the ball and immediately recognizes her husband; but her courage fails her, and she tries to avoid him. He follows her so persistently that she calls on "a young man from the country" for protection. In act three the young man brings his charge to his own apartments in a dead faint, when on her recovery she insists upon being taken to her own home. He goes for a cab, but brings instead a lunch. A knock is heard at the door. He kisses the woman in the bedroom, when her husband rushes in, having been pursued by the police. He has heard voices, and, seeing the lunch spread for two, accuses the farmer of being a sly dog, etc. He asks to see the female in the next room, and on being refused, will not stir unless a cab is called, which the farmer immediately proceeds to get. During his absence, the husband knocks on the door of the bedroom, and Mrs. Senator Butler steps out. The Senator recognizes his pink domino and black mask of the ball. The two sit down to lunch, during which a rather witty dialogue takes place. The Senator insists on having a kiss, when the farmer comes in and the lady tells him in a side-whisper that it is her husband, but that she must not be exposed. The farmer tells the Senator aside that she is a blackmailer. The Senator tries to escape as the police break in. Mrs. Butler bids them both good-night, leaving them under arrest. In the fourth act Mrs. Butler endeavors to convince her husband that it was Kittie Clyde that he had the appointment with. The countryman becomes engaged to Kittie, and all ends happily.

"A Drummer's Life."

Charles Bassett's new play, "A Drummer's Life," was originally acted at Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 6. The story is twined around a young girl who is left an orphan, with a large fortune, under the guardianship of Archibald Farnsworth, a merchant in New York. He adopts her as his own child, and gives to her his name. She marries Will Stanley, a young drummer. Richard Carroll, a salesman in the employ of Farnsworth, and a villain at heart, learns of Farnsworth's secret and the fortune possessed by Mary. He accuses Stanley of theft, and has him sent to prison. He then attempts to abduct the young wife, but is thwarted by Jakey Einstein. Stanley escapes from prison, and, with his wife and Jeanette Guinot, a young Frenchwoman who has rendered valuable assistance, makes his way to Nebraska. Carroll, also afraid of justice, goes thither, and sends for Farnsworth. He offers to sell the will he had stolen, which gave all the fortune to Mary, to Farnsworth, but Jakey steals the will and the money. In the confusion Farnsworth is shot, and has only time to confess that he is not the real father of Mary. Carroll is denounced and is given into the hands of the cowboys to meet his fate before Judge Lynch.

NEBRASKA.

OMAHA.—At Boyd's Opera-house, Helen Blythe in "Only a Woman's Heart" comes Feb. 15, 16, and Hanlon Bros.' "Fantasma" 23, 24, 25. Clara Morris 6, 7, 8, p'eased large audiences. Hoyt's "A Hole in the Ground" 9, 10, 11 was largely attended.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.—This house will be dark all of the present week excepting night of 17, when Mrs. Scott Siddons will appear. "A Night Off" 6, 7, 8, had only fair business.

RHODE ISLAND.

PROVIDENCE.—Business was generally good the past week. "The Arabian Nights" drew fairly well at the Providence Opera-house. At the Comique, a first-rate variety show was given to fair attendance. Manager Magee's friends turned out in full force 10, and gave him a rousing benefit. The house was well filled in the afternoon and packed at night, despite a disagreeable snowstorm. In addition to the regular bill the following athletes appeared: Mike Daly, Pete McCoy and Jim Butler, Jack Falvey and Jack Havelin, Frank Steele and Al. Jansen, and Fred Law and Jim Eaton. At the Westminster Musee and Gaiety Museum business was very good.

PROVIDENCE OPERA-HOUSE.—"Lost in New York" opened Feb. 13, for four nights. "A Tin Soldier" follows 17, and will close the week. "Held by the Enemy" will be presented week of 20, for the benefit of the Providence Firemen's Relief Association.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—Lilly Clay's Gaiety Co. began a week's stay 20.

WESTMINSTER MUSEE.—The management have taken a new departure, and announce a decided change in the character of the entertainments at this house. Hereafter comedy-dramas and burlesques are to constitute the chief attractions. Week of 20, the Agnes Wallace-Villa Co. appear in "Pocahontas," "Jack" and "A Night's Adventure." In the exhibition halls: Pierano's educated rats, a troupe of performing birds, Frederick, magician, and the illusion "Galatea."

Diamond writes that he has returned from the Continent to London, Eng., for a six months' stay, and that he was recently made a Mason.....Manager Gus Mortimer has sold his cottage at Riverside, R. I.....Augusta Chambers, the actress who has been spending several weeks in this city, has gone to Rochester, N. Y., where she is the guest of friends.

WESTERLY.—At Bliven's Opera-house, Feb. 9, Peck & Fursman's "Daniel Boone" Co. drew a large and appreciative audience. Briscoe's Battle of Gettysburg 24, 25.....J. C. Knapp was here 9, arranging for the appearance of Hi Henry's Minstrels at Armory Hall, 15.....At Bliven's Rink, 4, the New Bedfords defeated the home team in a game of polo, 14 to 5.....J. Frank Stanley, the museum lecturer, of this city, has nearly completed his book entitled "Twenty Years' Experience with the Celebrated Freaks of the Old and New World".....Professionals visiting the city can always find THE CLIPPER on file at the Bijou Cigar-store, on High street. I mention this because there is such a demand here for the "Old Reliable" that the large supply is soon exhausted after its welcome arrival on Thursday.....While Peck & Fursman's "Daniel Boone" Co. was here Feb. 9 a writ of arrest was served on W. A. Lavelle, who takes the character of Col. Daniel Boone, to satisfy a claim of $148.41 in favor of Stiffor & Hunt of Franklin, Pa. Rather than cause any delay the amount and costs of suit was promptly paid by the company.

VIRGINIA.

RICHMOND.—Louis James and Marie Wainwright attracted large audiences to the Richmond Theatre Feb. 8, 9. Miss Wainwright was the recipient of floral offerings each night, besides being tendered several invitations to social entertainments. Geo. S. Knight is billed for 17, 18.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—Gloom reigned here last week. The National Opera Co. appears 13–15. The advance sale is enormous. Edmund Collier 17, 18.

FORD'S OPERA-HOUSE.—The Hollywoods proved drawing cards, and were greeted by large audiences. Week of 13, "A Hoop of Gold."

MUSEE MUSIC HALL.—Due 13, Lillie Ellis and Mamie Chandler. Business continues flourishing.

PUTNAM'S THEATRE COMIQUE.—New people week of 13: Sadie Conley, Lizzie Ray, Pearl Davis and May Bellina. Business has been good.

LYNCHBURG.—At the Opera-house Feb. 6, Louis James and Marie Wainwright did very nicely. Geo. S. Knight comes 20.....At the Bijou Theatre 6, Chas. Andress' Carnival of Novelties and Trained Animal Shows did a tremendous business the entire week. Nothing is announced.....Harry Rouclere, the juggler, has been suffering from a lame foot. His heel had to be lanced.

"Paradise."

Gen. Lloyd S. Bryce's novel, "Paradise," is in its second edition. Funk & Wagnalls (18 and 20 Astor place, this city) have published it in attractive form, and from its low price it is destined for popular and wide circulation. The story is bright and sprightly, the plot simple, the diction charming, and the dialogue uncommonly crisp and natural. The author has taken for his theme the social and moral confusion wrought by our conflicting and loosely-drawn divorce laws. It is, we believe, Gen. Bryce's first story. He does not write like a novice, and, indeed, we shall be surprised if another book does not come from his pen at no distant day.

ILLINOIS.

CHICAGO.—Handsome gowns and a stately presence were not sufficient to keep people pushing each other in their anxiety to see Mrs. Langtry in "As In a Looking-glass" at McVicker's. Her houses were good enough, it is true, but there was no spontaniety of enthusiasm, and after a few nights it was decided to put on "A Wife's Peril" Jan. 13, and on 15 "Lady Clancarty" will be presented, with Chas. Coghlan in Maurice Barrymore's place as leading-man.

CHICAGO OPERA-HOUSE.—In spite of its age, "Adonis" packed the house nightly for a week, and on 13 "Natural Gas" was turned on for the first time in Chicago. Kiralfys' "Around the World" will follow.

HOOLEY'S THEATRE.—Two weeks of "My Brother's Sister" added a neat little sum to Minnie Palmer's bank account. "Jim the Penman" opened 13, and Joseph Murphy is underlined.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.—The four weeks' engagement of Aronson's Co. ended 11, with "The Marquis." Good business was enjoyed throughout the month. Julia Marlowe made her first Chicago appearance in a mixed repertory 13. Next, "Deacon Brodie."

COLUMBIA THEATRE.—Good business continues to reward "A Dark Secret," which runs one more week. On 8 John B. Carson took possession of the theatre, because the Columbia Theatre Co., which leases the building, defaulted the payment of a month's rent—$3,600—and by the terms of the contract made in February, 1885, for ten years, Mr. Carson, owner of the building, was given power to annul the contract upon ten days' default in the payment of any rent instalment. The yearly rental is $36,000, exclusive of heating and light, which is heavier rental than is paid by any other theatre in this city. Mr. Carson built the theatre for Mr. Haverly in 1882, and when that gentleman went under J. M. Hill assumed the management, through Mr. McConnell, and controlled the house for two years. The stock of the company is $200,000, originally owned by J. M. Hill, Margaret Mather, D. K. Hill and C. H. McConnell. Daniel Shelby became manager July 24, 1887, having paid $30,500 for McConnell's stock—$10,500 cash and notes for $30,000. The stock was bought at fifty cents on the dollar. On 8 the stockholders decided to elect Mr. Shelby president, but before they met again Mr. Carson surprised them by taking possession of the house, and they have not decided just what they will do, though they are determined to fight for their rights. Mr. Shelby lays the blame for the losses the house has sustained this season upon the mediocre attractions Mr. Hill has persisted in booking. He continues as manager, at Mr. Carson's request.

HAYMARKET THEATRE.—"The Still Alarm" continued to add fame to Chicago's newest theatre—and incidentally dollars. Mrs. McKee Rankin went on 12 with "The Golden Giant," and Kate Castleton is underlined.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—Salsbury's Troubadours were on week of 6, and were followed by Katie Putnam.

WINDSOR THEATRE.—"Town Lots," being a novelty here, drew well. Its amusing satires on the various phases of booming a paper city, were heartily enjoyed. Hardie and Von Leer went on 13

CRITERION THEATRE.—Hundreds of John Dillon's old friends took advantage of the opportunity last week to enjoy a good laugh over Mr. Dillon's humor in "Wanted, the Earth." J. J. Dowling is now on, with "Never Say Die."

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.—The enthusiasm was intense last week while J. J. Dowling was presenting "Never Say Die." It was one of the most exciting weeks the house has ever had, people standing on the seats every night. "My Aunt Bridget" commenced 13.

CASINO THEATRE.—Crowded houses ruled while the Australian Novelty Co. held the boards last week. "Parson" Davies' New Athletic Co., with Wm. Muldoon and Evan Lewis, opened 13.

STANDARD THEATRE.—Silbons' Co. had a good week with "The Yellow-dwarf." Now on: Scott & Mills' "Chip o' the Old Block."

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Howard's Magnets drew in all the people in that vicinity last week. New York Counts are the current attractions.

OLYMPIC THEATRE.—Sheehan & Coyne's Boston Specialty Co. filled in a big week 6. Charley Shay's Co. is on.

EPSTEAN'S MUSEUM.—Week of 13: George Clark, Aggie Zoluta, Gen. Taylor, Little Morgs, Whiting's Specialty Co., Hume's Spirit Cabinet.

KOHL & MIDDLETON'S MUSEUM.—Zip and Shoo Fly, Italian Circus, Goddess of Love, Fiji cannibals, East India mermaid, Canadian giant, Huber, Castellat's Novelty Co., Richmond's Toboggan Carnival Co.

DIXEY IN TROUBLE.—Just before H. E. Dixey came to the Chicago Opera-house, Manager Henderson told Wm. Riley, the bookmaker, that the $1,140 Mr. Dixey had lost at the races last Summer and forgotten to pay would be settled. Al. Hankins was paid $300 to settle a claim of the same sort, and it was supposed no other trouble would turn up, but Duncan B. Harrison came in with a claim of $1,964, and on 9 a deputy sheriff sneaked into the theatre and attached nearly all of Mr. Dixey's wardrobe and a ruby and diamond scarf pin. Mr. Dixey recovered his property temporarily by giving bonds for $4,000. He says he lost the money to Mr. Harrison in a game of hearts where the betting was supposed not to "go." This Mr. Harrison denies, and claims the money was a legitimate debt, though he declines to say how it was contracted. He says he has held Mr. Dixey's note for the amount for over a year. On 4 A. Steinau Jr. of Cincinnati commenced an attachment suit for $1,000 against Edward E. Rice for some diamonds bought by that gentleman, who gave a draft for $225, a note for the same amount and paid the balance in cash. The note and draft are still unpaid, according to Mr. Steinau. On 10 Walker & Co., commission merchants, sued Mr. Rice for a balance of $700, alleged to be due on a New York grain deal of $1,500. Mr. Dixey payed out about $3,000 on account of old debts last week, and all his creditors were satisfied either by ready money or secured notes; but some claims remained in the hands of constables, who would not be put off. Constable Gleason, with a half-dozen aids, waited at the stage door 11, until the property of the company was placed on trucks, to be taken to the depot. He said he had a claim of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad for $750, and a judgment in favor of a New York broker (Harrison) for $1,900. He levied on the property and scenery, and put a custodian to watch it. The constable threatened if not satisfied that the property would not get on the cars, but it started for Baltimore.

HERE AND THERE.—C. Clifton McCarthy, colored, was fined $10, 7, by Justice Kersten for peeping through a window in the Windsor Theatre to watch Marguerite Fish dress.....The stockholders of the Chicago Opera-house Building Co. have elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, W. D. Kerfoot; vice-president, Chas. Henroun; treasurer, Geo. Schneider; secretary, Edmund Gorvett; directors—W. D. Kerfoot, W. W. Shaw, Chas. Henrotin, Wm. A. Hammond, Edward Koch, Geo. Schneider, M. Born, C. H. Marshall, O. K. A. Hutchinson, Luther Stone, E. W. Gillett. .....Joseph S. Adelman's "May Blossom" Co. came to Chicago 8 from Milwaukee, stranded. They say they started from New York Sept. 26 and played one-night stands until they struck Milwaukee Feb. 5.....Mrs. Scott-Siddons gave a fairly-attended reading 11.

BLOOMINGTON.—At the Durley Theatre, Agnes Herndon presented "Masquerade" to a fair-sized audience 3. "May Blossom" 4 had a packed house. Barry and Fay followed 6 to big business in "McKenna's Flirtation." Vernona Jarbeau presented "Starlight" to a large audience 9. Coming: "Hidden Hand" 10, Gormans' Minstrels (return date) 11, "Town Lots" 13, 14, Kate Castleton 16, Kate Bensberg 18.....The Opera-house, after being dark for two weeks, opened 6 with Kate Fielding's Comedy Ideals for a week's run to fair audiences. Coming: "High Old Time" 13, 14, 15.....A. M. Hill, in advance of Kate Fielding, resigned here 6.....Byron Von Elsner, in advance of Gormans' Minstrels, spent 9, 10 with his folks here.....Dora Boyd and Miss La Verne, of "May Blossom," are at Miss Boyd's home in this city, the company having disbanded in Milwaukee.....Wm. Norris, of the Durley Orchestra, is very ill with typhoid malaria.

ROCK ISLAND.—Coming: The Griffith Co. Feb. 16. "Sam'l of Posen" 9 had a fair house. "Thrown Upon the World," booked for 12, is reported to have disbanded. After the performance of 16 the theatre will be closed for repairs.

EVANSVILLE.—At the Opera-house, Edwin Arden opened Feb. 7 in "Eagle's Nest" to a fair-sized audience. On 8 he gave the first performance of his new play, "Barred Out," Mr. Arden, the author, appearing in the leading-role. The play is one of much merit, being taken from Mr. Colman's novel, "Curly the Actor." Kate Castleton drew a full house 9 in "Crazy Patch," and made an immense hit. Coming: Emily Soldene's Burlesque Co. 13, Rhea 15, 16, "A Bunch of Keys" 20, Roland Reed 24, and for week commencing 27 Bennett & Moulton's Opera Co.....At Albecker's Apollo Theatre, Alfred F. Misco's "Magic Talisman" came 8 for three nights on very short notice. Business was light. Al. G. Field's Minstrels will do well 11, 12. .....At Cahn's Winter Garden: Lillie De Gray, Ida Reynolds, Bessie Vincent and Alice Vincent.

DECATUR.—Benj. Maginley was not booked at the Opera-house Feb. 7, as announced last week. The date was filled by Goodman's Band of this city, who gave a grand concert to a full house. Frederic Bryton's "Forgiven" 8 drew fairly well. Vernona Jarbeau's return 10 in "Starlight" was a crusher. The "S. R. O." sign was out long before the curtain went up. Kate Bensberg's Opera Co. 11, Gorman Bros' Minstrels 13, Kate Castleton 15, Minnie Maddern 22, "Sam'l of Posen" 23.....The Maude Atkinson Co. were at Maroa, Ill., week of 6. Manager R. J. Johnston made us two visits during the engagement.....Ben F. Dodson, ahead of "Sam'l of Posen;" John Harpstrite, manager of the Arion Bellringers, and Fred O. Jones, recently with the Belmont Comedy Co.—all Decatur boys—are here.

ELGIN.—John Dillon was greeted with a full house Feb. 4. Enos & Wall's Model Comedy Co. opened to very large business 6, and have played the week out to very fair business, considering the extreme cold weather. T. W. Keene will have "Standing-room Only" 15, as every seat was sold ten days in advance. Kate Bensberg's Opera Co. 20, G. A. R. 21, 25, presenting "The Union Spy;" week of 27, Chicago Opera Co. at popular prices.

ROCKFORD.—John Dillon in "Wanted, the Earth," Feb. 3, did fairly. Frank Howard in "Sam'l of Posen" 7 had a light house. "Muldoon's Picnic" (Yank Newell) did well 8. Coming: "Golden Giant" 10; "Hidden Hand" (Cora Van Tassel's) has date of 13, but has no paper up; "Robert Emmet" 14 (local talent).....Manager Victor Gutmann will take out a minstrel troupe next season. Gray & Stephens are interested with him in the venture.

SPRINGFIELD.—At the Opera-house, P. F. Baker in "Chris and Lena" pleased a comfortably-filled house Feb. 2, followed by Agnes Herndon 4 in "A Masquerade" to light business. Barry and Fay played "McKenna's Flirtation" 7 to very good business. The McGibney Family Concert Co. drew well 7, 8. Coming: "Town Lots" 16, 17, "Hidden Hand" 21, 22.

STREATOR.—W. C. Coup's Equescurriculum and Elliott's London Novelties opened at the Plumb Feb. 6 for three nights to big business. Barry and Fay in "McKenna's Flirtation" 4 were greeted with a packed house. Helen Blythe, booked for 9 in "Only a Woman's Heart," canceled.

LA SALLE.—The Original Nashville Tennesseans, now the Jubilee Singers, gave a concert here Feb. 8, and failed to draw on account of the intense cold. "Hidden Hand" is dated for 15.

KANKAKEE.—Ezra Kendall, in "A Pair of Kids," drew a large crowd at the Arcade Opera-house Feb. 8. Due, "Si Perkins" 18.

PULLMAN.—At the Arcade Theatre, Ezra F. Kendall, in "A Pair of Kids," had a full house Feb. 7. "Sam'l of Posen" is due 15.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

WASHINGTON.—At Albaugh's, R. B. Mantell in "Monbars," considering his counter attraction—the National Opera Co.—had a very fair engagement, finishing Feb. 11. The Elks' benefit, which occurred at this theatre 9, was not the success financially that has favored them in past seasons, although a very strong bill was presented. Mr. and Mrs. Albaugh, J. W. Albaugh Jr., Mrs. Addie Krunkie and Brother S. W. Fort were seen in the one-act comedy, "Day After the Wedding." Polly McDonald, John A. Coleman, Billy Carter, the Mignanis, Evans and Hoey in "A Parlor Match," W. H. Mack Jr., Sherman Wade, Annie Boyd, Barney Reynolds (all of the "Evangeline" Co.), Andrew Black, John Cheshire and R. B. Mantell, in "Monbars," composed the programme. Rice's "Evangeline" Co. is here 13–18, H. E. Dixey, in "Adonis," 20 and week.

NEW NATIONAL THEATRE.—The National Opera Co. closed a big week's business 11. Sunday, 12, a sacred concert is given by the Washington Symphony Orchestra. Gillette's "She" Co. begins a week's engagement 13. The National Opera Co. returns 20 and week.

HARRIS' BIJOU.—Edmund Collier played to well-filled houses 6–11. Ada Gray opens 13 for a week. Next, "Mam'zelle."

KERNAN'S WASHINGTON THEATRE.—The Mignani-Siegrist Co. had fair attendances during their week's stay, closed 11. Arizona Joe fills 13–18.

NEW DIME MUSEUM AND THEATRE opens 13 under T. A. Johnson's management. Winnie Johnson, the colored giantess, is the star feature. Capt. Smith Cook, the Kentucky giant, and Etta Lake will also be seen.

ALABAMA.

MOBILE.—At the Mobile Theatre, E. F. Mayo in "Davy Crockett" comes Feb. 13, 14. Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett came 4 to "Standing-room." Newton Beers in "Lost in London" came 6, 7, 8 to good business. There was quite a little excitement during the second performance of "Lost in London" 7. Lea Raymond, the understudy to Mrs. Beers, was doing Nellie Armroyd, and at the end of the second act refused to allow the performance to go on until her claims for salary, past due, had been paid. During the altercation which ensued Mr. Beers is said to have so far forgotten himself as to strike Miss Raymond, for which she made affidavit against him and caused him to be arrested on the charge of assault and battery. The case was tried 8 before the Recorder, who, after hearing all the testimony, fined Mr. Beers ten dollars. Miss Raymond then swore out an attachment against the company's baggage for the amount of salary due, and to avoid further trouble Mr. Beers paid up. Miss Raymond and Johnny Williams have left the company. The lady goes to Louisville to join the "My Geraldine" Co. Mr. Beers, when questioned on the subject, stated to your correspondent that while it was true that Mr. Williams had given him due notice of his desire to leave, he had been informed that it was Miss Raymond's intention to leave with him, and in order to guard against this the lady's salary was withheld. This last assertion Miss Raymond denies.

DELAWARE.

WILMINGTON.—At the Grand Opera-house, the Atkinson & Cook Co. had good houses week ending Feb. 11. Miss Ames, leading-lady of the company, who was very severely injured during her Norristown engagement, arrived in Wilmington 8 and resumed her stage work. She is far from having fully recovered, and it requires much courage and pluck for her to go through her parts in her present condition. R. B. Mantell in "Monbars" 13, Aronson's "Erminie" 15, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Knight in "Over the Garden Wall" 16, Campanini's Concert Co. 17, James-Wainwright Co. 24.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—Stanley Macy in "C. O. D." deserved his big success 6–8. Florence J. Bindley in "Excitement" and "A Heroine in Rags" did well 9–11. Kimball's "Mam'zelle" 13–15, C. T. Ellis in "Casper the Yodler" 16–18, Atkinson's "Peck's Bad Boy" week of 20.

The Clipper Annual in Ireland.

From The Dublin 'Cyclist and Athlete.

We have just received a copy of THE NEW YORK CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1888. For convenient reference, reliable information and interesting accounts of performances in all the various branches of sport and amusement, it ranks second to none of the various periodical records that the combined ingenuity and business tact of observant men have placed in the hands of the public. Besides being interesting and exhaustive in nearly every particular, the book commands admiration in its convenient size—being, from outward appearance, a pocket reference merely.

NEW YORK.

New York City.

REVIEW OF THE WEEK.—The fortnight engagement of Modjeska at the FOURTEENTH-STREET THEATRE came to a close Saturday evening, Feb. 11, when "Romeo and Juliet" was played to a large and cordial audience. Monday night, 6, furnished the novelty of the week, in Modjeska's first New York appearance as Beatrice in "Much Ado About Nothing"—a role in which she had considerable success, without achieving a positive triumph. Eben Plympton was a capital Benedick, and the support was also good as to the Hero of Mary Shaw, the Dogberry of W. F. Owen, the Don Pedro of Charles Vandenhoff, the Leonato of S. E. Springer and the Balthazzar of Grace Filkins. Modjeska is to rest in the city this week, before resuming her tour on the New England circuit. .....There was no change of play at HARRIGAN'S PARK, the CASINO, DALY'S, LYCEUM, STANDARD, BIJOU, WALLACK'S, STAR, UNION-SQUARE, ACADEMY, MADISON-SQUARE and H. R. JACOBS' THIRD-AVENUE. At the Star, the Mestayer-Vaughn "Check 44" Co. closed their month's stay 11.....Billy Rice and Lew Dockstader varied the bill at DOCKSTADER'S night of 9 by adding a walking-match burlesque. The week's business was quite good.....Week stands ended 11, as follow: Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels at NIBLO'S, Richard Mansfield at the GRAND, "The Scouts of the Yellowstone" at POOLE'S, Harrison's 'Silver King" Co. at the PEOPLE'S, "The Lights o' London" at the WINDSOR and "Hoodman Blind" at the HARLEM COMIQUE.... The season of Wagner opera continued at the METROPOLITAN.....Ernst Possart continued to draw large audiences to the THALIA. Tuesday night, 7, he benefited, and was seen as Richard III for the first time in America. During the performance he was presented by Manager Gustav Amberg with a gold watch. Herr Possart's Richard, however, failed to create the enthusiasm that most of his other roles had awakened. Saturday night, 11, while Herr Possart rested, the Thalia stock appeared in "Der Tolle Wenzel" (The Wild Wenzel"), a musical-farce in four acts by W. Mansteidt and G. Steffens, and not before, we believe, acted in this city, if in America. The plot deals with the mistaking of Wenzel, a middle-aged official of a small town, for Max Wenzel, a wild youth who is the heir of a rich aunt.....The month's engagement of the Boston Ideal Opera Co. at the FIFTH-AVENUE closed night of 11, with "Fra Diavolo."

"L'ABBE CONSTANTIN" is in its last week at Wallack's—an admitted failure, as THE CLIPPER has already made known. On Feb. 20 Mr. Abbey will inaugurate a twelve weeks' season of old-comedy revivals, with "London Assurance" as the first bill. For this term Rose Coghlan has been specially engaged, it having been determined by her manager, Aug. Pitou, that she will not commence her starring tour until next season. To follow: "Old Heads and Young Hearts," "Town and Country," "The Rivals," "The Road to Ruin," "The Love Chase," etc. With these comedies the last season of Wallack's as a stock theatre will close. Next Fall the house will be devoted to high-class combinations, as long ago foreshadowed in these columns. Mr. and Mrs. Abbey will soon sail for Bermuda, and the latter will not again appear on the stage after her performance in "L'Abbe Constantin" Feb. 18. The first regular season of Wallack's as a combination theatre will open Oct. 8, with M. Coquelin as the star. Mary Anderson and Mrs. J. R. Potter will follow. Harry Edwards is engaged as stage-manager. John Gilbert thinks of retiring. The others of the present company will scatter, some undoubtedly to combination travel, two or three, perhaps, to stock work elsewhere, and one or two to England.

HENRY IRVING'S return engagement at the Star will open with "Olivia" Feb. 20, and continue five weeks. "The Lyons Mail," "Faust," "Much Ado About Nothing," "The Bells" and "Louis XI" will also be presented.

AT HARRIGAN'S PARK THEATRE "Pete" received its one-hundredth consecutive performance evening of Feb. 14. A number of Brooklyn and New York theatre-parties attended. Satin souvenir programmes were distributed in satin envelopes. The piece will run until May 1—the close of the season.

THE Spring and Summer season of light comedy, musical farce, etc., at Tony Pastor's will open April 16. Manager Pastor sails for Europe June 9.

THE New Broadway Theatre will not open Feb. 27, as at first expected, but will probably be dedicated March 5 or 12.

DALY'S THEATRE.—It has been an unvaried story of crowded houses since the first night of "A Midsummer Night's Dream." The comedy will easily finish Mr. Daly's season. On April 14 the entire company, numbering forty people, will sail for England, and on May 3 will open at the Gaiety Theatre for a season of twelve weeks. Three weeks in Paris and two in Berlin follow.

MESTAYER'S "Check 44" opened for a week at Niblo's Feb. 13. Next week, the Boston Ideal Opera Co.

"THE HENRIETTA" received its one hundred and forty-fifth consecutive performance at the Union-square night of Feb. 13. Business continues evenly good.

ANNIE PIXLEY is playing her last New York engagement this season at the Windsor this week, in "The Deacon's Daughter." Next, "Evans & Hoey's "Parlor Match" Co.

N. C. GOODWIN JR. opened a fortnight's stay at the Fourteenth-street Theatre Feb. 13, to good attendance. He plays "Turned Up" and "Lend Me Five Shillings." Roland Reed follows 27, presenting "The Woman Hater" for the first time in New York.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.—Frank Daniels opened a week's stand at this house Feb. 13, playing his now familiar "Little Puck" to a good-sized and very cordial audience. Next week, Maggie Mitchell will make her first East-side appearance at the People's, in "Maggie the Midget." W. J. Scanlan is a coming star at this theatre.

TONY PASTOR renewed the lease of his theatre in Fourteenth street on Feb. 7. The lease is for ten years, beginning May 1 next, at an annual rental of $10,000.

"THE PLAYERS"

THE new people in the cast of "Paul Kauvar" will make their first appearance at the Standard night of Feb. 20. Steele Mackaye, who created the title-role in Buffalo, will play Paul Kauvar for the first time here. He has not appeared on metropolitan boards in seven years. Carrie Turner will be the new Diane De Beaumont, seconding Adele Belgarde. Sarah Neville will play Scarlotte.

POOLE'S THEATRE.—A week that is likely to be productive of good receipts and much enthusiasm was inaugurated at this popular-price theatre Monday afternoon, Feb. 13, with N. S. Wood in "The Boy Detective." That play continues until 16, when "The Boy Scout" will be put on to close the week. Sunday night, 12, continuing his series of lectures, Alfred H. Weston talked about "Extracts." Ten per cent. of the gross receipts were turned over to the family of William Rice, the painter, who is in St. Vincent's Hospital with a broken arm. Sid C. France will be at Poole's next week.

A. W. ROBERTSON on Feb. 9 resigned as stage-manager at Wallack's, and Harry Edwards assumed the position. Mr. Robertson retires from the company after this week, and will probably return to England at once.

SIG. CAMPANINI and his company gave the first of two concerts at Steinway Hall, night of Feb. 10, when Etelka Gerster made her first public appearance since her recent disastrous tour. It was hoped that her voice had improved with rest, but this was regretfully found not to be the case. The company gave their second concert afternoon of 11.

RICHARD MANSFIELD is in Harlem this week.

H. R. JACOBS' THIRD AVENUE THEATRE.—The third week of Corinne's stay opened auspiciously afternoon of Feb. 13. The engagement has exceeded the expectations of the management, and will close 18 with the record of the most successful contract in the annals of the house. Florence J. Bindley will come 20 for a week—her first New York appearance as a star.

THE jury in the suit of Howard A. Hinkle, of Cincinnati, O., against Mrs. Jeanette M. Thurber, failed to agree, and were discharged Feb. 10. The suit was brought to recover $12,000 paid by the plaintiff to Manager Locke, of the American Opera Co., Nov. 27 last, on a telegram from Mrs. Thurber, before Judge Coxe in the United States Circuit Court.

THE boys of the Cathedral School, under the direction of the Christian Brothers, gave a musical and dramatic entertainment at Harrigan's Park Theatre afternoon of Feb. 9.

UPON a survey of Mrs. Langtry's property in West Twenty-third street last week by an inspector of the Bureau of Street Encumbrances, it was decided that the gate-posts of the recently demolished fence were ten feet beyond the line, and, in consequence, must be taken down. The survey was made at the request of Mrs. Langtry's counsel, who were willing to dismiss the injunction proceedings should the inspector decide that the posts were outside the line.

"THE BELLS OF HASELMERE," now running at the Boston, Mass., Museum, will receive its first presentation in this city at the New Broadway Theatre at the beginning of the season of 1888-9. "La Tosca," Fanny Davenport's new play, is now in active rehearsal under the lady's personal direction, and is expected to run until May 1.

CHARLES DICKENS will read at Chickering Hall Feb. 17.

DE LANCEY NICOLL argued Feb. 13, before U. S. Commissioner Lyman, in opposition to the motion made by Peter Mitchell that George Benson, whose extradition is sought by the Mexican Government, be discharged. The seller of the false tickets for the Patti concerts was as confident as ever until the Commissioner had rendered his decision. Commissioner Lyman, after the arguments were over, made a careful statement of the facts that had been proven, and held that they were sufficient to make out a case of forgery under the common law. "The question," he said, "is largely one of the legal construction of certain terms, and so the defendant has a remedy in the court which may review the decision, as to the law." Mr. Lyman denied the motion to discharge Benson. Some evidence will be presented on the part of Benson, but it will probably only be as to formal points of law.

THE Pearl of Pekin" has been settled on as the name under which the next piece at the Bijou Opera-house will be played. The "Corsair" Co. will go on the road without change in the cast.

"FRANCILLON," a three-act comedy by Alex. Dumas, was acted for the first time in America night of Feb. 13, in German, at the Star Theatre, before a large house. The occasion was notable as the inaugural performance in Hedwig Niemann-Raabe's farewell series of five. The cast in full: Marquis De Riverolles, Gustav Kober; Lucien, Hugo Ranzenberg; Franziska, Hedwig Niemann-Raabe; Annette, Lilli Petri; Stanislas de Grandredon, Hermann Haak; Henry De Symeur, Alexis Schonlank; Jean De Carillac, Moriz Moritz; Therese Smith, Antonie Ziegler; Colestin, Carl Muller; Ein Anderer Diener, Heinrich Zilzer; Elise, Auguste Burmester; Pinguet, A. Meyer. The plot of "Francillon" was given in THE CLIPPER of a fortnight ago. Frau Niemann-Raabe will sail for Germany Saturday, 18, and the Star, on the afternoon and evening of that date, will be occupied by Heinrich Conreid and a special company, with "Doktor Klaus" as the play. Next week Henry Irving opens his five weeks' return engagement with "Olivia," its first New York presentation by this company.

SINN'S "ALONE IN LONDON" Co. opened a week's stand at the Grand Opera-house Feb. 13 to a large and demonstrative audience. Cora Tanner was received with considerable warmth, and did her usual effective work as Nan. Alf. Fisher, Maggie Holloway, Laura Le Clair, C. G. Craig, W. T. Grover, Leonard Grover Jr., Ada Dwyer, W. A. Sands and others in the cast did excellently. Next week, James O'Neil's "Monte Cristo" Co.

IT is rumored that Modjeska will, commencing early in June, play another four weeks' engagement at the Fourteenth-street Theatre.

ERNST POSSART drew a small house to the Thalia Feb. 13, when he played Goethe's "Egmont." Julius Steger made his debut in the cast.

FIFTH-AVENUE THEATRE.—Prof. Herrmann, Mme. Herrmann and D'Alvini, forming the Herrmann Co., opened a two weeks' stay at this house Monday night, Feb. 13, to a large and thoroughly appreciative audience. The Professor and his deft assistants were in excellent form, and their entertainment, we are free to say, has seldom been surpassed for smoothness and interest. The two new illusions, "Le Cocon" and "Black Art," were shown for the first time here, and were instantly successful. The "Deacon Brodie" Co. occupy the Fifth-avenue Feb. 27-March 10. "Natural Gas" (its first metropolitan performance) is a later booking.

WILLIAM FOOTE, the veteran, returned to active labors this week, when he assumed the management of the "front of the house" at Dockstader's Theatre. He informs us he is routing the minstrels, and they will go on tour Feb. 27. Their trip will thus begin earlier and cover much more ground than had originally been planned. While they are out the house will be rented to responsible combinations. Mr. Foote will remain in the city to represent Dockstader, Shepard & Graus, while Mr. Graus will look after the business interests of the company during their tour. The present company complete, with W. S. Mullaly's orchestra, will be carried along.

DOCKSTADER'S.—Everything seems to smile on the new firm, and business has been most satisfactory during the past few weeks. On Monday evening, Feb. 13, the house held a large and highly-entertained audience. Dick Jose sang "The Song That Will Never Die" (a new one by J. F. Mitchell), and H. W. Frillman indulged in "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep." These and the remainder of the first-part vocalisms were well commended. Billy Courtwright made his first bow with this troupe on the above date, and renewed former triumphs with his familiar but meritorious "Flewry-Flewry." Lew Dockstader's new specialty was bright and timely, and, it is superfluous to add, made a hit. A burlesque on the walking-match was put on 9, and its timeliness made a strong go of it. It will be continued the current week. James Albert the champion long-distance pedestrian, made his first appearance here Monday evening, in the burlesque walking-match. He wore his track costume and made a brief speech, in which he explained that he owed his success to his principles of total abstinence. He was loudly applauded by the large audience. Edwin French closed here 9, and Burt Haverly 11. A benefit will take place Thursday evening, 16, the beneficiary being Carl Rankin. Many of the old friends of this popular young comedian have volunteered their services, and a brilliant programme is being prepared. During Mr. Rankin's long engagement with Dockstader he was ever a favorite with the public, as well as with all of his own profession. It is with much regret that he has had to leave the stage, owing to a partial loss of his vocal powers.

TONY PASTOR'S THEATRE.—The Kernells' Co. is a favorite one, and the large audience of Monday evening, Feb. 13, significantly attested their popularity. The roster for this week is: Larry and Lizzie Smith, James McAvoy, Bloodgood and Smith, Smith and Lord, the Four Luciers, Three Markoes, Marlow and Regan, and the Kernells. The brothers were accorded their usual hearty reception. The show moved along nicely, and received high marks of approval. It should enjoy a week of large business. The announcements for next week are: Ryan and Richfield, Rose and Martin Julian, Maggie Cline, Bartlett and Lorraine, Harry Woodson and Laura Bennett, John and Nellie Healy, Ventinis, Earle and Miles, Huber and Allyne, and others.

LONDON THEATRE.—A large audience afternoon of Feb. 13, were highly entertained by the Gus Hill Co. The roster of the troupe for the current week is: Conroy and Thompson, Mlle. Alberta, Weber and Fields, the Sheerans, Rice Bros., Thurber and Dubois, Lottie Rogers (a new-comer and an attractive vocalist), Wesley Bros., C. W. Williams, Marion and Bell, Swift and Chase, Walter Wentworth (his first appearance here in many seasons) and others. Manager Hill introduced during the week a wrestling, sparring and club-swinging tournament. It is a comprehensive novelty, and should prove strongly attractive. The following wrestling bouts will take place: Tuesday, Martin Dempsey and Gus Hill; Wednesday, Steve O'Donnell and Gus Hill; Thursday, Martin Dempsey and Steve O'Donnell; club-swinging between Gus Hill and Prof. Harris; Friday, wrestling between Gus Hill and unknown and Martin Dempsey and Wm. Johnson. Next week the Rentz-Santley Co.

MINER'S BOWERY THEATRE.—This theatre held a comparatively small audience evening of Feb. 13. The house puts in a company for the current week, which enlists the services of M. J. Fenton, Leslie and Weber, Louise Garland, Charles and Lillie Weston, the Ventinis, Beane and Gilday, Rose and Martin Julian, Marren and Whitty, Daly and Devere, National Four, Schrode Brothers and J. W. Hampton. The show is an excellent one. Dick Morosco is now a member of the theatre stock. "Nic-Pic" fulfilled its duties as an attractive finale. J. R. Glidersleeve announced the turns from the stage on Monday evening. There were no programmes, on account of the diagram of the house being left off the bills by mistake.

KOSTER & BIAL'S.—The attractions for the week of Feb. 13 include Sol Stone and his mysterious cabinet (a novelty in cabinet-work, and done 13 for the first time in this country), Ferguson and Mack, Baggesen, Musical Dale, Laura Lee and others. Business continues fair.

ARMORY HALL VAUDEVILLE THEATRE.—A big crowd assembled Feb. 13, when a good bill was put on, including Kittie Burk, Eveline Florence, Jennie Brady, Georgie Leonard, May Conditt, Jennie Lindsay, the Jeromes, Billy Miles, Hughes and Clark, Billy Speed, Peter Gardner, Hattie Wilson, Laura Parker, Sophie Howard, Josie Stone and Stella Anderson. "The School Girls' Half-holiday" was put on as an afterpiece and proved a fitting finale. Manager J. H. Smith informs us that he is negotiating for the Odeon Theatre, Baltimore, Md.

BROOKLYN.

BROOKLYN.—Our managers could not complain of bad business last week. Most of the theatres had large houses. Especially was this the case at H. R. Jacobs' Brooklyn Theatre, where popular prices were inaugurated. Manager Chas. Seymour, Mr. Jacobs' representative, feels sure that he will be able to make the place pay better than it has ever before done. The Hayman-Gillette "She" Co. played to crowded houses all the week, and the take is already large for "The Lights o' London" this week. A full house was present Feb. 13. Next week, Frank Daniels in "Little Puck."

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.—Milton and Dollie Nobles made their first appearance in the East in their new play, "From Sire to Son," last week, and drew large houses. The plot was given in THE CLIPPER'S columns upon its first presentation at St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 28 last, and I can now only reiterate your correspondent's statement. The play is strong in most of its situations, although a few changes could be made in the second and third acts, and especially in the first act, when it would be an improvement for Milton and Dollie Nobles, instead of waiting in the stage and having the door open a second time to let them out, to appear first and then the others follow. As it is, it leaves the audience to wonder why they did not appear before, and, as I heard remarked the night I sat the piece through, "they should have appeared before." In the second and third acts it would be well to let the audience know, in some way, of the intention to visit Venice and the castle on the Rhine. With these improvements, I think there could be no cause for wondering why or how these things are done. As a matter of record, I append the cast: Mabel Armitage, wife of Alfred (known as Mabel Oakley), Mabel Armitage (daughter of Alfred and Mabel), Dollie Nobles; Mrs. Amanda Stockup, proprietress Yuba Hotel, Mary Davenport; Aurelia Stockup, her daughter, Lizzie Jeremy; Mrs. Waldaur, wife of Waldaur, May Bardell; Anna, maid to Mabel, Florence Vinton; Dr. Marmaduke Mandrake, Thomas M. Hunter; Hamilton Mandrake, his son, attorney-at-law, Charles Canfield; Peter Grimes, postmaster and expressagent at Yuba, L. F. Howard; Jonas Hardy, a gambler, Henry D. Clifton; Job Cadwalader, sheriff of Yuba County, Cal., F. A. Tannehill; August Waldaur, Edwin L. Mortimer; Abe Isaacs, John H. Reedy; "Bud" McKinstry, Willie H. Wright; Parsons, servant to Waldaur, Joseph Martin; Bill Yocum, driver of the Red Dog stage, B. A. Long; Alfred Armitage, under the assumed name of John Oakley, Milton Nobles. Kate Claxton, in "The World Against Her," opened to good business 13. Next week, the Dalys in "Upside Down."

CRITERION.—Andrews' "Michael Strogoff" Carnival Co. drew paying houses last week. Florence J. Bindley opened in "Excitement" 13 to good business. "A Heroine in Rags" will be put on the latter part of the week.

LEE-AVENUE ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—Annie Pixley did excellently last week. Minnie Palmer opened 13 in "Pearl of Savoy" to a jammed house. Miss Palmer presents a varied repertory, changing the bill at each performance. The usual Wednesday matinee will not be given this week. Next week, "A Tin Soldier."

AMPHION ACADEMY.—"Jim the Penman," with Agnes Booth leading, drew a large audience last week—the first week of the regular season. J. C. Roach in "Dan Darcy" was put on 13 to a full house. Next week, Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels.

PARK THEATRE.—There was a slight falling off in attendance last week, although Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Knight did an excellent business with "Rudolph." The Boston Ideals inaugurated a week's engagement with "Carmen" 13 to a large house, with a change of bill nightly. Next week, "Alone in London."

PROCTOR'S NOVELTY THEATRE.—"Taken from Life" proved its drawing qualities last week, and did a fair business. "The Two Johns" opened 13 to a large house, and promises to do well for the week. Next week, "Her Atonement."

ACADEMY.—The Campanini Concert Co. appeared to moderate business 9. The fourth Philharmonic concert takes place 17. The McCaull Opera Co. occupy the house week of 20.

HYDE & BEHMAN'S.—Last week Reilly & Wood's Co. played to packed houses. "The Night Owls" opened 13 to a full house.

STANDARD MUSEUM.—N. S. Wood did a fair business last week. The Davene Troupe, with the Weston Bros. and Sullivan's Wild West, filled the house 13. Next week, "One of the Bravest."

ZIPP'S CASINO.—Business was excellent at this house the past week. This week's people include Prof. Emil Mueller, mimic; Helen Valeys, musical-glasses; Minnie Farrell, change performer, with Minnie Schult and John Carroll retained.

GRAND THEATRE.—A specialty company headed by Lester and Williams and Woods and Shepherd, opened 13 for the week. Week of 20, T. F. Thomas, Geo. Watson and others.

NEW PEOPLE'S THEATRE.—"The Scouts of the Yellowstone" drew a good-sized audience 13. Gus Williams comes week of 20.

BUFFALO.—Denman Thompson did a banner business with "The Old Homestead" at the Academy of Music last week. People were turned away from the matinee. This week Imre Kiralfy's "Lagardere," to be followed Feb. 20 by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.—After four years' absence, John A. Mackay comes to Buffalo this week with "Pop." This is the first town in his new tour. Next week, Jennie Calef in "An American Princess" and "Little Muffets." Poor houses witnessed "The Main Line" last week.

COURT-STREET.—"Zozo" comes this week. For 20 and week, "Nobody's Claim." The past week was one of fair business for "Peck's Bad Boy."

GRAND CENTRAL.—This house will be closed after this week until March 5, when it opens under Bunnell & Bates' management. This week Manager Jordan will produce "The Blackthorn."

ADELPHIA.—Billy Madden and Jack Dempsey in "Round New York" this week. Feb. 20 and week, Mignani-Siegrist Novelty Co. is billed. The "Night Owls" finished a week of big houses 11.

NEWS.—Bunnell's Museum will open again March 5, just a year after the Eagle-street house burned. H. A. Bunnell and Horace B. Bates have bought the Grand Central Theatre from Shields & Healey. Fred Jordan will stay with his old employers as treasurer. There will be a curio-hall.... Levi's New Opera-house appears to be in the market. It was offered to a Syracuse man for $22,600, and this week to Manager W. L. Allen of "The Main Line" for $18 000. Bunnell & Bates have a standing offer of $12 000 for the house, and the Meeches are figuring to get it for about $14 000 if they can. If the Meeches secure the house they will undoubtedly dispose of the Academy to Bunnell & Bates.....John D. Davis of The Express staff has resigned, and leaves for New York 15. He says he will go with "Jim the Penman."..... Music Hall was formally opened Feb. 7. The stage is well equipped, and some good attractions may be expected.....The Orpheus carnival and bal masque is always the event of the year in fun-loving circles. It occurs 13 at Music Hall. The whole building will be occupied.....Norton H. Thompson of The Commercial and Dr. Charles G. Steele were to work six weeks ago, writing a play of the Hoyt order. Mr. Thompson died of consumption, and Dr. Steele of peritonitis 11. He was an old newspaper man, and very popular.

TROY.—At the Griswold Opera-house, J. B. Studley opened at the matinee Feb. 13 to a big house, in "A Great Wrong," to be followed 20 by J. H. Wallick in "The Cattle King." Sadie Hasson week ending 11, in "Nobody's Claim," did good business.

RAND'S OPERA HOUSE.—The Troy Ideal Opera Co. repeated "Patience" 13, in the interest of the gymnasium fund of the Railroad Y. M. C. A. Sol Smith Russell had two full houses 8 in "Bewitched." "The Main Line" comes 17, 18 and Lovenberg's Phantasies 20, 21, 22. Manager Strait takes a brief trip to Kansas soon. Proprietor Rand again promises to drop the auditorium one floor during the coming Summer.

MUSIC HALL.—A three days' festival of Rensselaer County Musical Association will be given 22, 23, 24, under Conductor Zerrahn of Boston, with Blaisdell's orchestra of Concord, N. H.

HARMONY HALL.—Louise Baldwin gave a musicale 11, in which she was assisted by the Lotus Glee Club of Boston, and local talent.

ROCHESTER.—At Jacobs & Proctor's Academy, J. H. Wallick in "The Cattle King" the fore part and "The Bandit King" the latter part of the present week will undoubtedly attract large audiences. Tony Denier's "Humpty Dumpty" comes week Feb. 20. "Taken from Life" is booked for week 27. "A Great Wrong" (T. H. Winnett's) closed a very successful week's engagement 11.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.—The house remains dark until 16, when Frankie Kimble opens for three nights and a matinee. Imre Kiralfy's "Lagardere" is underlined for 20-22. The past week "Round New York," with Wm. Madden and Jack Dempsey as the drawing cards, failed to fill. Sol Smith Russell in "Bewitched" 10, 11, drew large audiences.

CASINO THEATRE.—The following appear during the present week: Prof. L. Fox, Emerson and Clark, James F. Lamb, Prof. John Davis, Mons. La Monde, James H. Hammond, Kittie Rhodes. The week ending 11 good attendance was seen.

NEW OPERA-HOUSE.—Edgar H. Sherwood will concertize 16. The Montagu Turner Opera Co. in "The Bohemian Girl" and the fourth act of "Il Trovatore" 8, "Maritana" 9 and a sacred concert Sunday evening, 12, drew large audiences.

PERSONALS.—Thos. H. Lehuen and wife, of Syracuse, N.Y.; J. M. Hickey, in advance of Frankie Kemble, and Fred G. Berger, manager of Sol Smith Russell, were seen in this city the past week..... Frank W. Martineau, late treasurer of Jacobs & Proctor's Academy in this city, and now treasurer for the Corinne Opera Co., made his many friends in this city a short call 10. He reports crowded houses everywhere.....The long-talked-of place of amusement has at last assumed definite proportions. The full amount has been subscribed, the officers elected, the name established, and as soon as a site can be selected, will at once proceed to building the same. The new house will be called the Lyceum Theatre, with the following officers for the ensuing year: President and manager, A. E. Wolf; vice-president, Wm. S. Kimball; secretary and treasurer, Geo. S. Weldon; attorney, Wm. V. Cogswell.

SYRACUSE.—At the Wieting Opera-house Feb. 13, Frankie Kemble in "Sybil" opens a three nights' engagement. The house remains closed the remainder of the week. Wills, Henshaw and Ten Broeck in "Two Old Cronies" drew lightly 6, 7. Sol Smith Russell in "Bewitched" had a good house 9.

JACOBS & PROCTOR'S GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.—Feb. 13 and week, Tony Denier's "Humpty Dumpty." Last week, J. H. Wallick in "The Cattle King" and "Bandit King" packed the house nightly. The Saturday matinee was the largest ever in the house. Due 20: "Taken from Life."

STANDARD MUSEUM.—This week: Lang and Sharp, Carrie Armstrong, Ripley and Reed, Ralton and Alton, Prof. John Greenbaum, Millie Emma, Bartlett and Loraine, Ryan and Johnson, Ed. Weaver, Lizzie Hamilton, Maud Florrette and Daisy Johnson. Business last week was good.

KINGSTON.—At the Kingston Opera-house, Sanger's Comic-opera Co. came Feb. 13 for a week. Modjeska is booked for 27.

LISCOMB OPERA-HOUSE.—The Sterling Comedy Co. came 13 for a week, followed by the Lillian Kennedy Comedy Co. 20 and week.

NOTE.—The Pythian Band of this city have been engaged by Eaton & Benton's Royal Consolidation, and joined the company at Norwalk, Ct., 13.

ALBANY.—At the Leland Opera-house Feb. 13, for one week, J. K. Emmet. On Monday evening Mr. Emmet gave an entertainment for the benefit of the Albany Press Club, which was largely attended. On 6, a concert by the Schubert Club, a local organization under the management of Philip Hale. On 7, 8, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence played to the largest houses that have been seen this season.

JACOBS & PROCTOR'S.—Feb. 13 and week, "Taken from Life." For week commencing 6, Tony Denier's "Humpty Dumpty" drew large houses.

THE Central Theatre did good business with Orlofsky's Co. This week: Lewis and Morton, Tom Arthur and Mlle. B. McArthur, the Davies, Dave Oakes and Jessie Boyd.

JERMAIN HALL.—The reading by Chas. Dickens bids fair to be a notable affair.

NEWBURG.—At the Opera-house, "Our Boarding-house" (Stedman's Co.) is due Feb. 15, "Two Old Cronies" 21 and "Little Puck" 29. Sanger's Comic-opera Co. played to light business last week, although opening 6 to a "S. R. O."..... The Comique advertises Durkee and Drew, Clifford and Finnegan, and the Sheppard Sisters this week..... Columbia Rink (People's Theatre) does not seem to take for general show business, as no attraction has been booked there since the holidays. Your correspondent was misinformed last week as to the managers trying to arrange with the Lillian Kennedy Co. for a return date (in opposition to the other house). It proved to be a rumor only, although coming pretty straight. Brooks Hooper, in advance of the company, was in town last week arranging for their reappearance.

GLENS FALLS.—At the Opera-house Feb. 9, Richard O'Gorman in "Human Nature" did a fair business. Nothing is booked for the near future.

ELMIRA.—At the Opera-house, "Erminie" was presented Feb. 6 to a fair-sized house. Sol Smith Russell, in "Bewitched," was the attraction 13..... At the Madison-avenue Theatre, the Dalys, in "Upside Down," did fairly well 6. Lizzie Derious Daly, owing to illness, did not appear. "Ranch 10," with J. Clinton Hall, played to poor business 10," with J. Clinton Hall, played to poor business 10." with J. Clinton Hall, played to poor business 10." with J. Clinton Hall, played to poor business 10."

CONNELLSVILLE.—At Newmyer's Opera-house, Spenser's "Little Tycoon" Co. appeared to big business Feb. 4. Fowler & Warmington's "Skipped" had good business 6. Booked: Loder's "Hilarity" Co. 13, Rehan's "Nancy & Co." 16.

ERIE.—"Under the Gaslight," Feb. 6, played to very good business. "Monte Cristo" (O'Neil's) 9, was delayed until 8 P. M. The curtain went up about 9.30 to a very fair audience. Coming: Arthur Rehan's Co. 13, 14, Sol Smith Russell 18.

ALLENTOWN.—Music Hall: 'Erminie" on Feb. 11 played to good business. R. B. Mantell, in "Monbars," comes 17. C. T. Ellis, in "Casper the Yodler" 22, and Oliver Byron, in "The Inside Track," 24

EASTON.—Lillian Kennedy played a profitable week, closing Feb. 11. "Erminie" comes 13, and C. T. Ellis, in "Casper the Yodler," 15. Oliver Byron has 25.

MINNESOTA.

MINNEAPOLIS.—At the Grand Opera-house, Hanlons' "Fantasma" opened Feb. 13 for the week. Mrs. McKee Rankin follows for six nights and matinee 20, and "Jim the Penman" takes the next week, 27. Kiralfys' "Around the World" had good houses 6-11.

HENNEPIN-AVENUE THEATRE is closed indefinitely. Ralph Whelan, one of our young attorneys, has been appointed receiver of the Hennepin-avenue Theatre Co. No receiver has as yet been appointed for Sackett & Wiggins.

PENCE OPERA-HOUSE.—"The Truckman's Son" and "Robert Macaire, or the Two Thieves", make up the bill for the week of 13. A crowded house gave Jessaline Rodgers a fine benefit 9.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.—"Hazel Kirke" is the play 13-18. Last week, "Mary Warner" was given to big houses. On one evening Charles Barringer was too sick to appear, and Stage-manager Harrison took his place very acceptably at an hour's notice.

EDEN MUSEE.—Millie Christine in the curio-hall and John T. Kelly on the stage are the attractions 13-18. Business is good. Stephen B. Howard, who was placed in charge of the Museum, as receiver, by the mortgagee, says he has purchased it, and is running it on his own responsibility. It is rumored that Kohl & Middleton tried to get it, but with how much truthfulness I cannot say.

NOTES.—Mlle. Gretchen, one of the ballet in Kiralfys' "Around the World," slipped and sprained her ankle so badly in one of the dances 9, that it was necessary to assist her from the stage..... Manager Conklin, of the Grand, has returned from another flying trip to New York, where he booked more fine attractions.....Bolossy Kiralfy announces a new spectacular play, entitled "Mathias Sandorf," by Jules Verne, for next season. The equipment is now on its way to this country from France, Spain and Italy, and its first night will be some time next August in your city.

ST. PAUL.—At the Grand Opera-house, Kiralfys' "Around the World" come Feb. 13 for one week. For 20, the week, "Jim the Penman." Hanlons' "Fantasma" showed week of 6 to a big business.

OLYMPIC THEATRE.—Announced for week of 13: Madame Celeste's Pleasure Party Co., with Conners and Sweeney, Bessie Beach, Joe Crotty, Lillie Wilson, Hume and McBeard, Kitty Gilmore, Al. Stinson and Clara Merton. Business week of 6 was poor, owing to the dullness following the carnival.

EDEN MUSEE.—Could give no dates for this week. Business was good week of 6, with John T. Kelly as the drawing card.

DULUTH.—At the Grand Opera-house, Minnie Maddern returned Feb. 6, 7. Business was not good, as it was on the eve of election. There was a "U. T. C." Co. booked for 17, 18, but report says they gave up the ship .....At the Duluth Theatre, the business for week ending 4 was not good. The house on 6 was well filled. The people: Dan Powers, Kittie Gilmore, May Vernon, Jerry Gorman, Mattie Edwards, Maggie Le Clair, Walters and Gray, with Harry Rogers' "Mulcahay's Arrival." Booked for 18: Watson & Gardner's Specialty Co. .....It has not been found out who the luckless aeronaut is that was found in the woods back of this place last week. There is almost nothing but a skeleton remaining of the man, and the balloon is badly torn.

CANADA.

TORONTO.—At Jacobs & Shaw's Toronto Opera-house, McKee Rankin in "The New Danites" and "49" began a week's engagement Feb. 13. "The Wages of Sin" closed 11, after a most successful run, crowding the house at every performance. .....At the Grand Opera-house, "Hoodman Blind," with F. De Belleville and Viola Allen leading, opened 13 for a week. Imre Kiralfy's "Lagardere" did an excellent week's business, closing 11.....Al. Davis, treasurer of the Toronto, has recovered from his illness, and is again in the box. He recuperated last week with his brother in London.

BRANTFORD.—At Stratford's Opera-house, Feb. 8, Janauschek, in "Meg Merrilies," played to fair business, but would have done much better had she not been followed 9 and 10 by the strong local attraction of the Brantford Musical Society in "The Pirates of Penzance."

HAMILTON.—At the Grand Opera-house, "Wages of Sin" opened for two nights Feb. 13, Janauschek in "Mother and Son" and "Meg Merrilies" 7, 8 drew only fair houses. Baird's Minstrels open for one week 20.

RHODE ISLAND.—[See Page 785.]

PROVIDENCE.—[Later letter.]—Openings Feb. 13: "Lost in New York" was put on in fine style at the Providence Opera-house, and drew well.....At the Theatre Comique, Lilly Clay's Gaiety Co. gave an excellent show to large audiences, afternoon and night.....At the Musee, Agnes Wallace-Villa's Co. presented "Jack" at the matinee and "Pocahontas" in the evening to immense business..... The Gaiety Museum opened to very large attendance, with the Gaiety Opera Co. in "The Mikado" downstairs, and a first-class variety show in the upper hall.....The Arabian Nights" Co. jumped from here to Detroit, Mich. As it was snowing furiously when they left (night of 11), and a blockade threatened, a large stock of prepared food was laid in for the journey.....Carr and Tourgee, musical team, will star next season in a drama written especially for them.....W. D. Turner, in advance of Hoyt's "Tin Soldier" was in town 10.....Manager Johnson Magee was presented with an elegant gold-headed cane on the occasion of his benefit, 10 .....Fred Jenne, for the past two seasons trombonist of Harry Saxon's orchestra at the National Theatre, Philadelphia, has returned to his home in this city..... Josef Hofmann drew a very large audience to Music Hall 13.....Frank W. Holland has succeeded R. B. Percy as stage-manager of the "Arabian Nights" Co. Mr. Percy goes to the Union-square Theatre, New York.....The seventh annual reunion of Providence Lodge of Elks will be held March 2. Exalted Grand-ruler Dr. Hamilton E. Leach is expected to be present. .....The Boston Symphony Orchestral Club gave a concert at Music Hall, Pawtucket, 13. Maud Banks will present "Joan of Arc" 15.....Malville and Downie, aerial team, have been engaged to go with the Barnum-Bailey Show next season.....The Mogul electric lights, new draperies at the windows, and the new carpets laid in the aisles give the Gaiety Museum a very cheery appearance.

WESTERLY.—[Later Letter.]—Walter Ormsby, a comedian, formerly with Gregory's "Humpty Dumpty" Co., but who had been working in a mill at Fitchville, Ct., for some time, eloped with Jennie Brainard of that village Feb. 10, and came to this city and were married. Herman Brainard, the father of the young lady, traced the couple here, and, after learning that they had been married, the pursued and pursuer, became reconciled, and the trio returned to Fitchville.

WAKEFIELD.—During the past week the Ince Comedy Co., in "Fan in a Boarding-house," did a big business, and Brown's University Glee Club, under the auspices of the Grange Dramatic Co., had a good house. The advance-agent of Hi Henry's Minstrels was in town Feb. 10, billing for 16. C. D. Henry was in town 11, and arranged to play 20-25.

MICHIGAN.

PRINCESS RINK.—Gleason the horse-tamer is doing a big business. He remains another week.

CYCLORAMA.—The Battle of Atlanta draws good crowds.

NOTES.—Johnston McFadden has joined the Hicks-Sawyer Minstrels as general-agent.....The following advance-men were in town last week: J. F. Pendleton for "A Cold Day," E. D. Griswold for Benj. Maginley, Wemyss Henderson for "Arabian Nights," George Sammis for Richard Mansfield.

GRAND RAPIDS.—At Power's Grand Opera-house, Prof. Wellenstein's benefit concert occurs Feb. 13 instead of 6, as in my last letter. Janauschek comes 14, Rosina Vokes 16 18, McNish, Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels 22 and Richard Mansfield 25. The house was dark week ending 11.

REDMOND'S GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.—The MacCollin Opera Co. opened 13 for a week. Closing 11, "A Drummer's Life" to fairly good business.

WONDERLAND:—An "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is put on 13-18 by Geo. Harris. Edwin Clifford closed 11, to very light business. The prospects of this house are not the brightest, business since the opening having been very light. Salaries to date have not been paid in full, and other claims are becoming more pressing every day. Silcox & Harris' have some first-class bookings for later on, when good business ought to meet their labors. On 20-25, Arnold & Griffith's "Octoroon."

SMITH'S OPERA-HOUSE.—Due 13: Richmond and Glenroy, J. L. Manning, Jennie Southern, and second week of Vernon Sisters, May Olive, the Woods and the stock—Ada Melville, Carrie Fisher, Johnny Ray and Sam A. Wheeler, Lester Franklin's drama concludes the bill. Business is fair.

NOTES.—Cable gives a reading in Hartman Hall 14.....George Harris and a company from here opened a new opera-house at Fennville, Mich., 10, 11, with "Inshavogue."..... The Elks, with the Knights of Pythias, will occupy handsome quarters in the new Kennedy Block, opposite Smith's Opera-house.....Manager Gouge takes part in a one-act play to be given at the Elks' benefit in March..... E. B. Vosburgh has been putting in good work for the MacCollin Opera Co.

MUSKEGON.—The bookings at Reynolds' Opera-house for the balance of the week are: Janauschek Feb. 15, MacCollim Opera Co. three nights beginning 20, and Cora Van Tassel 27. Mrs. McKee Rankin failed to show up 9, and give no reason .....The Muskegon Club gave a reception and banquet at their rooms in Opera-house Block 6, which was attended by four hundred guests..... The Business Men's Association gave another 8, at the Clay-avenue Theatre, which was also largely attended. Stetson's Double "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Co. is booked at this theatre for March 6. The Moth-Gibbs wrestling match takes place 13, after which Gibbs goes to Kansas City to wrestle Fred Paulson 16.....A company calling themselves the "Union-square Theatre" Co., headed by Walter Robinson, showed at this theatre 6 and 7 to empty benches. They had no paper up, and no one knew they were in the city.....J. J. Foster was here 8, preparing for Janauschek.

KALAMAZOO.—At the Academy of Music Feb. 7, Helen Blythe, in "Only a Woman's Heart," played to light business. The MacCollin Opera Co. filled unexpected dates Feb. 9, 10, 11, to top-and-bottom houses.....At the Opera-house, Kirtland Calhoun's Jollity Co. did not fill their dates, 8, 9..... Bookings: "Si Perkins," at the Academy, 14; "The Arabian Nights," 16 and 17.

JACKSON.—Ten days have passed, and not a theatrical attraction has visited our city. Our bill-boards are bare. Come, somebody! The Tavernier Dramatic Co. are booked for Feb. 20, two weeks.....Manager Leigh Lynch departed last week for Australia. I was unable to learn the object of his visit.

COLDWATER.—At Tibbits' Opera-house, the Boston Comic-opera Co. (Baldwin's) played Feb. 2, 3 and 4 to fair business. On 7, the Nos Family to big business (benefit of the band); 9, Stetson's "Uncle Tom" to top-heavy business. Coming: "Trixie" Co. 15, Janauschek 17.

ANN ARBOR.—The Opera-house was dark all last week until 11, when it greeted Frank Jones in "Si Perkins." Coming: 14, Salsbury's Troubadours; 20, 21, "The Light on the Point."

NEW HAVEN.—"Daniel Boone" was presented to a poor audience at the New Haven Opera-house Feb. 13. "A Tin Soldier" did well 10, 11. R. L. Downing 7-9 played to good business. A testimonial (local) concert was given to Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Parsons 6 to a fair audience. Myrtle Kingsland lectures 19. "Jim the Penman" comes 20-22, Aronson's "Erminie" Co. 23-25.

HYPERION.—This theatre was closed the past week. "Lost in New York," by Miles & Barton's Co., 17, 18.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.—Hettie Bernard-Chase, in "Rags," opened to big houses 13 for three days. Harry Williams' Specialty Co. did good business week of 5.

ITEMS.—Fontaine, of the Harry Williams Co., was prevented from doing his wire-act 11. The city authorities stopped him, as they thought it dangerous to the audience for him to walk over their heads without a net. In the afternoon, while walking on stilts, he slipped and fell backward onto the stage, a distance of about four feet. He was not hurt much.....In the museum-hall at the Grand are Synthea, the Gipsy Sybil; the Bohemian Glassblower, and Roltare's optical illusion, the "Living Mermaid."..... The Japanese Village has opened in this city.

HARTFORD.—At Jacobs & Proctor's, "A Tin Soldier" begins a three nights' stay Feb. 13, followed by Oliver Byron 16, 17, 18. Gus Williams in "Keppler's Fortunes" did only a fair business 6, 7, 8. Company K's Minstrels 9 had "Standing-room Only." Kimball's Comedy Co. in "Mam'zelle" held the boards for remainder of week to good business.....At Allyn Hall, Geo. A. ROCKVILLE.—Billed for Henry Hall: Eaton & Benton's Royal Consolidation Feb. 22. Murray and Murphy 25. Howorth's Double Show 6 drew the biggest house of the season.

MASSACHUSETTS.

BOSTON.—The Hub must surely be revolving—a perfect windmill of prosperity—to judge from the remarkably large audiences that have been noticed lately at most of our showhouses. Last week there was the Boston Theatre (with Henry Irving), Hollis-street ("Dorothy"), Boston Museum ("Bells of Hasiemere"), Park (Goodwin) and the new Grand (Maude Banks), every one of which played to what might practically be called the capacity of the house. The new piece, "Bells of Haslemere," has unquestionably made a popular and lasting hit. It closed its first week Feb. 11 to a round of very large audiences. The drama is vested with powerful lines and climaxes, and they are as powerfully delineated by a well-balanced cast. Edgar Davenport has the weightiest part he has ever undertaken in Frank Beresford, and it is simple justice to him to say he does extremely well, all things considered. He has youth in his favor, and that is why the Museum clientele like him and enjoy his impersonation. The same applies to Isabelle Evesson. She is also young, is pretty, and when that combination fails to please, what deal can you make to ensnare success?

GLOBE THEATRE.—"Madelon" was heard for the first time in this city 13, when the New York Casino Co. (No. 2) began an engagement of at least two weeks. The opera is cast, so far as the principals go, precisely as it was in your city. James Powers is a big favorite here, where he is right at home. John Braham's friends will probably make him feel that he hasn't been forgotten while he has been cleaving the air with his gold-tipped baton in Gotham. W. J. Scanlan closed an admirable week in "Shane-na-Lawn" 11.

BOSTON THEATRE.—Henry Irving's prosperity does not diminish to any appreciable extent, and this is his fourth and last week. Ellen Terry and himself have drawn some of the largest audiences ever seen within the old Boston Theatre, and the audience of Monday night, Feb. 6, which marked the anniversary of Mr. Irving's natal day, was reported to be the largest that the star had ever played to in America. He will ring all, or about all, the changes of his repertory this week. J. K. Emmet, in "Fritz," follows 20. The Boston Ideals will begin a fortnight 27.

HOLLIS-STREET THEATRE.—With new "biz," new gags, some new music and a few new people, the Dalys opened a return week 13 in "Upside Down." The "take" would indicate that the return date will come pretty near being about right. "Dorothy" finished its fortnight's engagement to good money. Dion Boucicault is the attraction to follow "Upside Down." He commences an engagement 20 in "Cushia Machree." New scenery has been painted for the new play. Manager J. B. Rich "drifted" forward recently for a brief stay.

PARK THEATRE.—N. C. Goodwin Jr. left the town after a two weeks' engagement ending 11, with about all the money Boston had. "The Private Secretary" Co. began a return date 13. They play a fortnight, and ought to prove big winners.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.—Maude Banks got a succession of audiences week ending 11 that made her heart go beat. The new Grand has apparently settled into the proper channel, and the current of coins will as surely course its way into the coffers of the box-office. "The Silver King" Co., with Carl Haswin and Ethel Greybrooke leading, opened a week 13. "Michael Strogoff," with Atkins Lawrence and Florine Arnold, follows 20. C. T. Ellis has a booking at the Grand April 24 in "Casper the Yodler." From what Mr. Proctor tells me of the play, I can vouchsafe a great week for Mr. Ellis.

HOWARD ATHENÆUM.—Harry Williams' Big Specialty Co. began a week 13. J. C. Stewart's "Two Johns" whipped off a good-sized bill of cash for their week's stay 11. Next week, the Howard Athenæum Star and Specialty Co. This organization returns for a week. It will draw like a cyclone. Manager Harris is booked to sail for Europe May 10, to corral all the gilt-edge things he can for the H. A. Star Co. and the Combined Kernells' Attractions, of which latter he is also to be director next season.

WINDSOR THEATRE.—R. H. Brock's "Thrown Upon the World" Co., with Rufus Scott leading, began a week Feb. 13. The Triple Alliance Show last week. Weston Bros., Davene's & Happy Jack Sutton's Co. closed 11 to pretty fair business.

GAIETY MUSEE AND BIJOU THEATRE.—One of the biggest cards Manager Keith has ever booked at his popular house began an engagement 13, when Capt. A. H. Bogardus and his son appeared in the peculiarly interesting rifle-shot exhibitions. Specialists are Macy May, Lyons and Barron, Majilton, the Hornbys, Edwin F. Armand, Jas. McLaren, Dunbar, aerialist, and John Barker and company.

AUSTIN & STONE'S MUSEUM.—Dudley Foster, a mite of humanity, is the heavily-leaded lodestar this week. Prof. Mohr, the Parisian impaler, is another. Performers are: Ed. and Kittie Welch, Billy and Mamie Williams, J. J. Kelly, Symonds and Hughes, Young 'Rastus, the famous Kirwan, McCall and Daniels, Nellie Hague, the Great Logrenia, Haynes and Redmund, Frank Lawrence, Dean and Kimball, the Two Fogartys, the Sisters Rosa.

WORLD'S MUSEUM.—A monster dog, a leviathan canine, is what the World is hanging on the outer walls as the champion curio this week. Here are the talent on the stage: Layman, Four Tourists, John Devoy, Prof. Herman, Ernest and Master Hunold, J. H. Graham, Collins Sisters, Zanfretta Family, Charles Burnham and Frank Venetta.

MINUTIAE.—The usual sacred concerts were given at Music Hall, Windsor and Gaiety Musee 12. .....There was no Symphony concert at Music Hall 11..... W. H. H. Murray lectured at the Boston Theatre 12.

WORCESTER.—At the Worcester Theatre; J. Z. Little's "World" Co. Feb. 13-15, W. J. Scanlan in "Shane-na-lawn" 17, 18. Post 10, G. A. R., presented "The Drummer Boy" 7-10 to immense business. The Lilly Clay Burlesque Co. 20, 21, Chas. L. Davis in "Alvin Joslin" 24, 25. "Michael Strogoff" 28, 29. The date of the Hayman-Gillette "She" Co. 22, 23, has been canceled. No reason is given.....Peck & Fursman's "Daniel Boone" drew a good-sized audience at Mechanics' Hall 8. ..... No bookings at present. Good business continues at the Museum. Billed 13 and week: The Three Franklyns, Andrew Downey, Farnum Bros., Lottie Rice, Frank E. Edwards and Leopold and Wentworth.....The local papers state that Stella Congdon of this city, formerly an actress, is suing for a divorce from her husband, Frank Chapman, at one time advance-agent for Louis Aldrich.

LOWELL.—At Music Hall, the Sontag Dramatic Co. (local) play "Caste" Feb. 14. W. J. Scanlan comes 16, and Hoyt's "A Tin Soldier" 17. "Held by the Enemy" 6, 7, drew moderate houses. Oliver Byron was seen in "The Inside Track" 9 to fair business. Myra Goodwin canceled her engagement 11.....At Huntington Hall, "Il Trovatore" is to be produced 17 for the ushers' benefit.....At the Musee, a fair week's business has been done. Frey and Pierce, Dan Lyons, Hall and Irish, Lottie Burke and Maude Brench are billed for 13 and week .....James O'Gray of the Boston Mail, Order of Elks, was in the city 6, to ascertain the prospects of organizing a branch of that order here.

PITTSFIELD.—At the Academy Feb. 11, Barlow Bros.' Minstrels pleased a fair audience. Coming: 13 "Our Boarding-house;" 17, Dr. Charles W. Seymour's Illustrated Lectures; 20 Richard O'Gorman's "Human Nature" Co. The Crescent Dramatic Club (local) gave "Ten Nights in a Bar-room" at Hall 6, and will play the same drama at Dalton 15.....Thomas H. Davis of "Human Nature" was in town 11.....THE CLIPPER is on sale at Stanton's News Agency, and in sales easily leads all other dramatic and sporting papers.

LAWRENCE.—The Gilbert Opera Co. played to fair business week of Feb. 6-11. Local lodge of Elks have postponed their benefit until after the Lenten season.....Manager Grant is jointly interested as a partner in an attraction that will take the road with a complete outfit March 1.....At the Opera house the following are booked: W. J. Scanlan Feb. 20, R. L. Downing 21, 22, Lilly Clay 24.

SPRINGFIELD.—At Gilmore's Opera-house, Feb. 6, W. T. Bryant's "Keep It Dark" drew a fair house; 8, "A Tin Soldier" did light business; 9, 10, "The Musketeers," by local talent, filled the house at each performance. Booked: Week of 13, John S. Moulton Dramatic Co.; 23, "Human Nature" 29. Modjeska.....At City Hall 6, the Boston Symphony Concert had a large audience.

NEW BEDFORD.—At the Opera-house, Hi Henry's Minstrels Feb. 6, had a good house. There is a large advance sale for Lilly Clay 11. "The Main Line" for 25.....At Liberty Hall, "Thrown Upon the World" did fair business 6-11. "Lucky Ranch" 20-22. Burton & Burke's Minstrels return 23-25.

WALDMANN'S.—Every seat was occupied 13 when Reilly & Wood's Co. opened. "The Night Owls" week of 20.

NOTE.—A large audience gathered in Saenger Hall 10 to witness the presentation of "Sulamita," but, owing to the fact that the manager ran off with the money, they were disappointed. Just as the curtain was to have been raised, the troupe learned of the loss of the manager. They refused to go on, and the consequence was a scene. The people in the audience demanded their money. Louis Mendel paid back about $100 to the disappointed people. A man was arrested, but he claimed that he was not the manager. No charge was made and he was released. The police have a lot of costumes, scenery, etc., in their posession.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

No Replies by Mail or Telegraph.

ADDRESSES OR WHEREABOUTS NOT GIVEN. THOSE IN QUEST OF SUCH SHOULD WRITE THE PARTIES IN CARE OF THE CLIPPER POST OFFICE.

AMUSEMENT ANSWERS.

J. McF., Roanoke.—1. Without experience you have little chance, and had better abandon your idea. 2. Twenty cents per line each insertion.

W. J. C., Hamburg.—He is traveling in the South. Address him care of THE CLIPPER.

S. W. X., Rochester.—You had better advertise for employment.

C. B. A., Mobile.—Address them care of THE CLIPPER.

SHERMAN.—We do not care to express our opinion. The reason must be obvious to you.

A. W., New Bedford.—1. Her death is accurately recorded in THE CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1888. 2. It was never definitely disclosed whether it was Mann or Mahon. 3. We do not know.

F. T. G., Montreal.—1. Mr. Booth's is a photograph, as we have been led to understand. 2. S. Phelps, Nov. 6, 1878. 3. Charles Fechter, Aug. 4, 1879. 4. In Cassel, Germany.

JIM AND WILL.—Write to W. A. Pond & Co., music publishers, Union square, this city, for the exact date.

P. H., Chicago.—Address Director Edmund C. Stanton, Metropolitan Opera-house, this city, for the roster of that company.

G. C. R., Brooklyn.—You can locate him by writing to W. A. Pond & Co., Union square, this city.

R. T. S., Terre Haute.—From $25 to $40 and expenses; but without experience you will have immense difficulty in securing an engagement.

E. R. A., Wellsville.—We cannot give the "rating" of any theatrical combination, or vouch for the responsibility—financial or artistic—of any troupe.

MANAGER D. C.—Neither show has announced its route, so we cannot tell you at this time.

FRED, Baltimore.—See head of this column.

MISS A. E. K., Worcester.—First attempt is crude and unavailable. Never write on both sides of the paper. The punctuation is incorrect, and the language is not good.

C. J. S., Vinton.—1. Mrs. Stowe's novel, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," first appeared in weekly chapters in The National Era, Washington, D. C., in 1851-2, and was first published in book form in 1852, in Boston. 2. National Theatre, this city, Aug. 23, 1852.

R. H., Little Rock.—Mrs. Sarah Siddons died June 8, 1831, in London, Eng.

A. L., New Haven.—1. Send one dollar and one printed title-page to the Librarian of Congress, Washington, D. C. 2. Salaries vary too much to justify stating an average. 3. Advertise in THE CLIPPER. 4. Consult any responsible firm of lithographers. 5. We do not care to discuss your friend's case. He and Mr. E. must settle their dispute among themselves. 6. From $12 to $50, according to the style used.

J. S.—We have no record of the death of such a person, and cannot place the troupe you refer to.

MRS. M. A. W., Providence.—We are afraid nothing short of a personal interview will induce Manager Thos. Stratton and Manager F. T. Noble to return the photographs. Our opinion is that they ought to return them. Perhaps they will read this, and do the fair thing by you.

ADAM AND BILL.—"Pot-pie" Herbert (1812), George Nichols, Sam Tatnall, Bob Farrell, John and Frank Whittaker, and T. D. Rice ("Jim Crow") were all "originators."

H. C. C., Nevada.—We cannot undertake to locate troupes for the purpose you name. You had better advertise in THE CLIPPER your open date, and specially mention the company you have in mind. There is no surer way of reaching them.

M, M.—A dress him care of THE CLIPPER, and see head of this column.

READER, N. Y. City.—Her marriage is recorded in THE CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1888.

READER, Albany.—1. For the music, consult W. A. Pond & Co., Broadway, this city. 2. For the novel, the American News Co., this city.

W. B., Philadelphia.—Read our Detroit letter regularly, and you will be well posted.

CONSTANT READER.—We know nothing about Mr. Patton.

W. H. T., Rockville.—We are well enough supplied just at present, thank you.

J. R. L., Duluth.—We have had no definite information as to his identity. Keep a lookout for news.

S. D. M., Montreal.—1. We do not publish salaries at all. The roster of that company was long ago given in THE CLIPPER, and you must have read it. 2. You need education and ability. Amateurs count for little.

DENVER.—April 3, 1887, at the Grand Opera-house.

P. E. M., Allentown.—There is no recognized champion at either, nor has there been.

H. J.—1. If you have, as you state, an excellent position already, you will do well to retain it. There is slight call for services of the character you describe, and the remuneration would be quite small. 2. The big minstrel companies employ only experienced young men as advance-agents, lithographers, etc. On the whole, we cannot encourage you.

J. C. R.—Barnum's Museum, at the corner of Broadway and Ann street, was burned July 13, 1865; his Museum on Broadway just above Spring street was burned March 3, 1868; his Hippotheatron was burned Dec. 24, 1872.

F. J. B., Jackson.—Send one dollar and a printed title-page to the Librarian of Congress, to copyright the title. He will then send you full instructions as to the other steps to be pursued.

F. F., Brooklyn.—New York City, Brooklyn, Wilmington, Lancaster, Boston, Philadelphia, Williamsburg, Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo, Albany, Toronto, Hoboken, Elizabeth, Newark and others we cannot now recall.

H. J. C., St. Louis.—Consult our Route-list on another page.

F. F., Indianapolis.—Perhaps you had better try French & Son, West Twenty-third street, this city.

CRITERION.—In 1853.

CONSTANT READER, Penn Yan.—When we receive their route, either from correspondents or from their managers, we publish it. If we have heard of or from them this week, you will find their whereabouts indicated in our Route-list on an inside page.

R. V. O., Milwaukee.—We do not express opinions of that nature in this department.

H. H. H., Chicago.—1. There is a drama called "Nathan der Weise." Herr Possart recently played it at the Thalia Theatre, this city. 2. We do not know. You are on the ground; why not ascertain for yourself. 3. He is not.

A. B. C., Chattanooga.—We can find no record of any American performance of it. Rufus Shapley of Philadelpia, Pa., made a version ("Under the Wheels"), but it was never produced. A. R. Cazauran also put it into English, but we have no record of its production.

A. S., Bridgeport.—Their routes have not been made known at this early date, so we cannot enlighten you. Other queries are answered under "Baseball."

D. L., Chicago.—Dec. 9, 1853, at the Broadway Theatre, this city.

B. E., Pueblo.—We keep no record of the first performance of sketches.

C. E. D., Montreal.—1. You need experience, energy, ambition and fearlessness; with these, and an acquaintance with a friendly manager, you may "get there." 2. Same way as just described. 3. No. 4. No, indeed.

CARDS.

J. E. P., Oswego.—We take it for granted that the party next the dealer was No. 2—a numerical fact which you, no doubt, unintentionally failed to state. If so, then the right to beg or stand remained solely with him.

B. W., St. Louis.—The bet as stated is a draw. Under certain circumstances he can, and then again he cannot. A wager as to an actual occurrence in play would have elicited a more exacting decision.

HICKS, Catanovia.—Not unless it has been so specially agreed before commencing play. When you agree to play them, you should at the same time agree as to what they shall beat. No two coteries give them the same value.

MASSACHUSETTS, Boston.—No. Not unless he opened a pot, in which case he would have to show openers only.

CLINTON, Clinton.—No. It was no fault of his that the cards ran out. Strange, indeed, must have been the deal in a two-handed game by which spades should be the continuous trump. A slight deviation from the three-card method of dealing would have altered this, and still been perfectly legal.

A. E. L., Boston.—1. He cannot be compelled to show his hand. 2. See reply to "Massachusetts, Boston."

RED CAP, Hartford.—At regular euchre, which you wrongly seemed to think you were engaged in, B could not possibly go alone. According to the illegal count of any of the numerous mongrel games now in vogue, however, four points would be allowed him for such an absurd play. In your case, therefore, B counts four.

R. E., Harvard.—High.

J. E. B.—According to your statement, the pot rightly belongs to C. All his opponents having passed, neither of them was in a position to dispute his claim. In B's particular case, however, no matter if he had wished to come in after the opening, his hand, under the circumstances named, would have been foul. The discovery that he held six cards should have been made before he looked at their faces, or even raised them from the table.

A. AND B., Brookfield.—No. A did not commit himself by his interrogatory remark.

A. D. E., Roanoke.—Neither. It is a tie between E. and J. They can each count only three points. The fallacy of the non-call-out game is palpably illustrated by the perplexing result in your case.

P. S. S. T., Lebanon.—Yes.

W. L., Old Point Comfort.—Not necessarily.

L. D., Philadelphia.—1 and 2. Agree among yourselves. We never decide double pinochle queries. It is played and counted in too many different ways. 3. Right you are, and in all other games, too.

M. P., Saxonville.—According to your statement, you win, unless it had been otherwise previously agreed.

S. L. B., Brick Church.—B. was right, according to your statement.

D. C.—It was a false opening, the penalty of which you should mutually agree upon. In your particular case, however, we would suggest that the amount for which the pot was falsely opened, or any other reasonable amount upon which you should agree as a just penalty, be added to the original pot—the two sums forming another pot, to be competed for in the regular way. Of course, the additions to the pot after the false opening by the other players should revert to them, respectively.

R. AND P., Macon.—Answer next week.

ATHLETIC.

H. M. B., Brooklyn.—Address him in care of The Australian Sportsman, Sydney, N. S. W.

G. A. C., Irvington.—In order to constitute a record it will be necessary to prove that the performance was accomplished under the supervision of regularly appointed officials.

DR. M. F. G., Brooklyn.—Paddy Fitzgerald's best record for six days go-as-you-please racing is 610 miles. Hazael's best record is 600 miles 220 yards.

J. C. B., Minneapolis.—You will find the record in THE CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1888, obtainable through your newsdealer.

L. T. S.—See answer to "J. C. B."

TURNER'S SOCIETY, Keokuk.—There is no record for that style of jumping.

M. A. H., Cleveland.—1. "Practical Training," which you can obtain from Ed. James, whose address is in advertisement. 2. THE CLIPPER ANNUAL; price, fifteen cents.

CONSTANT READER.—Charles Rowell's best record for six days is 602 miles, made in the contest in which Fitzgerald made 610 miles.

O. W., Concord.—1. In that case the bet would be a draw. As it is, however, A wins. 2. See answer under head of "Cards."

B. AND G., Brooklyn.—The O'Leary belt was won by Nick Murphy of Haverstraw, N. Y., at Madison-square Garden, this city, in October, 18.9. He is living.

Z. LA P., Providence.—A. F. loses the bet.

MISS A. K., Galveston.—He can be addressed in care of this office.

DICE, DOMINOES, ETC.

O. W., Concord.—Sixes.

H. U. P., Cleveland.—1. Yes. 2. Certainly. 3. Of course they can.

NO NAME, Chicago.—A wins. Fours are higher than aces.

TURF.

W. J. G.—Raceland is owned by August Belmont.

RING.

H. M. S., Boston.—It would not necessarily be a knock-out because B had his arm broken and could not continue, nor could he be called a "quitter." The injury sustained by him was sufficient to incapacitate him from continuing the battle.

H. C., Fairbury.—There were several parties interested financially in the match on his side.

T. H., Fall River.—There was no occasion for either party to go to scale, and it is not likely that either knew what his weight was upon entering the ring. Draw the bet.

IRVINGTON.—1. During the last few years he has so earned his livelihood. He is a cooper by trade. 2. He is not his own backer always. Gus Tuthill has generally been behind him in matches. 3. We have no idea what amount of money he is possessed of.

HASTINGS, Philadelphia.—1. He did not. 2. They never met with the gloves on, to our knowledge.

CLIPPER READER.—1. Tom McAlpine, alias "Soap," beat Barney Harris in 1863. George Barnes in 1865, Johnny Devine in 1866, J. Lynch in 1867, J. Boyne in 1868, and Fred Bussey in the same year. He also fought a draw with McElroy in 1867 and with Johnny Mulligan in 1869. 2. Joe Coburn was trained for his fight with Jim Mace at Bay St. Louis, Miss., by Tom McAlpine, who was substituted for Johnny Dwyer a few days after Coburn went into training at Carrollton, La., Dwyer being unable to stand the fatigue. McAlpine and Tom Kelly seconded Coburn in the fight.

R. B., Brooklyn.—John L. Sullivan and Dominick McCaffrey had their glove contest at Chester Park, Cincinnati, O.

BOXERS, Orange.—It, as you state, Lew Brown has fought for money, he is a professional, of course.

J. H. G., Aspen.—We are not aware that any boxer bearing that name ever was a member of a John L. Sullivan combination.

BASEBALL, CRICKET, ETC.

D. F., Brooklyn.—Jimmy Wood, the veteran second-baseman, was connected with the Chicago Club from 1870 to 1874, inclusive, but was not the manager when its team in 1876 first won the championship.

C. R. S., Philadelphia.—1. In 1886 the Metropolitans, St Louis Browns and Pittsburgs were each once retired without a safe hit. 2. Philadelphia can claim the distinction of having the first salaried team, viz., the old-time Athletics. 3. We have no record of Bushong and Robinson playing with the Woodland Club of West Philadelphia.

G. B. AND R. R.—The Mutuals for a short time held the nominal championship, but the Atlantics had the best record in 1870, and were generally acknowledged as the virtual champions.

A. F., Philadelphia.—Teams of the Athletic and Boston Clubs visited Europe in 1874, and engaged in seven games of cricket, six of which were won by the visitors, who played with the odds of eighteen men against eleven, while one game was drawn on account of rain.

J. E. G., Albany.—1. Seven called balls in 1881 and six called balls in 1885 entitled the batsman to take first-base. 2. Three strikes were the rule both in 1881 and 1885.

A. S., Bridgeport.—1. We have not Buckenberger's record as a manager. 2. The salaries paid players are known only to themselves and their respective clubs.

BILLIARDS, POOL, ETC.

J. L. M.—You are a little previous. On page 773 of last week's CLIPPER, last column, you will find an account of the tournament.

W. A. C., Ada.—1. Send to Dick & Fitzgerald, Ann street, N. Y. 2. Schaefer's run of 281 points, at Milwaukee, Wis., recently, does not constitute a record. 3. Please state the conditions under which Slosson made the run you mention.

MISCELLANEOUS.

H. M., Pittsburg.—B wins.

READER.—Consult any money-broker and ascertain definitely for yourself.

READER, Omaha.—It is a corporation as to whose affairs the public know but little. We do not care to commit ourselves on the subject.

SUBSCRIBER, Garnerville.—The "Manual of Sporting Rules," which you can obtain from Ed. James, whose address is in advertisement, will give you the desired information.

F. H. T., Garnerville.—See answer to "Subscriber."

J. E. W., Seneca Falls.—We know of no such law, unless the common law against suicide covers the case.

R. H. W., Philipsburg.—The American News Co., this city, will give you price, and get it for you.

CONSTANT READER, New Haven.—Scott Coin and Stamp Co., Broadway.

R. E. T.—Counsellor E. E. Price informs us that the original association cannot be deprived of its title, and no other association can, by simply incorporating itself, take the name which was already in existence and used prior to its organization. See Black Rabbit Association vs Thomas J. Munday Jr. and others; decided, Supreme Court Chambers; Donohue, J.; Sept. 9, 1887.

CONSTANT READER, N. Y. City.—We do not consider it THE CLIPPER'S business to know whether or not he is divorced, married or single. Therefore, excuse us.

A. E. C., Asheville.—We publish only THE CLIPPER and THE CLIPPER ANNUAL. Send to Ed. James, whose address appears in an other column.

J. O. D., Halls Corners.—No. He goes around the tree only.

A SUBSCRIBER, Washington.—We presume you mean the plurality of the Democratic ticket in this State? It was 1,047. That figure is based upon the vote for Ottendorfer, Elector-at-large and head of the Democratic ticket, and the vote for Blakeman, Elector-at-large and head of the Republican ticket.

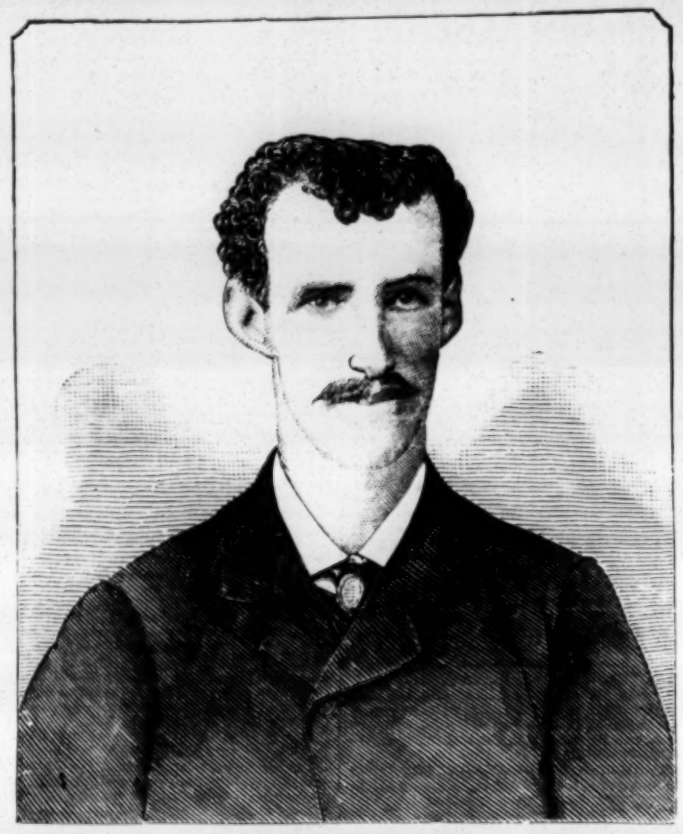
F. H. S., Ohio, AND G. S., St. Louis.—Answer next week.

L. D., Providence.—Yes. Both places are run by the same individual. Besides the two named, he has two other establishments in this city.

P. S. G.—We have them. Price, fifty cents.

C. M., Cleveland.—Probably not, from present appearances, on the Hudson; but the other line makes daily trips all the year round.

A REMARKABLE FISH.—The climbing perch of India is one of the most remarkable of fishes. A scientific writer says of him: "He is a little fellow, very like a perch in general form, with large scales and spiny dorsal fin, and is to be found in rivers and ponds in most parts of the East Indies. When the waters which he inhabits seem in danger of being dried up, he leaves them and travels off in search of others. Though he prefers to make these journeys at night, or in the early morning, while the dew still lies upon the grass, he often travels by day, and has even been met toiling along a hot, dusty, gravel road, under the full glare of the Indian midday sun. It is, however, for his climbing powers that this extraordinary fish is named above all others that frequent the land. By the aid of his spiny gill-covers and tail-fin, which he pushes into the crevices in their bark, he manages to climb the trees." The fish is said to be able to live out of water for six days.



MARTIN J. POWELL,

whose picture is above given, died of consumption Feb. 5 at his residence in Fitchburg, Mass. He was born March 25, 1856, in that city, and his first professional engagement was with the Lowell Club in 1878, when he played first-base and change catcher in the early part of the season, that team then holding the New England championship. In July of the same year he went to Holyoke, Mass., and played in similar positions with its professional team the remainder of the season. Powell continued with the Holyokes during 1879, being one of the six left-handed batsmen known as the "Big Six," and ranking second in the batting averages of the National Association's championship games. In 1880 he guarded first-base for the Nationals of Washington, D. C., and by his fine play in that position, together with his excellent batting, materially aided that club in winning the championship of the National Association, and in defeating the champion Chicagos in six out of eleven games. Powell opened the season of 1881 with the Nationals, with whom he remained until June 18, when Manager Bancroft engaged him as first-baseman of the Detroit Club. He played three seasons with the Detroit Club, and in 1881 led its team in batting besides standing second in that respect in the National League official averages. Not being on the reserved list of Detroit, he joined the Cincinnati team of the Union Association in 1884, and ranked eighth in batting at the close of that season. Impaired health then caused his retirement from the diamond, and for two years he was engaged in business in his native city. Powell bore an unblemished reputation, and was loved and respected by all his associates on and off the ball-field, who will hear with regret of his untimely demise.

CHESS.

To Correspondents.

BRO WIEMAN, Baltimore.—We can hardly ask for an extra copy; you ask your "ex. ed." to secure your CLIPPER-ings regularly. Thanks for information in re ladies' tourney; we note it. Thanks for slips.

EDITOR "CRITIC," Halifax, N. S.—We feel obliged to decline, with thanks for courteous attention.

J. C. BIRD.—Your reasons for Mr. Hodge's severe defeat are undoubtedly the correct ones. If we come across a translation of the sixth game we may give it; 'cous on the point of calving," otherwise known as springers, go promptly into our waste basket, as we have all the civilized chess we can possibly attend to.

T. A. HALLETT, Des Moines.—Probably you have cleared your position from the doubt we expressed; but, as some one else has had and published it, we are relieved from further consideration. Thank you for welcome solutions; what say you to this week's stratagems?

BRO. HAMILTON.—Right cheerfully done; we mark that seven pounder for our readers.

FOR LADIES, ONLY.—Bro. Wieman, in The Baltimore Sunday News, has announced a solving competition exclusively for ladies, which we commend with peculiar pleasure. Eighteen problems, six each in two, three and four moves will form the stock in-trade, three to be given each Sunday during Lent; but, unless at least twenty enter, the proposal will be withdrawn. The names of judges will be announced when the entries reach the prescribed twenty. Each entrant must sign the following: "I enter as a competitor in The B. S. N ladies' solver's problem tourney, and pledge my honor not to accept hints or assistance from any other parties, but to send in only my own solutions." A purse of $40 has been made up and deposited with a leading book-house in Baltimore, and the certificate of first prize will entitle the holder to draw $10 worth; second prize, $7.50; third prize, $5; fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth, $2.50 each; and $5 worth for special prizes in case of ties, etc. We shall be glad to note the victors..... The News is also running, about closing, we suppose, its Sixth Prob. Tourney. It is to be congratulated on having secured those supreme grand masters of problem criticism, S. Loyd, E. B. Cook and Geo. E. Carpenter as judges. First prize, $15; second prize, $10; third prize, $5; fourth prize, $3; and fifth prize, $2, decided on a system of total points. We see sixty-three problems noted as competitors, and the victors will, no doubt, richly merit the world-wide fame that awaits them.

JUST AS WE CLOSE this copy, a brochure from Baltimore is laid on our table, which, considering the dread presence of the crushing calamity now weighing upon Mr. Steinitz's heart, is simply brutal, and ought to receive the reprobation of every right-thinking man.

(a) A great favorite with Jas. McConnell.

(b) At this point, we believe, Mr. McC. usually plays Q B × Kt. The line of play in the text, however, besides other advantages, seems to have the merit of retaining B × Kt as a perpetual and more dangerous threat later on.

(c) If 11..K to Kt sq, B to Kt 2!; 12..R P × P (if), Q B × Kt etc.

(d) Yields White a passed P; but, in maintaining it, his K B becomes badly locked in.

21. Q R × Kt	Q R × Q	24. Q B-B 6	Q-R 3, with

(h) Not commendable, obstructing the action of Q B; usual, and correct, is Kt to Kt 3.

(i) Notwithstanding Black played to the extreme boundary of the time-limit, while his adversary nearly discounted him in this respect, he makes about all the harmful errors of judgment in this game. Here he gives White an open file for his R presently, and an attack on a vulnerable point.

(k) Weak, and loss of time; White's B P must be moved to make room for his K.

(l) Hampers his own game considerably; K R home was far better.

(m) [Hitherto rather heavy, the game now receives a considerable infusion of interest]:

BLACK (Mr. Gossip).

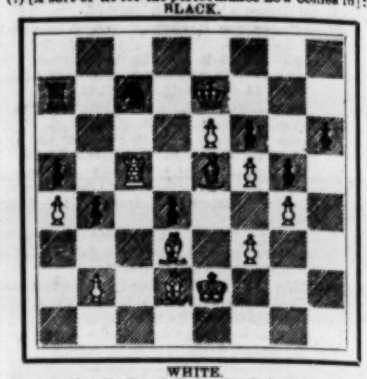
WHITE (Mr. Heiman)

Move made—32..P to K 5! Well played, giving him a great advantage in position. Black evidently overlooked its strength; he should have played K (to R) sq, before advancing B P.

(m) Not so good as to Q sq.

(?) [A sort of tit-for-tat performance now comes in]:

BLACK.



WHITE.

Move made—50..P to Q Kt 3? Surely both players must have become weary with the long strain, or one would not have given the opportunity, and the other failed to profit by it, of 50..R × R P. As it is, White wins Q P, and the game, at his leisure. [One unique feature of this tourney is that, as far as actual victories are concerned, the four leaders, Champion Charlick, Messrs. Esling, Gossip and Heiman all came off precisely even, the relative grade of each, with the uniform difference of ½, being settled by losses and draws. Add Messrs. Burns, Crane and Fisher to this list, and a most determined struggle for supremacy, may be looked for in Melbourne in the '88 congress.]

GLASGOW WEEKLY HERALD.—We have been renewing our acquaintance with the earlier years of this time-honored co-laborer in Caissa's vineyard. That we know whereof we speak, may be inferred, as we are just finishing a scrap-book of its columns up to No. CCC. It has always been edited with zeal, courage and ability; and these efforts have been seconded with surprising steadiness by the publishers in the liberal space uniformly allotted to their chess editors. No paper was ever more loyal to its "native heath," and yet its news and articles of all kinds have set forth much of the best cosmopolitan chess. No wonder the game has at last taken such firm hold of the intellectual Scottish people. After Scotch chess, one thing is noticeable—there is as much American chess, all sorts taken into account, as from all European continental countries put together. Now for the book. It begins with chess No. XV, Feb. 7, 1873, and ends with No. CCC, June 22, '78. It is in double column, tu! muslin, the actual slips a little over eight and a half inches in length. True, there are a few breaks, but from No. CCIX to the end, there is but a single slip wanting! During the first hundred it give XXX Kt's Tours, under the title "Knightly Peripatetics," with verbal and mathematical solutions. With No. LXXIV it opened a department of "Chess Notes and Queries," which for a year or two created much interest. For a long time many of the diagrams, on paper, never very white, were so indistinct as to cause much complaint, and the very large diagram still in use first appeared as No. CCLXV, Oct. 20, '77. When chess minor items became too numerous for separate heads, The Herald began grouping them under the general title "Notes and News," Feb. 9, '78. Its general departmental head was, at first, simply "Chess;" but, on adopting the large diagram, this was expanded into "The Game of Chess," which it still retains. When it discarded the unwieldy Roman for the Arabic numerals we cannot now say. On finishing our book we shall give some statistics of its contents. May this faithful and effective exponent of its value and of its pleasures continue to be the leader of Scotch chess for many generations.

CHECKERS.

To Correspondents.

GEORGE BENSON.—The most perfect books on checkers contain many errors, and this will be the case until checkers shall become a perfect science.

G. H. SLOCUM.—Thanks for fine position.

D. BROWN.—A. Schaeffer, M. D., has proved by play, and not by talk, that he is the strongest player in New York City.

EDWARD SMITH.—Many thanks for the fine end-game.

T. J. D.—He has that right.

THE Syracuse Herald thinks that Percy M. Bradt is the best player south or west of New York.

OUR Scottish friends say that Barker was too young for Martins. Mr. Thompson used to remark that when you had beaten a man, it was "no more than fair to allow him to explain how the thing was brought about."

IT IS believed in checker circles that Barker will soon return to Europe, and play a match with Smith, champion of England.

ENGLISH TENNIS RULES.

At the annual meeting of the representatives of the British lawn-tennis clubs, held in London, Jan. 18, the new set of rules proposed by the Fitzwilliam Lawn-tennis Club of Dublin were adopted. For the information of those interested we print them below:

1. The laws of lawn-tennis as last revised by the All England Lawn-tennis Club shall be enforced at all interclub meetings.
2. A referee shall be appointed by mutual agreement.
3. In addition to the duties and powers of the referee as laid down in the regulations of the All England Tennis Club, he may, at his discretion, and on appeal from either club, direct that the ground shall be rolled at any time during the meeting. Without such discretion the ground shall only be rolled at the request of either club at the end of a match, and before the beginning of another. The referee, on appeal from any player, shall decide when new balls, and how many of them, shall be issued to the players, and it shall be the duty of the referee to decide whether the ground is fit for play, i. e., owing to weather or otherwise.
4. The ball used at all interclub meetings shall be selected by mutual agreement between the competing clubs.
5. Provisions for the payment for the balls to be used at interclub matches shall be made by mutual agreement between the competing clubs.
6. All interclub meetings shall be one-day meetings.
7. The hour for the cessation of play shall be fixed by mutual agreement before the commencement of play.
8. The number of single-handed or four-handed matches, or both, shall be settled by mutual agreement between the competing clubs.
9. All matches shall be the best of three advantage sets.
10. The club which wins the greater number of matches shall be the winner at the meeting.
11. In case all the matches have not been played out by the time fixed for the cessation of play, or if play has been stopped by weather, the meeting shall be considered as drawn, unless either club shall have won the number of matches which would have entitled it to victory if all the matches had been played out.
12. These regulations shall be binding in all interclub meetings, and shall only be altered by mutual agreement between the competing clubs.

REGIMENTAL ATHLETICS.

The usual large attendance was present at the annual games of the Twenty-second Regiment and Spartan Harriers, held at the armory in this city on Saturday evening, Feb 11. There were half a dozen events on the programme, which produced good contests and resulted as follow:

Fifty-yards run—Final heat: N. Linicus, Olympic Athletic Club, 4ft. start, first, in 5⅝s.; R. J. Hussey, Nassau Athletic Club, 10ft. start, second, by a yard. There were ten first trial heats, the path being laid diagonally across the space inclosed by the thirteen-lap track.

Half-mile run—W. Thompson, Manhattan Athletic Club first, in 2m. 7⅞s.; Peter D. Skillman, Manhattan Athletic Club, scratch, second.

One mile walk—J. C. Korth, Pastime Athletic Club, 50s. start, first, in 7m. 51⅝s; H. Bjertberg, Olympic Athletic Club, 20s. start, second. E. D. Lange, Manhattan Athletic Club, scratch, bowled over a baker's dozen of his opponents, but was given a harder task than he could accomplish.

One-mile run—E. Bjertberg, Olympic Athletic Club, 20yds. start, first, in 4m. 48⅞s.; P. D. Skillman, Manhattan A. C., scratch, second; T. A. Collett, Pastime A. C., 50yds., third by a foot.

Tug-of-war.—First pull: Columbia College team (H. P. Billinger, G. M. Elliott, A. M. Raymond and Alexander Stevens) beat Thirteenth Regiment team (D. F. Brokaw, T. L. Livering, N. T. Brokaw and D. S. Ford) by eight inches. Second pull: Nassau Athletic Club (J. Baird, C. Stokum, C. Belger and E H. Baird) beat Scottish American Athletic Club (P. Cahill, G. Morasch, G. Grall and E. Glostermer) by about a foot. Final pull: Nassau beat Columbia by thirteen inches.

Quarter-mile run.—Final heat: J. Davis, Olympic Athletic Club, 17yds. start, first, in 58⅝s.; C. Ward, West-side Athletic Club, 7yds., second; J. T. Norton, Spartan Harriers, third.

Robert Stoll, American Athletic Club, the champion, and James B. Barnett, Nonpariel Boat Club, also entertained the spectators with a clever exhibition on the flying rings.

PETER LOGAN, who nearly forty years ago was the champion racquet player of Canada, died in Ottawa, from the effects of cancer in the thorax, near the root of the tongue, Feb. 5. He came to Canada as a member of the Royal Artillery in 1844, and after obtaining his discharge was for a long time manager of the racquet court in the rear of Harry Beverly's club house and billiard parlor, Toronto, and upon the removal of the troops, to the officers of which the court belonged, he obtained employment as a messenger in the Civil Service list in Ottawa. About four years ago age began to tell and he was placed on the superannuated list.

JOHN HAGLEY of Gravenhurst and C. Bordell of Bracebridge contended for the mastery in a skating match for the championship of Muskoka at Gravenhurst, Ont., Feb. 3. The account before us fails to state the distance or time, but Hagley won the race by more than a lap. He has a silver medal to show for his victory. The rink in which the contest took place was filled with people.

CHARLES MOTH defeated Bert Scheller in a wrestling match, catch-as-catch-can, best two falls in three, at the Opera-house, Beloit, Wis., Feb. 6. The first fall was gained after an hour's struggling, and, after forty-five minutes had been used up in striving for the second fall, Scheller gave up, as he had not the strength to continue the battle.

E. J. CASE of Hamilton, Can., and Peter Priddy of Pittsburg, Pa., are talking of making a match, to include three distances; the proposition emanating from the former, and being accepted by the Pennsylvanian, provided he receives sufficient money for the defrayment of expenses.

A SKATING MATCH, five miles, between Cunningham of Fergus and Gilroy of Alvinston, is to take place at St. Thomas, Can., on Feb. 15. There will be a three-mile race for the championship of the city on the same day.

CHAMPION JAMES ALBERT.

When the six days' go-as-you please race, which opened so auspiciously just after midnight of the previous Sunday, closed on Saturday evening, Feb. 11, the winner, James Albert, had accomplished a most phenomenal performance. Not only had he eclipsed the seemingly unsurpassable achievement of Patrick Fitzgerald by more than eleven miles, but he had performed the feat with so little apparent exertion that the achievement was rendered the more remarkable. There is no doubt that, had he been pressed during the last twenty-four hours, he could have added many more miles to the 621 that loomed up opposite his name on the big blackboard when the one hundred and forty-two hours had expired. Doubtless he felt the effects of the tax to which his physical strength and vitality had been subjected during the long journey, but so thoroughly had he been prepared for the struggle, and so well was he handled during its progress, that his personal appearance afforded no indication of bodily suffering incidental to the prolonged exertion and loss of sleep, which enabled him to reach so high a niche in the temple of pedestrian fame. His action, as he ran his last mile, was as free and graceful and his carriage as erect and jaunty as when he started on the long journey which has brought him both fame and fortune. There was in his appearance, as he pursued his springy way around the endless ellipse, no symptom of fatigue, and the verdict pronounced by all who saw him during the closing hours of this most remarkable race was that he was indeed a wonder. No other man who ever won a six days' race in the garden could compare with Albert, who can now well afford to retire upon the laurels he has won, which is stated to be his purpose. At the commencement of the race it was not deemed at all probable that the record would be reached, and the bookmakers during the first three days offered long odds that it would not be. There were but few takers until the third day, when a few who had confidence in Albert risked some of their means and reaped a golden harvest in return. The pencilliers fancied Herty as a winner more than they did Albert, and good odds were obtainable against the latter up to Friday, and as Albert had plenty of speculative supporters the "bookies" lost heavily on him. Herty failed to justify the confidence that had been reposed in him. He had trouble with his stomach on Monday, which prevented him getting nearer the front, but had he remained perfectly sound he could not have won from Albert. Indeed, had not Panchot gotten into difficulties early on the fifth day, it is not likely that Herty could have deprived the ex-postman of second place. Panchot's trouble was inflammation of the thigh bone, which compelled him to leave the track before three o'clock P. M. on Friday, and prevented his return. He had pressed the leader closely, and many looked upon him as a likely winner until affliction sore came upon him and extinguished his hopes. Guerrero, entered under the name of "Steve Brodie's unknown," created a very favorable impression by his graceful, free style of running, and throughout the contest occupied a prominent position; but his chances were greatly affected by a prolonged attack of bleeding from the nose, which weakened him very much. He is capable, with good luck, of doing much better than he did on this occasion. Hart looked able to accomplish more than he did, but during the last three days he refrained from inflicting upon himself unnecessary punishment. Considering the suffering which he endured, Peter Golden, who never before undertook so big a task, made a very creditable showing, and will doubtless improve upon it should he enter upon another such contest. Noremac, as usual, suffered so much from his rebellious stomach during the early part of the contest that it was only by a display of the most dogged determination and indomitable courage that he was able to pass the limit of 525 miles necessary to entitle a contestant to a share of the gate receipts. During the first half of the week so close together were the first half-dozen men that the public interest, which brought to the Garden so many people on the opening night, was maintained, and, although the management had had weather to contend with on several days, including the last, the attendance throughout the week continued large. As the positions of the men were permanently fixed, bar accident, after the breakdown of Panchot, to the brilliant performance of Albert must be in the main attributed the financial success of the tournament. Despite a storm of snow, sleet and rain, the announcement that for some time the leaders had been ahead of previous records sufficed to attract enough people to fairly well fill the building on Saturday afternoon, and in order to avoid the expected crush the management felt warranted in raising the price of admission to one dollar, which was done shortly after six o'clock. While this doubtless had the effect of curtailing the number of people present at the finish, there was quite as much money in the building as there would have been had the price of tickets remained at fifty cents, over two thousand paying the advanced rate. A great deal more enthusiasm was displayed than at any other time during the week, and when, at 7.34 P. M., Albert equaled Fitzgerald's score of 610 miles, the uproar was deafening, and as the new champion ran around the track at top speed, followed by Guerrero and Herty, the cheering was tremendous. The applause was almost continuous during the evening, Albert remaining on the track and reeling off the miles rapidly, instead of, as customary during the closing hours of such races, appearing on the path only at long intervals. He kept at work, alternately running and walking, till the expiration of the full one hundred and forty-two hours, at ten o'clock, when he bade goodnight to the officials and retired to his hut, preparatory to leaving the building. He was followed by the cheering multitude, and, being called on for a speech, delivered himself to the following effect:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: I have done so much running during the past week that I have no wind with which to make a speech. It was a very good race, and everything went smoothly and to my complete satisfaction. The number of entries were larger than in any other race I entered. There was no trouble to speak of, and I have no complaint to make as to the management. I am thirty-six years old and will retire on my laurels. It is my last race. I thank you for the demonstration, and will say goodnight.

He then donned his street attire and left for the Ashland House, accompanied by his wife, who had been his faithful attendant throughout the week, and who was largely responsible for his ever neat appearance on the track, in which respect, as in his style of progression, he showed in striking contrast to nearly all the others. When the representatives of the men called upon him at the hotel, an hour or more afterwards, for the purpose of paying over to him the thousand dollars offered by Manager Frank Hall to the contestant who should succeed in breaking the record, he was found seated before a cheerful grate fire, enjoying a fragrant Havana. He stated that he felt excellent, and that he was able to have gone considerably farther than he did, had there been any necessity for so doing. He was disposed to attribute his success largely to the constant care and attention bestowed by his devoted wife. The race over, the people rapidly left the Garden, which was soon dark and silent. In order to silence any reports of unfair scoring, the following sworn statement is published:

We, the undersigned, hereby certify that we have scored on James Albert's tally sheets, and that they are correct in every detail.

THE SIX DAYS' RACE.

Paying the Pedestrians at The Clipper Office—The Manager's Money Attached.

There was a great gathering of pedestrians, trainers, backers and people attracted out of curiosity at THE CLIPPER office Monday afternoon, Feb. 13, when the representatives of the men engaged in the recent six days' tournament paid over to the sharers in the gate-money the several amounts due them for the hard work done during the week. Eight of them covered the 525 miles requisite to entitle them to a finger in the pie, and they were all on hand, none of them looking badly after their long tramp, although all of them, with the possible exception of Albert, doubtless felt somewhat stiff and sore. After the count of tickets each day the amount due the contestants (half of the gross admission receipts, at fifty cents per head) was deposited in the Second National Bank, and the money was paid to the men by check, drawn by their representatives. The statement of paid admissions submitted by the latter was as follows:

From the opening to Monday noon, 6,719 tickets	$3 359 50
To Tuesday noon, 4 522 tickets	2.261 00
To Wednesday noon, 4,154 tickets	2.077 00
To Thursday noon, 5,764 tickets	2 882 00
To Friday noon, 6,959 tickets	3,479 50
To Saturday 2 P. M., 9,630 tickets	4.815 00
To Saturday 6 P. M., 3,257 tickets	1,628 50
Saturday evening, at $1, 2,026 tickets	2.026 00
Total	$22.528 50

Of the above total amount the competitors' share was $11,264.25, from which the necessary expenses, amounting to $480, had to be deducted, leaving $10,784.25 to be divided among the eight men, which was distributed as follows:

Albert, 40 per cent.	$4.313 70
Herty, 25 per cent.	2,606 06
Guerrero, 12 per cent.	1,294 11
Hart, 8 per cent.	862 74
Golden, 6 per cent.	647 05
Moore, 4 per cent.	431 37
Strokel, 3 per cent.	323 53
Noremac, 2 per cent.	215 69

In addition to forty per cent of the gate receipts Albert received $1,000 for beating the record, which swelled the amount of his winnings to $5,313.70. He has accepted an engagement at Dockstader's Minstrels, this city, where he made his debut on Monday evening in the course of a burlesque walking-match act, and met with quite an enthusiastic reception. He will remain during the week, then return to Philadelphia.

A Deal of Friction.

During the progress of the tournament there was a deal of friction between Manager Frank Hall, his lieutenants and employes, due to his illiberal methods in the management of the affair, while at the very commencement he gained the ill-will of the majority of the contestants by his failure to provide for their proper accommodation, which they had every reason to expect and demand that he should do. Besides this source of ill-feeling the pedestrians could not be convinced that the management was not in connivance with the speculators, who, throughout the contest, sold complimentary tickets outside the building, which, of course, represented no money for the men on the track, while largely helping to fill the building and put money in the pockets of the manager through the sale of reserved seats, the box-offices for which were placed inside the Garden, and the proceeds from which were by written agreement with the contestants taken by Mr. Hall. In former tournaments it has been customary to run reserved-seats out of the regular box-offices, the competitors sharing in the profits, and after their dear experience last week it is not likely that any of those who took part in that tourney will ever again be induced to agree that the management shall have the entire proceeds of the reserved-seats. This arrangement also occasioned much dissatisfaction among the people, who, after paying half a dollar to enter the building, were obliged to put down fifty cents more for the privilege of occupying a seat, even on the south side of the Garden, which in all other similar races had been free to all who chose to occupy them, as it always should be. There is no doubt that the men in the race were defrauded through the sale of complimentary tickets, but it is difficult to say exactly who was to blame. That they received half of every regular paid ticket that came in there is no reason to question.

Hall's Money Attached.

On Monday morning, 12, William O'Brien, William P. Corney and James C. Kennedy, the two former having been lieutenants of Hall, while the latter acted as judge, having failed to receive the amounts due them, $2,500 in all, and fearing that the manager was about to depart for Philadelphia without settling up, attached the money deposited by the management in the Second National Bank, and the matter will probably have to be settled in the courts.

The physician who attended Albert during the week, Dr. W. J. Skilling, of 102 Christian street, Philadelphia, speaking of the race, said: "Albert is a physical wonder. He was in perfect condition when he entered for the race, and his training at Atlantic City is what kept him up. His victory was due to his superb condition. He was on the track 20 hours out of every 24 and covered five miles an hour. If he had had somebody pushing him closely for first place, I believe Albert would have scored 650 miles. He didn't complain of an ache after the race was over, and by to-morrow, when he has had plenty of sleep, he will be all right. There isn't much danger that his record will be broken soon, and he can afford to retire now. His ambition has always been to beat the best record and then stop walking. He was easy to handle, and on being awakened to go on the track again he always jumped up quickly, bathed his face and put on fresh shoes. He wouldn't let anybody lace his shoes for him. He was very particular about everything and always wanted his coffee after he got up. He was in a good humor all the time and showed remarkable determination."

Proposed Big Race.

The success of the tournament has convinced sporting New Yorkers that a similar event, properly managed, will prove very profitable, and arrangements are making for the holding of another six days' go-as-you-please race at the same place during the latter part of April, before that structure is demolished. It is projected by P. J. Donohue, who acted as referee in the race last week, and Bryan G. McSwyny, whose famous make of pedestrian shoes were worn by the majority of those who took places in the late contest, including the winner. It is proposed to limit the entries to fifteen, a committee of three to pass upon the merits of applicants, as it is desired to confine the starters to men who have gained enduring fame as long-distance pedestrians, who will be pretty certain to remain on the track the entire six days, and who will all stand a fair chance, judged by the standard of previous performances, of accomplishing 600 miles during the week, which it is now proposed to make the minimum limit necessary to secure a share of the receipts. It is confidently expected that James Albert will reconsider his expressed intention of withdrawing from the field and take part, and that Charley Rowell, George Littlewood, D. J. Herty, Gus Guerrero, John Hughes, F. H. Hart, and possibly Paddy Fitzgerald, will be among the starters.

Rowell Challenges Albert.

The following was cabled to The Herald on Feb. 13: "It is announced this morning that Charles Rowell challenges James Albert to run six days and six nights for $2,500 a side, and allows him $500 for expenses, the race to take place at the Agricultural Hall, London; or Rowell will accept a similar amount for expenses for the race to take place in America. If these terms do not suit Albert, Rowell will enter a $500 sweepstakes, gate receipts to be divided as in the Astley belt contests.

TEEMER A DOUBLE WINNER.

The first race of the rowing series between Teemer, McKay and Hamm took place Feb. 10 at Punta Gerda, Fla. Large crowds were in attendance. Teemer stripped weighed 170lb, Hamm 176lb and McKay 168lb. The water was rough. For the first quarter-mile Teemer made 32, McKay 34 and Hamm 36 strokes per minute. McKay soon led Hamm and Teemer. At the half-mile Hamm made a spurt and led to the turning point, which he rounded at 4.33. Teemer followed ten seconds later, McKay a few seconds behind Teemer. The turn was one and a half miles from the finish. On the homeward stretch Teemer led five lengths, while Hamm and McKay made a hard struggle for second place. Near the finish Teemer dropped back within a length of McKay, but on a spurt reached the line with a thirty-eight stroke, McKay six seconds later, Hamm two seconds behind McKay. The prize was $400. The second race, five miles, took place 11. There was a high wind, and rough water prevented an early start. The men did not get off until 1.05. Teemer turned his outer flag at 1.13:20 o'clock, with McKay ten seconds later and Hamm sixteen seconds later, Teemer turned his outer flag the second time at 1.35:15, and McKay twenty seconds later. Hamm's shell having become water-logged he withdrew. Teemer finished at 1.45:46, and McKay four seconds later. Teemer rowed the five miles in 41m. 46s., McKay 41m. 50s.

ROSS DEFEATS BUBEAR.

The match between Wallace Ross of St. John N. B., and George Bubear, champion, for $1,000 a side and the championship of England, was decided over the Thames championship course, four miles and a quarter, on Monday, Feb. 13. The American, who had the Surrey side of the river, led from the start to finish, being ten lengths ahead at Hammersmith, two miles from the starting-point, and thereafter rowing quite leisurely, and yet winning by half a dozen lengths, in the fair time of 23m.16s. When Ross defeated Bubear over the same course in 1884, allowing the Englishman ten seconds start, his time was 26m. 10s., so that doubtless the tide favored him on this occasion, in addition to which the removal of one of the old bridges has affected the speed of the course considerably.

ALTHOUGH the ice locking the North Shrewsbury River was coated with a couple of inches of snow, an ice-yacht race was sailed on Feb. 10 for three silver prizes. The distance was six miles and the five contestants finished in the following order: Georgie first, in 15m.; Get There second, Now Then third, Leroy fourth and Gedde fifth. The race was witnessed by a large crowd.

CHANGE OF DATE.—The open regatta which was announced to be held at Pensacola, Fla., Feb. 7, 8, 9, has been postponed to April 17, 18, 19, 20. The change has been deemed advisable by the managers for the reason that the Secretary of the Navy has ordered the North Atlantic squadron to rendezvous in the harbor at that time.

THE steam yacht Narod, now building at Greenpoint, L. I., for H. G. Doran; is 120ft. long, 18ft. beam and 10ft. hold. She will be launched in about two weeks, and will be enrolled in the fleet of the New York Yacht Club.

THE challenge pennant of the North and South Shrewsbury Rivers was sailed for by ice yachts at Red Bank, N. J., Feb. 9, the Kittie, owned by James B. Weaver, winning. She covered the twenty miles in thirty-one minutes.

THE three-ton cutter Ariel has been purchased from W. P. Donaldson of Glasgow, Scotland, by Vice-commodore Charles A. Stevenson of the Larchmont Yacht Club of this city.

TRIGGER.

A RIFLE MATCH between teams of ten men each, representing the Scarboro Rifle Association and the Highland Creek Rifle Club, 100 and 200 yards, was contested at Agincourt, Can., Feb. 4, the Scarboro representatives winning by a score of 376 to 355.

TEAMS from the Guelph and Toronto Gun Clubs shot a match at Toronto, Can., Feb. 6. There were ten men on a side, each of whom shot at ten birds, 26 yards rise, Toronto winning by 68 to 63.

A MATCH was shot in Newark, N. J., on Feb. 8, by teams of ten men each from the Our Own and Excelsior Rifle Clubs, the former of whom won by a score of 1,011 to 921.

BILLIARDS.

DALY'S POOL TOURNAMENT.

The tenth and last regular day of the Brooklyn continuous pool tournament should have commenced with a game in the afternoon, Feb. 10, between Lawlor, the "Boy Wonder," and the veteran Sam Knight, but the latter forfeited the game by not appearing, thus placing Lawlor fourth in the race. Considering that this has been Lawlor's first appearance in public his position is a creditable one, and attests that his future is bright with promise. He plays cooly and steadily, and by his quiet demeanor has gained many friends. The first game of the evening was between Powers and De Oro, with the Cuban the favorite at odds of two to one. There was not much speculation at these odds, as Powers took the lead at the start and held it to the end. The game was one of the best and closest in the tournament. In the last frame De Oro pocketed seven balls, and after missing gave up the game, as Powers had but one to go. Following this came the great event of the tournament—the game between Malone and Frey. The former had not lost a game, and Frey's only chance for first place was to beat and tie his old-time adversary. Frey seemed anxious to redeem himself from the seeming carelessness by which he lost one game in the series, and was also in great form. He assumed the lead by sweeping the table of the first frame, and continued in the lead to the finish, thereby tieing Malone for first place and money. The playing was sharp and brilliant by both. As Malone and De Oro were to play their game for the championship at O'Connor's in this city on the night of Feb. 11, a break was necessarily made in the tournament. Frey and Malone met in the concluding game on Saturday night. Frey was in great form; his execution and position play was almost perfection. In the sixteenth frame he wanted but one to finish the 150 points necessary to win. It was quickly placed to his credit, and the tournament was ended, Malone securing but 89 points in the game. It is impossible at this time to predict the future of the new game of pool. It is palpable that there are innovations that may yet be added to increase its usefulness as a test of skill between experts of both first and second class speed. While allowing for brilliant runs, by being continuous, yet there were games which were slow and tedious. The audiences averaged large, and we heard many speak favorably of the experiment, the credit of which belongs to Frey, who "thought it all out," and to the enterprise of Maurice Daly, who, with commendable liberality, gave it its baptismal trial. What it may achieve as a "drawing" game is yet to be demonstrated. The record of the tournament is: Malone, won 5, lost 2; Frey, won 6, lost 1; Powers, won 4, lost 2; Lawler, won 3, lost 3; De Oro, won 2, lost 4; Manning, won 2, lost 4; Knight, won 0, lost 6. The players put up a sweepstakes of $50 each. Frey takes the stakes and 40 per cent. of the gate-money, Malone 30 per cent., Powers 20 and Lawler 10 per cent. We are informed that the take was over $400.

MALONE vs. DE ORO.

The match between these players for the Grote emblem of the championship at 15-ball pool and $150 a side, best in thirty-one games, first sixty-one in each game under the rules governing the tournament of 1887, was played at O'Connor's Columbia Rooms night of Feb. 11. The hall was crowded, and it was a close and exciting contest from the eleventh game to the finish. Up to that time De Oro had played in bad luck and seemed to be nervously affected and also in bad form. The score at this time showed 8 won by Malone to 3 for the Cuban. In the twelfth game Malone missed an easy line shot, giving an open table for De Oro, who quickly improved his opportunity by running the game out, making 65 to Malone's 15. This seemed to have an electrical effect upon the Cuban, for, continuing his spurt, he won five games out of the next six, tieing the score at 9 each. An exciting incident occurred in the eighteenth game, caused by De Oro when in hand playing outside of the line. Malone, immediately De Oro had made the shot, claimed a foul, and the referee, Arthur True, decided that De Oro had played from the outside. De Oro insisted that he was justified in so doing, and produced a copy of the rules, which, by the way, were made expressly for the tournament of 1887. They proved conclusively that it was possible when in hand to play from most any part of the table, provided the claim of foul was not made until after the shot had been made. Rule 22 distinctly reads so, and the referee so decided. Excitement continued high when De Oro won the nineteenth game, giving him a lead of one game; but Malone, by winning the twentieth, tied the score again at ten each. The end of the twenty-fifth game saw De Oro three in the lead, and from this to the end of the match both players at times seemed rattled and nervous. The match terminated in the close score of 16 for the Cuban to 15 for Malone, and De Oro, who is liked for his genial disposition, was carried around in the arms of his friends. The full score was:

Malone—62, 67, 18, 18, 61, 64, 74, 61, 61, 61, 44, 15, 8, 62, 0, 0, 30, 46, 51, 65, 67, 19, 0, 30, 44, 63, 66, 61, 52, 63, 11.

De Oro—0, 6, 64, 70, 0, 8, 7, 16, 0, 0, 63, 65, 61, 26, 61, 61, 62, 63, 64, 12, 16, 61, 61, 64, 61, 18, 54, 46, 61, 36, 61.

SCHAEFER AND CARTER gave an exhibition at Bensinger Bros.', "The Standard," St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 31, Feb. 1 and 2. The game played was balk-line billiards, 1,200 points up, in blocks of 400 points. Schaefer won by a score of 1,200 to 599. A cushion-carom game was played after each balk-line game. Feb. 1 Schaefer won at cushion caroms, 75 to 13, with a high run of 36. Feb. 2 Carter won, 100 to 20, with a best run of 45. At Minneapolis, Feb. 3, afternoon, the billiard parlors of "The West" were crowded to witness the game between the great experts, and at balk-line billiards Schaefer beat Carter by a score of 300 to 182, with a best run of 81. Schaefer also won a cushion-carom game. In the evening, in a cushion-carom game, Carter beat the Wizard, 75 to 17; then a balk-line game was won by Schaefer, 300 to 145; best run 101, by Schaefer.

DAVID C. JOHNSON, who has been a participant in all of the book-makers' tournaments held hereabouts for the past several seasons, has been handicapped out of all future tournaments. He was married Feb. 9 in St. Louis, to Blanche Thorne, a niece of the late Charles Thorne Jr. and of Edwin Thorne. The lady is a daughter of William Thorne, the only member of the original family bearing that name who did not take professionally to the stage.

ALBERT M. FREY is entertaining his friends and the patrons of the billiard room at 234 Broadway, of which he became proprietor through purchase of Maurice Daly on Jan. 26, as we go to press. All of the local talent have volunteered to give the young benedict a rousing send-off in his new venture, particulars of which will be given next week.

EDWARD MCLAUGHLIN of Philadelphia refuses to recognize the challenge of Burris for the State cushion-carom championship, which the former won in the late tournament in Philadelphia, from the fact that it was sent to a third party, challenging the champion, instead of direct to the champion.

POLLARD of Philadelphia has withdrawn the $100 forfeit money which he posted with John Creahan when he challenged Burris or Bullock to play a match at either balk-line game or regular billiards for $500, because the parties named failed to reply to his defi.

SLOSSON, Rhines, Charles Parker, Gallagher, Thatcher and John Burns turned out collectively Feb. 10, and, for charity's sake, gave a series of exhibition games at Humboldt Rink, in Chicago, where a fair was being held for the benefit of St. Sylvester's Church.

JOHANN STRAUSS, the celebrated composer, being much gratified with American fondness for his music, is naturally in love with everything American, and sports an American billiard table at his home. He is a constant student of the game.

THE proposed second book-makers' tournament has fallen through, owing to various reasons, the principal one being the going away of several of the handicapped players.

SCHAEFER and Carter reached Kansas City on their exhibition tour Feb. 10.

THE CONNECTICUT TOURNAMENT.

The eight-inch balk-line State championship tournament, which was organized by Matt H. Hewins of Hartford, Ct., was concluded Feb. 6. The tournament was a great success and should boom the game in Connecticut to a large extent. Fred Hawks of Torrington, having gone through the tournament without defeat, was crowned champion of the State with due honors in Hewins' room on Feb. 6. Kingsbury immediately challenged Hawks to a contest for the billiard-table trophy which Hawks holds subject to challenge. Special prizes were awarded, but no man was allowed to take more than one prize. For quickest played game, 1h. 45m., Hawks won a fruit dish; for largest run, Hendricks, with 36, won a silk umbrella; highest average, 3.31-73, Kellogg won an ornamental mirror; two dress shirts for greatest number of large runs, White, 18, 24, 17. A half-dozen shirts and silver salver were returned to the donors, because the rules of the tournament permitted no one to receive two special prizes. Fifteenth game, Feb. 6, Hawks beat Hendricks; score, 250 to 157; average, 3.40-70; best run 31, by loser 15. Score of games won and lost: Hawks, won 5, lost 0; Hendricks, won 4, lost 1; White, won 2, lost 3; Kellogg, won 2, lost 3; Kingsbury won 1, lost 4; Sanderson, won 1, lost 4. The tie between Kingsbury and Sanderson was played off Feb. 6, Kingsbury winning by a score of 100 to 47; average, 3.22 26; best run 10, by loser 7. The tie between White and Kellogg was played off Feb. 7, and resulted in the defeat of Kellogg by a score of 250 to 217; average, 3.16-78; best run 22, by White 44.

THE pool experts who participated in Daly's tournament were conspicuous through their absence from the De Oro-Malone championship pool match, which was played at O'Connor's Feb. 10, an off night for the Daly tournament.

JULIUS BALKE and family of Cincinnati reached this city last week in time to attend the Liederkranz ball at the Metropolitan Opera-house, and will remain hereabouts during the German-opera season.

A POOL MATCH was played at the Revere House Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 2, by James Burrows and W. Thompson. The stake was fifty dollars a side, and Burrows won with a score of eleven to eight games.

THE billiard championship of Scotland and $500 was played for at the Waterloo Rooms, Glasgow, Jan. 28, by W. M. Green, champion, and J. G. Sala, 12,000 up. Sala won by a score of 12,002 to 7,849.

JOHN L. MILLER of the firm of Miller & Jones, who have the billiard saloon in the National Theatre building, Washington, D. C., died Feb. 11 and was buried 13 at Oak Hill.

NO WORD comes from the Racquet Club of the renewal of the proposed annual amateur championship of America tournament at straight billiards.

A POOL TOURNAMENT is being played by the Douglass Club members in Chicago. There are thirty entries, in five classes, with a prize in each class.

LAWLOR of this city will probably take the place of Smith of Binghamton in the Syracuse pool tournament, which begins Feb. 20.

SEXTON and Daly are announced to give exhibitions in Boston during the present week.

THE RING.

WEIR WINS AGAIN.

About a thousand persons witnessed the glove-contest between Ike Weir, the "Belfast Spider," and Tommy Burke, the California boxer, which was for gate receipit, and took place at the Theatre Comique, Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 10. Burke was outclassed. The first round the Spider punished Burke severely, and in the second round secured three knockdowns. Burke got up each time quickly and stood the round, acting entirely on the defensive. In this round the Spider hurt his left wrist by a swinging blow. In the third round Burke began to show signs of distress. Weir, to save his hands, did not rush him savagely at first, and the round was rather tame. In the fourth round Weir went to work to finish his man, but Burke, by sprinting and ducking, managed to stay, but was very groggy at the close. When time was called for the fifth, he made an attempt to rush Weir, who easily avoided him, and knocked him down with a righthander on the jaw. Burke could not get up within the ten seconds, and the fight was given to the Spider. Burke was badly punished in the face, and both the Spider's hands were injured. Charley Gleason seconded Weir, George Phalen doing the same for Burke, while C. H. Smith was referee.

PHILLIPS IN CANADA.

Harry Phillips, the Canadian sporting man and manager of John L. Sullivan during his European tour, returned to Montreal Feb. 9. In an interview with a newspaper man he said, in regard to the trip abroad: "We have made about $25,000 each, and I left Sullivan in the hands of four trainers—Ned Holske of Boston, Jack Ashton of Providence, Jack Barnitt of New York, and Sam Blakelock of London, to prepare him for his fight with Mitchell. We will toss for the location of the fight, and it will probably take place in France. The rumor started that I had fallen out with Sullivan is all moonshine. This fight is costing me a lot of money, but I thought that, as I had placed John L. in training, I might just as well take a run across to Belgium and France, and then take a look at my stables here. The fight will be for $2,500 a side. I expect to go back in about three weeks." This puts a different complexion on the reports previously circulated to the effect that a misunderstanding had led to a separation between Sully and Phillips.

BILLY MEYER AND HARRY GILMORE met in a hall in La Salle, Ill., Feb. 7, before a large audience, and gave the most scientific sparring exhibition ever witnessed there. In the sixth and last round Meyer's left eye was beautifully frescoed by a terrific right-hander, which was followed by a return from Meyer which raised a protuberance on Gilmore's forehead as large as a goose-egg. Manager Alf. Kennedy had to rush in and separate the boys, who showed signs of much animus.

DUFFY DEFEATS MCGINTY.—A select company witnessed the glove-match for a $300 purse between Paddy Duffy of the Hub and Jack McGinty of New York, which took place in a hall in the South-end, Boston, Mass., on the evening of Feb. 9. They weighed about 140lb each, and the fight was limited to fifteen rounds. Two-ounce gloves were worn, and after battling with varying success for nine rounds McGinty abandoned the contest, for the stated reason that he had broken the thumb of his left hand.

CARROLL VS. DALY.—Jimmy Carroll, in answer to Mike Daly, with whom he recently fought a fifteen-round draw, says that he will never fight the latter again under the same management and rules as before, and also that he will consider an offer of $750 for a finish battle with skin gloves. When he is ready his backer will put up $2,500 or more on him for a fight in the old-fashioned style, with knuckles bare; also, that he is ready to meet Daly in a fight for a $1,500 purse under the management of the N. Y. Racquet Club.

MARTIN SNEE of Haverill put Paddy Welch of Ashland to sleep, pugilistically speaking, in a glove encounter at the rooms of the Natick (Mass.) Athletic Club, who offered a purse, on the evening of Feb. 7. Snee had the upper hand from the beginning of the second round and finished his man in the next with a right-handed swinging blow on the neck. Gloves, weight two and a half ounces, were worn.

JACK DEMPSEY'S testimonial benefit at Bicycle Club Hall, Troy, N. Y., on the evening of Feb. 9, was attended by about six hundred of the sporting elite of that place, the tariff being one and two dollars per head. The beneficiary gave satisfaction in lively bouts with his old opponent, Tom Henry, and Denny Costigan, and there were minor set-tos by local lights of the arena. Ed. Tighe was master of ceremonies.

JOHNNY BANK [illegible]bicycity and Ed. Binney of the Hub are matched to fight a dozen rounds, under Queensberry rules, for $200, within two weeks.

GALLAGHER vs. BITTLE.

The glove contest between "Reddy" Gallagher of Cleveland, O., and Sam Bittle of Toronto, Can., took place at Ryan's Gymnasium in the former city, Feb. 7. Three-ounce gloves were used, Queensberry rules governed and the announced weights of the principals were: Bittle, 167lb; Gallagher, 153lb. Jack Fogarty of Philadelphia was referee, and before commencing stated that he was prepared to fight the winner for either a stake or a purse. Gallagher had the best of the fight from the start. The hitting throughout was clean and hard, and the exchanges rapid. Bittle had a trick of slipping down to avoid punishment at close quarters, which saved him many vicious punches and incensed the crowd. He was cautioned, but claimed that his shoes were too large for him, and that it was impossible to prevent it. Gallagher was particularly clever with his left and sent it in often and savagely. The fighting in the first round was light. In the second round Gallagher drew first blood by a drive on the mouth. The round closed with Bittle down on the ropes, a left-handed upper cut under the chin doing the business. In the third round Bittle slipped down once and was knocked down a moment later by a left-hander swinging on the jaw. Gallagher had the best of the round, but Bittle landed several times, though lightly. The fourth round was characterized by several hot exchanges, both men landing on the neck and body. As time was called Bittle swung his right on Gallagher's jaw, a blow that staggered the Clevelander and the only hard one he received. In the fifth round Bittle was knocked down three times, but came up each time smiling and fresh. In the sixth and last round Bittle went down twice. It had been stipulated that the men were to fight two or more rounds more if the referee was unable to give a decision, but the police were present, and declared that they would arrest all parties if there was any knocking out. Referee Fogarty declared Gallagher the winner on points.

BILL CRAWFURD and Ned Hatfield, middleweights, milled for a "tenner" a side on Wimbledon Commons, Eng., on the morning of Jan. 30. During the first four rounds the milling was fast and quite even, but then Hatfield began to force the fighting and, his adversary being too weak to stall him off, Ned secured the advantage, of which he was not afterwards deprived. Ultimately a heavy right-hander in the ribs proved a settler for Crawfurd, and Ned was hailed the winner.

HAVELIN VS. WEIR.—The "Spider" is not desirous of meeting his quondam tough antagonist Jack Havelin in a fight to a finish just now, but if his challenger will go to Minneapolis, Weir will accommodate him with a twenty-round "go," the victor to receive seventy-five, and the loser twenty-five per cent. of the receipts. If the Hubite cannot do better, and the "Spider" will allow a reasonable sum for expenses, Havelin will probably undertake the journey.

CUSTY WHIPS MONAHAN.—At the third time of asking Dan Custy and Jack Monahan got together in a room in Hoboken, N. J., on Feb. 11 and fought with two-ounce gloves under Queensberry rules, for a purse of $250. Monahan was less skillful than his opponent and had the worst of the inning from the beginning, Custy gaining first blood in the tenth round, punishing his opponent badly and knocking him out in the twenty-seventh round.

A SELECT COMPANY of sports witnessed a bustling encounter with small gloves between Jerry Griffin of the Cove and Edward Doherty of East Boston, Mass., in that city, Feb. 10. The fighting was very even up to the sixth round, in which Griffin planted a sockdolager under the ear, which sent Doherty sprawling, and as he could not assume the perpendicular within the stipulated ten seconds, Referee Jerry Sullivan of Gloucester declared Griffin the winner.

ARTICLES OF AGREEMENT have been signed for a fight to a finish between Thomas Mitchell of Rondout and an unknown of New York, at catch-weight, Queensberry rules, for a purse of $300. Two-ounce gloves will be used. The fight will take place in about three weeks, within fifty miles of Kingston, N. Y. Mitchell will be looked after by James Cunniff of Rondout, and the unknown by M. A. Howard of New York City.

THE FIGHT between Harry Miner and James Lilly for $150 came off Feb. 6, in Dallas, Texas, and was a walk-over for Miner. Lilly started to force the fighting, but weakened when Miner won the first knock-down in the first round. After three rounds, Lilly failed to come to the scratch, and was carried off helpless.

ALF. CHAPMAN and Alf. Wright fought at catch-weight for a purse, in the old-fashioned way, near Plymouth, Eng., Jan. 27. The latter assumed a good lead in the openinground, and retained it throughout; but at the close of the fifth round the battle was decided against him on a claim of foul, Chapman having been butted.

THE boxing match between Pat Brady of Leadville and Young Forbes of Scotland, for fifty dollars a side and gate money, took place at Loeb's Sporting Hall, Leadville, Col., Feb. 5. There was a big crowd present, and the contest proved lively and interesting, Brady winning in six rounds.

BILLY GILMARTIN and Denny Crowley fought in the old style for a purse of $300 in a barn in Westchester County, N. Y., Feb. 7. Sixteen severe rounds were contested, in the last of which Crowley was done for, and the battle-money was awarded to Gilmartin. Time, twenty minutes.

JACK KNIFTON, "the 81-tonner," says a cablegram, has challenged Sullivan to fight with gloves or fists bare—presumably after the date upon which John L. has said he will positively sail for home.

JIMMY HURST, the Canadian light-weight, offers to fight any 133lb man in the country for a good purse, to be offered by the Athenian Club of Boston, under the management of Dave Blanchard.

TOM CLEARY knocked out Sam Fitzpatrick, "the Australian Comet," in the fourth round of a two-ounce glove contest at the rooms of the Golden Gate A. C., San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 3.

DAN NEEDHAM of St. Paul, Minn., and James Connelly of Boston, Mass., are matched to fight with small gloves, for $500, at Ashland, Wis., within two weeks.

CORNELIUS MCAULIFFE, father of Jack McAuliffe, the pugilist, died at his residence in Brooklyn, N. Y., last week. He was a veteran of the War of the Rebellion.

TOMMY WARREN has purchased the saloon in Chicago formerly presided over by Paddy Ryan, but says that he has not gone out of the fighting business.

BALL ITEMS.

MANAGER BARNIE of the Baltimore Club has made arrangements by which the old grounds will be used until the new grounds are completed. The weather has interfered with work on the new grounds.

IT IS ESTIMATED that the American Association and National League will realize $15,000 from the minor professional associations for giving them protection.

IT IS DOUBTFUL whether the Athletic and Philadelphia Clubs will contend for the local championship in April. The trouble is caused by a dispute over the division of the finances.

THE students of Columbia College have decided to put a nine on the field for the coming season. Games will be arranged with all the prominent college nines.

ED. COGGSWELL, who played in 1880 with the Troy team of the National League, is said to be in a critical condition at his home in Fitchburg, Mass.

ASA BRAINARD is running a billiard-hall in Denver, Col., and is mentioned as likely to manage the professional team of that city.

THE American College Association, consisting of Amherst, Dartmouth and Williams Colleges, will hold its annual meeting Feb. 15 in Springfield, Mass.

THE Cincinnati Club is the first to make a Southern trip. All of the team except O'Connor started Feb. 10 for New Orleans.

JIM DAVIS, the Baltimore team's third-baseman, was last week released to the American Association Club of Kansas City on a bonus of $700.

THE REPORTERS' BASEBALL ASSOCIATION will hold a special meeting March 6 in this city.

WORLD OF AMUSEMENT.

— It has been widely paragraphed that W. T. Price has written a play. The fact is admitted. Original mention of it, however, has given to the drama a title that conveys no meaning, and the impression has, perhaps, gone abroad that Mr. Price is turning out plays in an off-hand way while occupied with his present critical work. It is fair to deny this. A genuine play requires deliberation, research, and, above all, undivided time, and plenty of it. The correct title of Mr. Price's play is "Old John Brown." It was written more than two years ago, and an entire year was bestowed upon it. The theme seems to have been in the author's mind some years. He was born in Kentucky long enough "befo' the wah" to have the most vivid impressions of his life lie in that period. He was "raised" with slaves of all types at hand at the old homestead, and he ought to know the character and the dialect. No drama has yet attempted to put on the stage the real negro, with the real tragedy of slavery. Mr. Price was surely equipped to write in perfect and just sympathy with the slave, the master and the fated man of Harper's Ferry. There is reason to believe that in "Old John Brown" he has given the facts, the truth, the romance and the meaning of the terms of old John Brown's endeavor. If Mr. Price hasn't accomplished this—and his friends think he has—it will have to be done by some other Southern writer. The action of the play is at Harper's Ferry, and it is dramatic or nothing. Its production will excite no political opposition, despite the popular anticipation that would be felt to the contrary.—N. Y. Evening Sun.

— As an interesting specimen of the ever-increasing octopus qualities of THE CLIPPER, the following gratuitous testimonial from Ned Straight, the composer and dramatist, adds its force to the numerous other assertions daily being voiced by people in every branch of the profession as to the superior remunerative benefits to be derived from THE CLIPPER'S well-displayed advertising columns, and the supremacy of its influence upon all nations throughout the whole civilized world:

During the first week of this year I received over one hundred and seventeen letters in answer to my little five-line ad. in your valuable paper, and they came from everywhere. Specially noticeable among them were one from Kingston, Jamaica, another from Bombay, India—both containing large orders—and still another from Melbourne, Australia. As I have repeatedly made a trial of other papers, I can assure you that THE CLIPPER is the only remunerative paper I have ever advertized in.

— Kate Pursell has signed a contract by which she secures the right of production in New York City, in June next, of Helen Mowat's drama, "A Woman's Lie." Miss Pursell will play the lead, and Miss Mowat will be seen as Ethel. Miss Pursell's determination to produce the play here was the result of her recent reading of the play.

— Lillian Tyson closed her engagement with the Corinne Opera Co. Feb. 7 in this city. She rejoins the Rice-Dixey "Adonis" Co. in Baltimore Feb. 13.

— Imre Kiraly's "Lagardere" closes season at Newark, N. J., March 4.

— T. H. Glenney was laid up all last week in Philadelphia, and R. Wilson played his part in "Le Voyage en Suisse."

— George C. Brotherton's Operatic Comedy Co. will commence its season March 3. It includes R. E. Graham, Elma Delaro, Lucille Meredith, Josie Sutherland, Maud Wilson, Mamie Cerbi, Harry Moulton, Fred Darcy, Charles Graham, W. H. Mayo. The orchestra is under the direction of Fred Gagel. Andy MacKay will have charge of the business affairs.

— Carrie Hall, the soubrette in the support of Garry Hopper, in "One Man Among a Million," scalded her arm very badly last week. She pluckily continued her work, however, in spite of the annoyance and pain.

— Manager H. R. Jacobs informed THE CLIPPER Feb. 13 that he has purchased all rights to "The Lights o' London" and "The Romany Rye," both of which he will place on the road with competent people, entire new scenery, etc.

— Manager Isaac B. Rich of Boston, Mass., is visiting this city.

— William S. Gill joins John E. Ince's Comedy Co. Feb. 13 at Milford, Mass.

— C. E. Boardman, lately in the Boston Museum stock, has signed for W. I. Malley's "Our Boarding-house" Co.

— Isabella Coe (Mrs. Frank McKee), having recovered from her recent indisposition, will resume, Feb. 20, her part of Mrs. Brooklyn Bridge in "A Tin Soldier."

— The roster of F. C. Bangs' Co., now touring in "Francesca da Rimini," is: J. M. Sturgeon, George S. Gray, J. D. Williams, W. S. St. Clair, E. Barton, Thomas Harvey, Fred Scott, James Beaton, A. F. Ridder, C. F. Spencer, Helen Leigh, Miss Endres and others.

— Arthur C. Pell writes to THE CLIPPER from Brooklyn, N. Y., under date of Feb. 12: "I have signed with Ed. H. Van Veghten's "Civil Service" Co. as musical-director, thanks to my little 'ad.' in last week's CLIPPER, which brought me eleven telegrams and twenty-two letters."

— Bob Watt is writing a farcial comedy for the Emma Wells Comedy Co.

— T. F. Weber, who plays the dude in "Confusion," became involved in a dispute Feb. 11 at Bridgeport, Ct., with Evelyn Wentworth, the Violet of the same company, and in a fit of anger, it is reported, struck her. He was arrested, but at the hearing Miss Wentworth failed to appear, and the case was continued. Mr. Weber was afterwards released on bail.

— Gertrude Griswold has signed for the Campanini Concert Co.

— Richard Mansfield will occupy the London, Eng., Lyceum Theatre for three months next season, commencing Sept. 1. He will take his own company, and produce "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," "A Parisian Romance," "Monsieur," etc. E. D. Price will remain with him as manager. The trip is rendered possible by Henry Irving's graceful offer of his theatre to Mr. Mansfield for the time mentioned.

— G. M. Wood, an English author and manager of some note, is in the city negotiating for the production of his new comedy, "The American, or 'Twixt Cup and Lip."

— Charles T. Parsloe has purchased from Charles T. Vincent all the latter's rights in "A Grass Widow." He resumes his tour in the farce with his own company Feb. 22.

— J. W. Herbert, one of D'Oyly Carte's importations, and a clever comedian, has been engaged for Edward E. Rice's next production at the Bijou, this city.

— Irene Ackerman has joined C. L. Davis' "Alvin Joslin" Co., as leading-lady, replacing Charlotte M. Wayland.

— Al. Denier has succeeded J. H. W. Byrne in Kirke & Clarke's "Tourists" Co.

— Myra Goodwin seems to have canceled her New England dates and again come in.

— Negotiations for the production of "Held by the Enemy" in German have been concluded between W. H. Gillette and Herrmann & Haas, the Berlin managers. In the German translation the incidents will hinge upon the events of the Franco-Prussian war, instead of the American civil war.

— At the recent Liederkranz ball in this city Marguerite St. John, the young English actress, was much admired in a costume of Quaker gray, representing a notable character in "She Stoops to Conquer."

— The daily papers here have published that Mrs. D. P. Bowers retired from the stage after her St. Louis, Mo., performance night of Feb. 11. THE CLIPPER last week made known the more conservative and strictly accurate fact that her present tour would close 11, and that she would return to this city to rest. We do not believe that she has really retired from the stage.

— Mr. Crossley, of Humphrey & Crossley's "Muldoon's Picnic" Co., called on THE CLIPPER Feb. 14, to report good business.

— Horace Lewis writes us that the claim of Charles J. Rastell (who alleged himself to be the hero of an adventure occurring during his tour with the Horace Lewis "Monte Cristo" Co. through Canada) has no foundation, at least so far as the name of the company goes. Mr. Lewis' company hasn't played in Canada. It is in Arizona, en route East over the Southern Pacific, and any other "Horace Lewis" Co., in Canada or elsewhere, is fraudulent.

— Charles McCarthy and William Cronin report the business of "One of the Bravest" the banner season for that company.

— The disbandment of the "Crimes of a Great City" Co. is noted in our St. Louis, Mo., telegram. W. J. Cogswell writes us that he had signed for two years with A. B. Coley, who has left the company in the lurch and treated them most unprofessionally.

— About two months ago, while contractors were boring an artesian well on Mrs. Langtry's land, near the foot of the mountain in Nevada, where the North Carson mine is situated, they struck a formation of peculiar rock, which excited their curiosity. A few ounces of the rock were examined by experts. The assay showed over $500 a ton of rich silver ore. Later discoveries prove that the ledge runs all the way from seven to one-hundred-and-twenty feet thick. It is thought that the greater portion of the vein is on Mrs. Langtry's possessions.

— Gus Kemble informs us that he will sail for Germany April 15, where he will take the stage-management of the Wilhelm Theatre, and probably remain there permanently.

— Fannie Francis, supported by J. P. Clark and the Clark Comedy Co., will take the road next season in a repertory of standard plays.

— Corinne, as Edmund Dantes, will play "Monte Cristo Jr." for the first time in this country at H. R. Jacobs' Hoboken, N. J., Theatre, Feb. 20.

CIRCUS, VARIETY AND MINSTREL.

JAMES REYNOLDS of Philadelphia, Pa., was found in a frozen and unconscious condition near Hillsboro, Ill., Feb. 9. From papers found on his person it was learned that he had lately been with Mort Emerson (now of Emerson and Clark), and also with Cole's Circus. His parents are supposed to be living in Philadelphia. Manager Duncan C. Best, of the Hillsboro Opera-house, has kindly interested himself in behalf of the unfortunate man, who is said to be in a very precarious condition.

E. M. KAYNE will replace Charles Loraine in Wilson & Rankin's Minstrels Feb. 18, on which date the latter resigns at Honey Grove, Tex.

D. R. HUNT has signed to clown with the Whitney Circus next season.

THE GARDNER CIRCUS closed a successful season of five weeks in Costa Rica, Central America, Feb. 2, and shipped by Pacific steamer to Panama. The troupe will probably remain on the Isthmus about three weeks.

LUCY LUCILLE, of McGlone and Lucille, has been laid up for a month past with a badly-sprained ankle.

DIED, at his late residence, No. 12 Arch street, Cincinnati, O., on Feb. 2, Al. Lucas, aged twenty-five years. He was buried at his old home, Hamersville, Brown Co., O. He was known as one of the best drivers of horses in the circus business, having been connected with John Robinson's, Barnum's and Sells Bros.' Shows, and was celebrated for his ability in handling a team of forty horses.

GEORGE A. STOCK, watchman for the old Victoria Garden, Philadelphia, Pa., convicted of involuntary manslaughter in causing the death of Harry C. Zebley through the reckless handling of a revolver while drinking in a saloon on Vine street, below Eighth, was sentenced Feb. 10 by Judge Arnold to an imprisonment of four months.

JAMES F. DAILY (J. F. O'Neill), late of Hi Henry's Minstrels, died Feb. 4 at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y. He made his debut about fifteen years ago, under the management of Ex-light-weight Champion Samuel Collyer, as a clog-dancer, and later attained considerable popularity in his Irish songs-and-dances. For five successive seasons he travelled with Hi Henry's Minstrels, exhibiting in nearly all the principal cities throughout the United States and Canada. He was twenty-eight years of age, and bore a good reputation.

JOHNSON & SLAVIN are having a new burlesque written by a well-known author, which is to be a radical departure from the usual minstrel afterpiece. It promises a series of spectacular surprises, rich costumes, beautiful scenery, new music and a gorgeous transformation-scene. Manager Rich, of the Hollis-street Theatre, Boston, recently offered a large guarantee to secure this company for Thanksgiving-week, but they had already signed contracts to appear elsewhere. Messrs. Johnson & Slavin have received a number of very flattering proposals from different parties desiring to purchase an interest in their organization, but they have declined all such offers, and next season the cards will read Johnson & Slavin, and nobody else.

PROF. E. C. TAYLOR, now touring through New York, reports large business. His shoulder, which was dislocated Jan. 27, is much improved. He has been obliged to work left-handed.

FRANK ADAMS and Ed. P. Weston have dissolved partnership. The former has doubled with George Clarke, and, under the team-name of Adams and Clark, they continue under the management of A. A. Waite, with Healy & Bigelow's Co., No. 19.

LILLIE KENNEDY, having recovered from her recent illness, will rejoin her husband, Frank A. Moore, in Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 27. The baby is doing nicely.

LESTER AND ALLEN are again at the head of an "Early Birds" Burlesque Co., and are this time backed by John A. Ash, who says he does not intend to take a back seat for anybody. The company is composed of some excellent people. Besides Lester and Allen, the following is the roster: Annie Hart, Kittie Knight, Julia Shandley, Ida Walters, Lena Froulien, Loie Otto, Sisters Dazian, Ollie Lewis, Jahne Roberts, Marie De Dez, Charlotte Astley, Cecelia Marks, Lillie Madrid, Diria Desdemonge, Lucette Lucelle, Alexander Wilson and J. B. Harvey, with E. A. Dunlap, manager. The tour should prove successful, for several excellent houses are already booked.

ELK NOTES.

THE sixth annual benefit of the Washington, D. C., Lodge, given at Albaugh's Opera-house in that city Feb. 9, was in its entirety a social and financial success. Among those who aided in giving variety and charm to the pleasing entertainment were: Mr. and Mrs. John W. Albaugh, Mrs. Addie Kunkel (her first appearance at the Capitol in a number of years), a select list of talented performers from Kernan's Theatre, the Mignani Family, Evans & Hoey's full company in the second act of their funny skit, Annie Boyd, Barney Reynolds, Sherman Wade and W. H. Mack Jr. of Rice's "Evangeline" Co., Andrew Black and John Cheshire of the National Opera Co., Robert B. Mantell's company in the fourth act of "Monbars," S. W. Fort, "Billy" Carter and numerous other accomplished musical and dramatic people. Bro. R. C. Bernays directed the orchestra.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Lodge, No. 2, are in trouble. It is reported that there is a shortage in the accounts of their treasurer, David B. Hilt, of about $6,000. At last accounts it was thought that had he absconded without making an explanation. Several of the more prominent members are reported to be searching for him.

DEATHS IN THE PROFESSION.

GEORGE E. JACKSON, a well-known member of the musical profession, died recently at Los Angeles, Cal., whither he had gone for the benefit of his health. Full recovery seemed certain, when pneumonia intervened, of which he died after a few days' illness. He was musical-director for the Fay Templeton Opera Co. one season, and was with Arbuckle on his last tour. In 1879 he organized an opera company and toured it through Australia. In addition to this he had written and arranged many of the popular melodies of the last few years.

WILLIAM WEST, retired actor, died in London, Eng., recently, aged ninety-three. He made his debut in 1802, doing Cupid in "Rollo," etc. In 1820 he was the lessee of "Old Drury," and later on he was interested in the management of the London Surrey Theatre. During the last thirty years he had been principally remembered as a song-writer.

MARC CONSTANTIN, the author of numerous plays and songs, has joined the majority. This writer was, till quite recently, on the staff of Le Petit Journal of Paris, Fr. He was seventy-eight years of age.

CECIL HICKS, pianist, died Jan. 19, in London, Eng. He was many years at the Canterbury, Cambridge and Foresters' Music Hall.

PETER SUMMERS (known as Rosbif) died in London, Eng., Jan. 21, aged forty-seven.

HENRY JOHN PARRY of the music-publishing firm of Ashdown & Parry, died in London, Eng., recently, aged sixty-three. He had retired from business since 1882.

CHARLES SCHOELMBHL, musical conductor and composer, died recently at Heidelberg, near Melbourne, Eng. His "Ave Maria" was his best work. He was well known in Paris.

S. L. PIERCE, for many years one of P. T. Barnum's old-time managers, died at Greenfield, Mass., Feb. 12. He was in charge of the Tom Thumb Troupe when they made their first tour of England and the Continent.

FRED BEHREN'S death is referred to in Circus, Variety and Minstrel.

THE death of Tom McGill is made known in Circus, Variety and Minstrel.

THE DRAMA OF LIFE.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, BY MONROE ROSEVELT.

A little while, and then the curtain falls
Upon the drama of Life's strifes and toil;
A little while, and then all bitter thralls
Are loos'd, and thou art sleeping 'neath the soil.

A little while, and every role is played;
The prompter's lips are mute, the music's beat
Of drum and fife is hushed and dead,
And yields thee nevermore its echo sweet.

Thy cues and lines like phantoms disappear,
Each part is played, and every act is o'er;
Thy route defined to lead thee kindly near
Unto the goal, as in a day of yore.

A little while—perhaps to-day—to-morrow—next—
It matters not, the hour it speedeth on
When thou shalt find thy cast in other text,
And every road and every circuit done.

A few more years—or days—whiche'er it be—
To test thy strength, thy will, thy probity,
If these shall make a king or knave of thee
Upon the stage of masked Eternity!

THE CAPTIVE ACTOR.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, BY CHARLES H. DAY.

Julian Brady McVickars was an actor. He is not now an actor, as this story will explain. He was a gorgeous individual, which is an assurance that our hero still lives. It is an undertaker's task to handle a dead hero, and an obituary poet's to sing his praise.

Great was Julian Brady McVickars in his own mind; also in the estimation of some others. Some were mostly of the fair sex. They doted on him, for he was fair to look upon.

The fellow actors who played with J. B. McV. were not fond of him. In fact, he was most decidedly unpopular. He did not cultivate the friendship of the masculine members of the profession, and as to the ladies he deigned only to notice the "leading" and the soubrette.

You may judge by the aforesaid that the actor was not an esteemed member of the guild, but in the outer circles he had many fair admirers who mailed him scented notes and sent him sweet flowers and sweeter smiles across the footlights.

When he promenaded uptown Broadway on a sunny afternoon he attracted almost as much attention as a country circus procession, and he knew it, too, and it made him vain and conceited. It was a wonder that he was able to keep his hat on, on account of the daily enlargement of the caput.

"Swelled head" is a disease not treated of in medical works. Yet it is epidemic the world over, and is not confined to those "who aim to please." The most remarkable thing about this peculiar malady is that everybody has it at some period of his existence without even so much as being aware of the presence of the disorder in the system.

Its seat is in the head, and its best remedy is a strict course of poverty. While it is a brain affection, it fastens itself with the most virulence where the least intellect is to be found.

While the victims of "swelled head" are not aware of their infliction, everybody else is. By these remarks you will have some idea of the calibre of Mr. McVickars.

It could not be said that the masculines of the stage hated J. B. McV. They simply detested him. His real enemies were his tailor and Mrs. O'Connor, his landlady.

Julian Brady McVickars would dress well, and necessity required that he must lodge. So he stood up his tailor and laid down in his attic without making prompt payment. Mr. Goose dunned, and Mrs. O'Connor gave repeated notices for her lodger to vacate.

This particular actor—and, by the way, a disgrace to his calling—was willing to be sparse and economical as to his diet, and was very successful in sparring off the laundryman, or finding recourse to paper cuffs, collars and fronts. His aim in life was outward show and the capture of an heiress.

An heiress is a rare bird to be caught, except in romances. In real life they are as "scarce as hen's teeth," a dental comparison that is decidedly poultry and appropos.

This actor lived in hope; so did his tailor and landlady. Mr. McVickars was not obliged to visit his tailor when he had no money, and was in want of no new suits. Any dereliction on his part was made up by Mr. Goose, who called altogether too often. Mrs. O'Connor called and called for her dues, in vain. He had once told her haughtily upon being dunned:

"Woman, if this ever occurs again I will leave your house!"

Mrs. O'Connor apologized forthwith. She could never understand why she did. But, after all, even if he did not pay her his room-rent, she, poor soul, still had an impression that he was a great man.

Greatness takes many forms. Some are famous for not settling. That was McVickars' settled habit.

McVickars was gifted. He could order a new suit from Mr. Goose with an unpaid bill still upon the ledger. But there came an hour when his landlady rose up in arms and declared herself. She had done that many aforetime with no favorable financial results. Mrs. O'Connor had even gone so far as to lock Mr. McVickars out, but without avail; he had, in spite of bolts and bars, reached the garret, his haven of rest.

Now the landlady pursued a new and highly original course. She locked him in. Brave and ingenious woman, worthy of the name of O'Connor!

When he who owed Mrs. O'Connor awoke well on to noon he was a prisoner. He pounded and called until the irate Celtish lady came to him and explained that, as she had heretofore failed to keep him out, she would now keep him in until he settled.

He begged, stormed, raved, implored. The landlady simply walked away, and remarked:

"Ah, there! stay there!"

Hours sped on and night came, with the actor still a captive. The hour came for him to go to the theatre, and still the landlady remained obdurate and absent. Was ever man in such a plight before?

"Ruined! ruined!" he exclaimed, as he buried his head in his hands and wept bitter, bitter tears. It was awful and ridiculous—tropical and farcical. Imprisoned for his room-rent by an unreasoning and unreasonable woman!

In his perplexity he swore and prayed, wept and laughed. He might have called to parties in the street, but Mrs. O'Connor would have explained all, and it would have made funny reading in the dailies.

The darkness in the room suggested a revenge upon his captor. He lit the gas, after removing the burner, and let it blaze full blast at a furious rate. Then he stalked the floor, exclaiming:

"Revenge! revenge is mine!"

It was a devilish plot against the well-being of his jailor. That the unusual head of light might not betray his scheme, he drew the curtains and carefully shut the weather blinds.

Then he bethought himself of some plans to wear away the weary hours, and he searched high and low for reading matter. His exploration was rewarded by the finding of a book. He clasped it to his heart in his delight, and then turned to the title page and read the inscription:

"Presented to Mrs. Patrick O'Connor in memory of Little Michael. Gone, but not forgotten."

One glance at the title, and then he threw the work across the room. It was not a book calculated to cheer a man in his situation.

"The Mourner's Consolation, or Tear Drops for the Afflicted."

But why pile up the agony? McVickars, in durance, was almost mad. As the hours roll'd on so did his eyes, and the gas flamed and rushed and blazed.

When Mrs. O'Connor retired she made a good-night call on her captured lodger. How provoking, how aggravating! All she asked was:

"Are you there, Moriarity?"

With that she was off to sleep, while he remained wide awake and in distress.

The morning broke. McVickars was broke before morning, still no relief, no sleep and no food, and now for the first time he was attacked by pangs of hunger. Oh, for one plate of hash, one opportunity to gather at the free lunch! Sad, sad, bad, bad!

He opened the window and gazed out and about; even the dogs and cats and policemen were few. He drank in the air; also the contents of the wash-pitcher, as he was dry and fevered.

To increase the poignancy of his anguish he could hear Mrs. O'Connor singing a Ned Harrigan refrain with a washboard accompaniment, but again, when he turned to the burning stream of gas, he exclaimed, as he clapped his hands in glee and fairly shouted:

"Revenge! revenge is mine!"

The forenoon wore away on an empty stomach, and the noon hour brought no refreshment or escape. Pensive and sad, he sat at the open window until he almost crushed his teeth with chagrin. His bitten lips were already bloody from their wounds.

Along in the middle of the afternoon there rolled beneath his window the private carriage of a daughter of wealth. The weather was pleasant, and it was an open vehicle. Looking down he saw a fair and aristocratic beauty, but before he could satisfy his eyes the lovely vision vanished into the dressmaker's below. With a deep sigh his head sank upon his breast, and he pondered. Suddenly awakening to action and wresting off one of his shirt cuffs, he wrote thereon:

"Unknown fair one, I am an unwilling prisoner at the hands of a designing woman, confined and starving in an attic room. In God's name rescue me ere I die."

Then he signed it "Julian Brady McVickars, actor."

When the fair one returned to her carriage, for he had not long to wait, he dropped the cuff plump into her lap. She was about to cast it into the street, when he cried out, in a frenzy:

"Read!"

She read—gazed aloft—and sprang from her carriage without assistance, and, exclaiming "follow me!" dashed up the steps with coachmen and footman at her heels. All her life she had been waiting for this hour. A romance had come into her life, and he up aloft must be her hero.

Hurry pen and tell the story! Mrs. O'Connor was hanging out clothes in the back yard, and knew not of the rescuers' dash. Up stairs they flew, the bolt shot back and McVickars, very dramatic and very hungry, fell into the arms of her. He was very careful not to fall into those of the retainers.

"Saved! saved!" he cried.

"Away, away from this cursed spot," she spoke to her servants. "Let your strong arms bear him hence!"

They henced rapidly to the carriage without being discovered, and the actor's rescue was complete.

"Where, oh, where?" she implored, bending over the weakened McVickars.

"On, on to a restaurant," he shouted. And they dined. His appetite was tremendous; so was the check, which she paid.

When the player was revived by the good wine and the better grub she, amid blushes and with maiden coyness, confessed that she had long admired him and treasured one of his photographs as a priceless souvenir of the happiness he had afforded her on the stage. And then he related that he was the victim of a foul conspiracy to rob him of a fortune by a wrongful heir; and then, aware that there was no time like the present, he poured out his heart through his mouth and told his love, and she leaned her head upon his manly bossom and exclaimed:

"Oh, Julian Brady you have, too, rescued me from a fate far worse than death! I had arranged to elope with our coachman, but now I am saved! saved!

They both were saved!

How fared Mrs. O'Connor all this time? Her song flowed on. So did the consuming gas, until night and bed time came; then she crawled wearied and sore with the labors of the day to the house top and then for the first time discovered the captive's flight.

Then she took in the blazing gas and dropped—in a dead faint; but not before letting go one fearful shriek that brought to her side McManus, the "cop" on the block. The policeman was always to be found near Mrs. O'Connor's. He had an eye matrimonially upon the widow. That was before the gas bill came in.

It chanced the next day that the doctor and the gasman came to the furnished-room house at the same time, one to learn the state of the landlady's pulse, the other to "take the metre." Between them and the druggist she was ruined.

Julian Brady McVickars was indeed revenged!

When he and his fair bride rode past Mrs. O'Connor's former residence on returning from their joyous bridal-tour, they smiled as they read posted on the doorpost the legend:

"FOR RENT."

THE GIRL GAMBLER ON SHIPBOARD

A professional male gambler can nearly always be found aboard. Glib of tongue, plausible in speech, sedately dressed, he manages to prove a big winner at every sitting. The opportunities for gain for a female gambler are even more numerous. Young fellows, and even old ones, under the excitement of ship life and the abundance of time on their hands, are easily roped in by the baiting smiles of a pretty girl. If her behavior is democratic her company is all the more sought after, since her preferences, no matter how slight, towards one man are sure to cause rivalry in others. A sample of an American girl, with a taste for cards, was on the Alaska. The young lady was "going it on her own hook." Unattended and ostensibly destined for London, she was not twenty-four hours on the vessel before she had three admirers furious in their attentions to her. She told them all sorts of stories about her life; how her mother was a French woman from New Orleans, her father an Englishman, and herself a Canadian by birth, but there was no chance to mistake her mannerisms. In an unguarded moment she would yell at the top of her voice when the ship would lurch, "Hello! you bet that was a tumble." A number of times she emphasized her words with a final "and don't you forget it." All the same she won a handsome sum at cards the first night. Those who played with her were reticent concerning their losses.—Baltimore Sun.

BRAIN WORK.—So long as a brain-worker is able to sleep well, to eat well, and to take a fair proportion of outdoor exercise, it may safely be said that it is not necessary to impose any special limits on the actual number of hours which he devotes to his labors. But when what is generally known as worry steps in to complicate matters, when cares connected with family arrangements, or with those numerous personal details which we can seldom escape, intervene, or when the daily occupation of life is in itself a source of anxiety, then we find one or other of the three safeguards broken down.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

THE ORIGINAL GRAIS.

The inventor of his own tricks. The inventor of the modern Umbrella-trick. The inventor of the trick with Two Candlesticks and Candles The inventor of the Potato-tricks. The inventor of the trick with Twenty-four Cigar Boxes at one time The inventor of the Spinning-table (weight 36lb), and last, but not least, the inventor of the great and only Monkey act in the wide world.

The short time I am in this country I have the reputation in every city I have been to, to have the two most novel specialties in the business. I do not use any fakes in my act, no pins in sticks for balancing, no wire through a card for balancing, no bluff fireworks for success (fire-crackers). There are some jugglers who call themselves great or original, but nevertheless they steal some of my inventions and then claim that they performed the same tricks five, or sometimes fifty, years ago. Will further mention that MY TABLE IS SOLID and has no hollow legs

Will give $100 to anyone that can prove this seeing anybody spinning a table on three separate poles previous to my performance. I hope you will make a success with it on Monday. Are you getting old now that you lost your brains?

SIDESHOW

CANVAS A SPECIALTY

THE DRAMA OF LIFE.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.
BY MONROE ROSEVELT.

A little while, and then the curtain falls
Upon the drama of Life's strifes and toil;
A little while, and then all bitter thralls
Are loos'd, and thou art sleeping 'neath the soil.

A little while, and every role is played;
The prompter's lips are mute, the music's beat
Of drum and fife is hushed and dead,
And yields thee nevermore its echo sweet.

Thy cues and lines like phantoms disappear,
Each part is played, and every act is o'er;
Thy route defined to lead thee kindly near
Unto the goal, as in a day of yore.

A little while—perhaps to-day—to-morrow—next—
It matters not, the hour it speedeth on
When thou shalt find thy cast in other text,
And every road and every circuit done.

A few more years—or days—whiche'er it be—
To test thy strength, thy will, thy probity,
If these shall make a king or knave of thee
Upon the stage of masked Eternity!

THE CAPTIVE ACTOR.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.
BY CHARLES H DAY.

Julian Brady McVickars was an actor. He is not now an actor, as this story will explain. He was a gorgeous individual, which is an assurance that our hero still lives. It is an undertaker's task to handle a dead hero, and an obituary poet's to sing his praise.

Great was Julian Brady McVickars in his own mind; also in the estimation of some others. Some were mostly of the fair sex. They doted on him, for he was fair to look upon.

The fellow actors who played with J. B. McV. were not fond of him. In fact, he was most decidedly unpopular. He did not cultivate the friendship of the masculine members of the profession, and as to the ladies he deigned only to notice the "leading" and the soubrette.

You may judge by the aforesaid that the actor was not an esteemed member of the guild, but in the outer circles he had many fair admirers who mailed him scented notes and sent him sweet flowers and sweeter smiles across the footlights.

When he promenaded uptown Broadway on a sunny afternoon he attracted almost as much attention as a country circus procession, and he knew it, too, and it made him vain and conceited. It was a wonder that he was able to keep his hat on, on account of the daily enlargement of the caput.

"Swelled head" is a disease not treated of in medical works. Yet it is epidemic the world over, and is not confined to those "who aim to please." The most remarkable thing about this peculiar malady is that everybody has it at some period of his existence without even so much as being aware of the presence of the disorder in the system.

Its seat is in the head, and its best remedy is a strict course of poverty. While it is a brain affection, it fastens itself with the most virulence where the least intellect is to be found.

While the victims of "swelled head" are not aware of their infliction, everybody else is. By these remarks you will have some idea of the calibre of Mr. McVickars.

It could not be said that the masculines of the stage hated J. B. McV. They simply detested him. His real enemies were his tailor and Mrs O'Connor, his landlady.

Julian Brady McVickars would dress well, and necessity required that he must lodge. So he stood up his tailor and laid down in his attic without making prompt payment. Mr Goose dunned, and Mrs. O'Connor gave repeated notices for her lodger to vacate.

This particular actor—and, by the way, a disgrace to his calling—was willing to be sparse and economical as to his diet, and was very successful in sparring off the laundryman, or finding recourse to paper cuffs, collars and fronts. His aim in life was outward show and the capture of an heiress.

An heiress is a rare bird to be caught, except in romances. In real life they are as "scarce as hen's teeth," a dental comparison that is decidedly poultry and appropos.

This actor lived in hope; so did his tailor and landlady. Mr. McVickars was not obliged to visit his tailor when he had no money, and was in want of no new suits. Any dereliction on his part was made up by Mr. Goose, who called altogether too often. Mrs. O'Connor called and called for her dues, in vain. He had once told her haughtily upon being dunned:

"Woman, if this ever occurs again I will leave your house!"

Mrs. O'Connor apologized forthwith. She could never understand why she did. But, after all, even if he did not pay her his room-rent, she, poor soul, still had an impression that he was a great man.

Greatness takes many forms. Some are famous for not settling. That was McVickars' settled habit.

McVickars was gifted. He could order a new suit from Mr. Goose with an unpaid bill still upon the ledger. But there came an hour when his landlady rose up in arms and declared herself. She had done that many aforetime with no favorable financial results. Mrs. O'Connor had even gone so far as to lock Mr. McVickars out, but without avail; he had, in spite of bolts and bars, reached the garret, his haven of rest.

Now the landlady pursued a new and highly original course. She locked him in. Brave and ingenious woman, worthy of the name of O'Connor!

When he who owed Mrs. O'Connor awoke well on to noon he was a prisoner. He pounded and called until the irate Celtish lady came to him and explained that, as she had heretofore failed to keep him out, she would now keep him in until he settled.

He begged, stormed, raved, implored. The landlady simply walked away, and remarked:

"Ah, there! stay there!"

Hours sped on and night came, with the actor still a captive. The hour came for him to go to the theatre, and still the landlady remained obdurate and absent. Was ever man in such a plight before?

"Ruined! ruined!" he exclaimed, as he buried his head in his hands and wept bitter, bitter tears. It was awful and ridiculous—tropical and farcical. Imprisoned for his room-rent by an unreasoning and unreasonable woman!

In his perplexity he swore and prayed, wept and laughed. He might have called to parties in the street, but Mrs. O'Connor would have explained all, and it would have made funny reading in the dailies.

The darkness in the room suggested a revenge upon his captor. He lit the gas, after removing the burner, and let it blaze full blast at a furious rate. Then he stalked the floor, exclaiming:

"Revenge! revenge is mine!"

It was a devilish plot against the well-being of his jailor. That the unusual head of light might not betray his scheme, he drew the curtains and carefully shut the weather blinds.

Then he bethought himself of some plans to wear away the weary hours, and he searched high and low for reading matter. His exploration was rewarded by the finding of a book. He clasped it to his heart in his delight, and then turned to the title page and read the inscription:

"Presented to Mrs. Patrick O'Connor in memory of Little Michael. Gone, but not forgotten."

One glance at the title, and then he threw the work across the room. It was not a book calculated to cheer a man in his situation.

"The Mourner's Consolation, or Tear Drops for the Afflicted."

But why pile up the agony? McVickars, in durance, was almost mad. As the hours roll'd on so did his eyes, and the gas flamed and rushed and blazed.

When Mrs. O'Connor retired she made a good-night call on her captured lodger. How provoking, how aggravating! All she asked was:

"Are you there, Moriarity?"

With that she was off to sleep, while he remained wide awake and in distress.

The morning broke. McVickars was broke before morning, still no relief, no sleep and no food, and now for the first time he was attacked by pangs of hunger. Oh, for one plate of hash, one opportunity to gather at the free lunch! Sad, sad, bad, bad!

He opened the window and gazed out and about; even the dogs and cats and policemen were few. He drank in the air; also the contents of the wash-pitcher, as he was dry and fevered.

To increase the poignancy of his anguish he could hear Mrs. O'Connor singing a Ned Harrigan refrain with a washboard accompaniment, but again, when he turned to the burning stream of gas, he exclaimed, as he clapped his hands in glee and fairly shouted:

"Revenge! revenge is mine!"

The forenoon wore away on an empty stomach, and the noon hour brought no refreshment or escape. Pensive and sad, he sat at the open window until he almost crushed his teeth with chagrin. His bitten lips were already bloody from their wounds.

Along in the middle of the afternoon there rolled beneath his window the private carriage of a daughter of wealth. The weather was pleasant, and it was an open vehicle. Looking down he saw a fair and aristocratic beauty, but before he could satisfy his eyes the lovely vision vanished into the dressmaker's below. With a deep sigh his head sank upon his breast, and he pondered. Suddenly awakening to action and wresting off one of his shirt cuffs, he wrote thereon:

"Unknown fair one, I am an unwilling prisoner at the hands of a designing woman, confined and starving in an attic room. In God's name rescue me ere I die."

Then he signed it "Julian Brady McVickars, actor."

When the fair one returned to her carriage, for he had not long to wait, he dropped the cuff plump into her lap. She was about to cast it into the street, when he cried out, in a frenzy:

"Read!"

She read—gazed aloft—and sprang from her carriage without assistance, and, exclaiming "follow me!" dashed up the steps with coachmen and footman at her heels. All her life she had been waiting for this hour. A romance had come into her life, and he up aloft must be her hero.

Hurry pen and tell the story! Mrs. O'Connor was hanging out clothes in the back yard, and knew not of the rescuers' dash. Up stairs they flew, the bolt shot back and McVickars, very dramatic and very hungry, fell into the arms of her. He was very careful not to fall into those of the retainers.

"Saved! saved!" he cried.

"Away, away from this cursed spot," she spoke to her servants. "Let your strong arms bear him hence!"

They henced rapidly to the carriage without being discovered, and the actor's rescue was complete.

"Where, oh, where?" she implored, bending over the weakened McVickars.

"On, on to a restaurant," he shouted. And they dined. His appetite was tremendous; so was the check, which she paid.

When the player was revived by the good wine and the better grub she, amid blushes and with maiden coyness, confessed that she had long admired him and treasured one of his photographs as a priceless souvenir of the happiness he had afforded her on the stage. And then he related that he was the victim of a foul conspiracy to rob him of a fortune by a wrongful heir; and then, aware that there was no time like the present, he poured out his heart through his mouth and told his love, and she leaned her head upon his manly bossom and exclaimed:

"Oh, Julian Brady you have, too, rescued me from a fate far worse than death! I had arranged to elope with our coachman, but now I am saved! saved!

They both were saved!

How fared Mrs. O'Connor all this time? Her song flowed on. So did the consuming gas, until night and bed time came; then she crawled wearied and sore with the labors of the day to the house top and then for the first time discovered the captive's flight.

Then she took in the blazing gas and dropped—in a dead faint; but not before letting go one fearful shriek that brought to her side McManus, the "cop" on the block. The policeman was always to be found near Mrs. O'Connor's. He had an eye matrimonially upon the widow. That was before the gas bill came in.

It chanced the next day that the doctor and the gasman came to the furnished-room house at the same time, one to learn the state of the landlady's pulse, the other to "take the metre." Between them and the druggist she was ruined.

Julian Brady McVickars was indeed revenged!

When he and his fair bride rode past Mrs. O'Connor's former residence on returning from their joyous bridal-tour, they smiled as they read posted on the doorpost the legend:

"For Rent."

THE GIRL GAMBLER ON SHIPBOARD

A professional male gambler can nearly always be found aboard. Glib of tongue, plausible in speech, sedately dressed, he manages to prove a big winner at every sitting. The opportunities for gain for a female gambler are even more numerous. Young fellows, and even old ones, under the excitement of ship life and the abundance of time on their hands, are easily roped in by the baiting smiles of a pretty girl. If her behavior is democratic her company is all the more sought after, since her preferences, no matter how slight, towards one man are sure to cause rivalry in others. A sample of an American girl, with a taste for cards, was on the Alaska. The young lady was "going it on her own book." Unattended and ostensibly destined for London, she was not twenty-four hours on the vessel before she had three admirers furious in their attentions to her. She told them all sorts of stories about her life; how her mother was a French woman from New Orleans, her father an Englishman, and herself a Canadian by birth, but there was no chance to mistake her mannerisms. In an unguarded moment she would yell at the top of her voice when the ship would lurch, "Hello! you bet that was a tumble." A number of times she emphasized her words with a final "and don't you forget it." All the same she won a handsome sum at cards the first night. Those who played with her were reticent concerning their losses.—Baltimore Sun.

Brain Work.—So long as a brain-worker is able to sleep well, to eat well, and to take a fair proportion of outdoor exercise, it may safely be said that it is not necessary to impose any special limits on the actual number of hours which he devotes to his labors. But when what is generally known as worry steps in to complicate matters, when cares connected with family arrangements, or with those numerous personal details which we can seldom escape, intervene, or when the daily occupation of life is in itself a source of anxiety, then we find one or other of the three safeguards broken down.

THE ORIGINAL GRAIS.

The inventor of his own tricks. The inventor of the modern Umbrella-trick. The inventor of the trick with Two Candlesticks and Candles The inventor of the Potato-tricks. The inventor of the trick with Twenty-four Cigar Boxes at one time The inventor of the Spinning-table (weight 36lb), and last, but not least, the inventor of the great and only Monkey act in the wide world.

The short time I am in this country I have the reputation in every city I have been to, to have the two most novel specialties in the business. I do not use any fakes in my act, no pins in sticks for balancing, no wire through a card for balancing, no bluff fireworks for success (fire crackers). There are some jugglers who call themselves great or original, but nevertheless they steal some of my inventions and then claim that they performed the same tricks five, or sometimes fifty, years ago. Will further mention that MY TABLE IS SOLID and has no hollow legs

Will give $100 to anyone that can prove this seeing anybody spinning a table on three separate poles previous to my performance. I hope you will make a success with it on Monday. Are you getting old now that you lost your brains?

1,983 ANSWERS!

It is the custom of the big daily newspapers to boast of the returns made to their advertisers. We deem it about time to remark that THE CLIPPER, as a medium, has no peer in any list, weekly, daily or monthly. Manager Charles Andress voluntarily offers proof of this. He writes from Winchester, Va., under date of Jan. 27: "I have received, in response to my page advertisement of Dec. 31, from professional people, managers of opera-houses, etc. And they are still coming in! I hardly think it necessary for me to add that I think THE CLIPPER the paper for the profession."

1,983! Answers

* * * * * * * *

George O. Starr, formerly manager of Bunnell's Old London Street and Museum, submits additional evidence of this fact. He says: "Our advertisement, published in THE CLIPPER issued on a recent Wednesday, brought us

859 Answers

by 9 o'clock on the following Monday."

* * * * * * * *

C. L. Burlingame, dealer in conjuring apparatus, etc., writes: "Once only have I ever tried an advertisement in any theatrical journal save THE CLIPPER. It cost me $13. I received one answer. One small advertisement in THE CLIPPER has often given me all I could attend to in a month."

* * * * * * * *

This, from Manager T. M. Brown, proprietor of Brown's Comedy Co., speaks for itself: "Last week I had proof of the value of THE CLIPPER as an advertising medium. We placed an advertisement in THE CLIPPER for a singing-soubrette and received seventy-eight applications from all parts of the country. It shows conclusively that there are but few people in the profession who do not read its columns."

* * * * * * * *

This is from Bob Watt, a Philadelphia, Pa., advertiser: "Let me add my mite to the general indorsement of THE CLIPPER'S value as an advertising medium. In the issue of Nov. 5 I had a four-line advertisement in your paper, and the same in another dramatic paper. Up to this date I have received SIXTY-THREE answers to THE CLIPPER advertisement, and one to the other. As I had a catch line in the address of each, I can tell by the address on each envelope where my correspondents saw the advertisement. I believe THE CLIPPER is the only paper in the United States in which ALL THE ADVERTISEMENTS ARE READ."

Albert's Great Score.

All former achievements credited to ambitious, persevering and long-enduring pedestrians since England's sporting baronet, Sir John Astley, was responsible for the introduction of go-as-you-please locomotion on foot, were fairly eclipsed last week. It had been thought that when, four years ago, Patrick Fitzgerald placed the figures for a six days' race between men at 610 miles, the limit of human endurance and speed combined had been reached, and a mark set for future generations of pedalists to contemplate with wonder and envy, but without hope of equaling or surpassing. When the race of last week was started in historic Madison-square Garden, the scene of all the principal tournaments of this character that have been held in America, the general opinion was that there was not a remote possibility of the ex-Alderman's four-year-old record being excelled, and large odds were freely offered by bookmakers that it would not be.

The unexpected has once more happened, however, and more than one penciller is now lamenting his pecuniary loss in consequence of his lack of confidence in the ability of the men engaged in the latest make-the-best-of-your-way race. It remained for James Albert, than whom a more lithe-limbed and graceful exponent of the art of pedestrianism never appeared on the running path, to raise the limit, and he did his work with so little apparent exertion as to astonish all beholders and more than justify the confidence reposed in his powers by the ex-champion, Daniel O'Leary, when the latter first brought him to this city to engage in a six-day race. Albert performed his work throughout the week so cheerfully, and with so little apparent exertion, at no time showing any symptoms of punishment, as to create general surprise and impress lookers-on with the fact that the latest star in the pedalistic firmament is a man of wonderful endurance, as well as of a remarkable turn of speed for long-distance work. There is no reason to question the statement that, had he been pressed, he could have placed the figures much higher on the temple of pedestrian fame than he was obliged to do on this occasion, for he was in admirable condition at the close of the race, and plainly capable of continuing racing at good speed for many hours longer. He kept going at a good pace while he was on the track, trotting most of the time and showing no outward sign of punishment, save a heaviness of the eyelids from loss of sleep, to which he devoted no more time than was absolutely necessary. It was his ambition to place the figures so high on the scroll of pedestrian fame that there would be little likelihood of his performance being excelled; but he had no one to press him after the race was two-thirds done, and he stopped short of what he was plainly capable of accomplishing in the time allowed.

The portrait which appears at the head of the report of the race in this issue is from a tintype taken expressly for us, and is the only true likeness of Albert that has been published. In another column will be seen a challenge to the winner from Charley Rowell, against whom he once competed at the Garden, when ill-health compelled the American's withdrawal at a comparatively early hour. Albert has announced his intention not to again engage in a six-day race; but, as he naturally must feel desirous of attempting to defeat his former conqueror in a man-to-man race, instead of by figures made in competition against others, it is to be hoped that he will agree to enter the race already projected, and which, it is intended, shall take place at the Garden in the latter part of April, with Rowell as one of the starters. If the purpose of the projectors of this event is carried out, the result should be the greatest gathering of first-class pedestrian talent ever brought together, and Albert and Rowell ought to be among the contestants.

Thanks!

That staid and able dramatic authority, each number of which is weekly growing more brilliant and prosperous—THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

History Repeats Itself.

THE CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1884 gave an account of the chief events in the annals of baseball. We are not vain enough to suppose that we had been successful in the effort to make a perfect history of the national game; our only satisfaction was in the attempt, and competent critics have praised our work as being accurate and exhaustive. More than one author has since "adopted" our ideas, and language, too.

Tristam Shandy asked: "Shall we ever make new books, as apothecaries make new mixtures, by pouring only out of one vessel into another?" This question is respectfully referred to The Boston Herald, which recently gave publicity to a history of the game of baseball. THE CLIPPER ANNUAL furnished most of the facts contained in said article, and consequently J. F. Spofford & Co. need not have gone to the unnecessary trouble of having it copyrighted for our esteemed contemporary, especially as the Frank Queen Publishing Co. (Limited) had already performed that task in 1884. We can afford to be generous in the matter, and forgive The Herald for being the medium in which "history repeats itself;" but we must distinctly decline to be held responsible for the errors that the compiler has managed to make in this bit of patchwork, some of the most palpable being "Otherwise, as to-day, the distances between bases were forty-five feet," the omission of the names of James O'Rourke and Bob Addy from the list of the Boston players in 1873, and the substitution of Charles Snyder for Lew Brown as the catcher for the Boston team of 1877.

Ross a Champion.

Few persons who are acquainted with the former performances of the principals will be surprised to read in another part of this paper that in their second match-race in English waters Wallace Ross emphasized his former victory over the man who has been at the top of the rowing tree over there for some years past. The triumph achieved by the American was quite as complete as that which he gained over the same sculler four years ago, when Bubear was allowed a start of ten seconds and was easily beaten. The result is sufficient to convince any one that the Englishman would not have a chance in a race against Edward Hanlan, whom he had the temerity, not to say "gall," to challenge not very long ago.

Ross has always been more successful in England than in this country, and, now that he has won the title of champion, it would be a wise thing for him to remain there until he loses the championship or fails to secure a race with some aspirant to the position he holds. Perhaps he may succeed in effecting a match with the latest star in North of England, Charles Carr, whom many regard as the coming champion, among them so excellent a judge of racing material as the veteran James Taylor of Tyneside. A match between Carr and Ross would create much more interest than did that between the American and Bubear, and the struggle between them would fully test the ability of the Northern aspirant.

NEWS THAT will be welcomed by members of the 'cycling fraternity, both professional and amateur, comes to us per Atlantic cable. It is to the effect that W. A. Rowe, who arrived in that country last week, has effected a match with the English professional champion, Richard Howell. The match includes two races, at one and ten miles respectively, the stake being a thousand dollars a side. There has been so much newspaper talk regarding a race between these men that the contests arranged are sure to attract great crowds, while the ability of both principals may be accepted as a guarantee that the races will be sharply contested, and the great turn of speed possessed by both men should entail a lowering of existing records. It is probable that that other American, William W. Woodside, who is the technical champion, will try conclusions with the winner, so that our English 'cycling cousins are in for some fine sport.

Several of the Same Sort.

From Our Houston, Tex., Correspondent.

I recently inquired of news-dealers in this city what circulation THE CLIPPER had here, and received the reply that the sales of THE CLIPPER alone were more than those of all the dramatic and sporting papers in America combined. THE CLIPPER reaches this city every Saturday bright and early, and is for sale at five different news-stands; yet when Monday comes it is simply impossible to obtain a copy, and often have I surrendered mine at the solicitation of some traveling manager or actor who scoured the city without being able to get a CLIPPER. THE ANNUAL for 1888 has also made a hit here, news-dealers having already duplicated their first orders.

From Our Dubuque, Ia., Correspondent.

The sale of THE CLIPPER by the Dubuque newsdealers is larger than those of all the other dramatic and sporting papers combined.

From Our Brantford, Can., Correspondent.

Of late THE CLIPPER'S sales have increased in this city, a number of purchasers of other dramatic and sporting papers having changed to THE CLIPPER, which, they agree with me, is the paper. One of our most prominent news-dealers tells me that THE CLIPPER is the only sporting or dramatic paper that is asked for, and that he had frequently to order additional copies to meet the demand.

From Our Atkinson, Kan., Correspondent.

Upon making inquiries at the several news-depots here, your correspondent was gratified, but not surprised, to learn that the sale is fully seven to one that of any other theatrical or sporting paper received in this city.

From Our Stony Falls, Dak. Correspondent.

Your correspondent was informed at every news-stand in this city that THE CLIPPER was the only dramatic paper handled by them. In fact, they never have a call for any other theatrical or sporting paper.

Speaking of Advertising.

From the two cards we have placed in THE CLIPPER we have received nearly three hundred applications for catalogues, and have booked several good orders. We think THE CLIPPER is the paper.

FROM THE HUB.

Interesting Gossip Gleaned by The Clipper's Boston Baseball Reporter.

BOSTON, MASS., Feb. 13.—I have pointed out many times, in my letters to THE CLIPPER, that lack of harmony is apt to play no insignificant part in the history of the Boston Baseball Club this season. No one doubts the fact at all that harmony in a nine goes a great ways, and when a body of men go to their work with a will and a vim they can accomplish a great deal. Now, the Boston management do not care whether there is harmony in the team or not, so long as the club attracts crowds. They are in the swim for money. It is a fact that there is the most bitter hostility existing to-day between two members of the team. The men altogether did not work as a unit last season, as they should, and the prospect for next season is not at all delightful. No man should be kept in the team who cannot get along with his companions, and it is all folly to try to do so. Salary is thrown away upon such a man, and no man ought to be kept who is not perfectly reliable. The Boston nine will be strengthened; of this there can be no doubt. Kelly sums up the situation admirably when he says: "For thirteen weeks last Summer there was not a club in the country which played ball like the Boston Club. Not only did they bat well, but they did wonderfully good work in the field, and ran bases like fiends. But the trouble came, and the boys, as a nine, went to pieces. If we had one or two men in the team, instead of men whose names I might mention, we might have won the league pennant. What should the management do this season? Get two or three good players that are needed to strengthen the nine. Who are they? Well, it is not any business of mine as to whom they should and whom they should not engage. But they know who I mean. If they make a success and get their men, it means that Boston will make a splendid fight for the championship. What the Boston management should and must do is to order the players to go into training March 1, and stick to it until the season opens. They should be compelled to work like the Chicago nine. I've known Anson to take us out at Columbus and make us run 20 or 25 miles each day in the Spring practice. Every man had to follow the programme as laid out. Such a man and training are lacking in the Boston Club. The men have always have had more fun than the law allowed. I shall go into training March 1. If the men we have would brace up, there would not be any need of new players. They are all great individual players and can play together if they want to. It is absolutely necessary for the success of the nine that we should all work together."

This is about as true and sensible as anything could be of the Boston nine, and the Boston scribes would do well to give these remarks of Kelly careful perusal. A management does not do its duty to its patrons that allows such a state of circumstances as Mr. Kelly has described. He speaks highly of Tom Brown, the new acquisition, who was engaged upon his recommendation, as a whole-souled, noble fellow, who does not smoke or drink.

Tim Murnan is another man who does not have his eyes shut and whose eye teeth have been cut some time. He says: "Madden comes to Boston and signs in Director Conant's office. Kelly goes to Director Billing's office to leave his autograph. Morrill shows up in President Soden's place of business. Thus we see the team organized under three heads, for each manager has his favorite players, and each player looks to the man who signed him as his personal friend and manager. No club in the country is run in such an unbusiness-like manner, and no club can be expected to be successful with this triangular sort of management."

This is true of the papers, too. The baseball reporters—the prominent ones, I mean—have their favorites, and push them forward in a way to excite the jealousy of the other men, and create no end of ill feeling. To my personal knowledge, one reporter endeavored to have one of the Boston players "bounced" this year because the player wouldn't and couldn't conceal his dislike for him. Now, just as sure as there is a sun in the heavens there won't be harmony in the Boston nine as things now stand, and it won't be very hard for the management to straighten things out. But something must be done or there will be the deuce to pay, as was the case last year.

Right here I want to allude to a letter written by James O'Rourke, of the New York Baseball Club, to his friend and old comrade, Tim Murnan. Jim says: "I am sure you will survive the awful shock of being ostracized by the Boston Club, if for no other reason than that it possesses none of the paralyzing elements of the days of old—$100, $200, as the spirit moved and the emergency suggested. Of course you know that this most honorable institution is still indebted to me in the sum of $500, which, although under no obligation to pay, as they would have a perfect defence in the statute of limitations, and they would undoubtedly avail themselves of it, is morally as strong and binding upon them to pay as ever it was. Have you not observed the striking dissimilarity between the classes of men into whose hands the administration has passed within your experience? Have you not also observed the character of the changes made, and the conditions under which they were made? Is there any need for wonder that things are as they are? Class 1 administered affairs finely and made the club a model to look up to at home and abroad. Can you not see in your mind's eye the beautiful picture of President Porter, as he figured as our consoler, comforter and sympathizer on board of the slow, but sure, steamer Abbotsford in 1874? If so, imagine his successor in the same capacity, and the ridiculousness of the comparison; yet it is the latter's public declaration that in the engagement of players he can't inject into it the same business principles or methods as into his regular business. With a proper policy instituted by the management, there is not a player in the country who would not long to be a member of the Boston Club and be honored in so doing, for I consider the advantages and surroundings of Boston superior to all others. The spectators are the most indulgent and most respectful, and possess more genuine sympathy for a player than any in the country."

O'Rourke told me personally, that under any other management he would come here for less than he would take to go to any other city, but that he wouldn't be induced to play under them for $1,000 more than he would play for in New York.

Tim Keefe arrived last Monday at his home in Cambridge. He looks finely and is in splendid health. He will take a good rest, and on March 1 will coach the Amherst College pitchers. Keefe says that he regrets any change was made in the four strikes. This must cause baseballists, and especially those who were influential in changing the rules aforesaid, to think a bit. Keefe says that the game will suffer in batting and base-running, and therefore in popularity. There will be many strike-outs, few runs, and consequently small-figure contests. He speaks highly of Crane, and says that he will be willing to wager that this twister will lead the pitchers next season.

Treasurer Billings was in Philadelphia last week, and all hands are guessing.

The Manchesters will open the season April 12 with the Dartmouth College nine.

Pitcher Ed. Crane has arrived home at South Boston from his Western trip.

To show how far the "amateur" spirit prevails, I speak of a case of a fine young pitcher who was invited to join four or five colleges for the sake of playing ball.

Morrill has not yet signed, but why, does not appear. It's about time that the manager began to arrange his Spring dates.

The Manchesters are negotiating for the release of Campana from Omaha.

MANAGER MUTRIE intends dividing the players of the New York Club into two teams. One including Murphy and Brown, catchers; Crane, Titcomb and George, pitchers; Hatfield, short-stop; Cleveland, third base, and Slattery, Foster and Tiernan in the outfield, will be piloted South by Manager Mutrie, starting about March 1, and returning home April 7. The other team will play at the Polo Grounds.

AL. SPALDING and Al. Reach are down South this month, the one in Florida and the other in New Orleans. Both are looking after business, and that means efforts to boom baseball in new places, and the new places for 1888 are Florida and Texas. There are so many Northern people in Florida in the Winter time who are on the lookout for sport, that baseball games will be quite a boon to them. Already a club has been organized in Jacksonville, and a ground is in progress of construction for the use of visiting clubs. In Texas baseball has got such a foothold already that it is bound to be a staying institution. The success of the clubs of the new Texas League may be set down as a foregone conclusion, and by 1889 that association will be able to cope successfully with the Southern League clubs, and perhaps combine in one grand Southern League.

"DICKY" FLOWERS, the short-stop of the old-time Haymakers of Troy and the Keystone Club of Philadelphia, visited a saloon in the last-named city on Feb. 6 and while engaged in a playful struggle with the bartender, Peter Whalen, accidentally stabbed him in the abdomen. Whalen died four days afterwards from his wound. A coroner's jury Feb. 13 found that the stabbing was accidental, and Flowers was subsequently released from custody.

THERE IS likely to be trouble in the National League regarding the salary question. John M. Ward is of the opinion that the League officials perfectly understood that the whole amount of a player's salary was to be written in the contract. President Young claims the $2,000 limit clause prevents him from approving any contract setting forth any larger amount.

THE SPRING MEETING of the National League takes place at the Fifth-avenue Hotel in this city March 5, and the American Association will hold their Spring meeting the same day at the Clarendon Hotel, Brooklyn. During the week, the Brooklyn Club will give the visiting delegates a banquet on the occasion of the first professional association meeting ever held in Brooklyn.

BYRON VAN ETTEN, the catcher of the champion Stars of the Long Island Amateur Association, was buried last week from his home on Staten Island. The previous week he was in the enjoyment of health, but he was suddenly seized with acute pneumonia, and after two days' illness he died. He was six years with the Star Club, and was greatly esteemed.

THE CINCINNATIS opened the season in New Orleans, La., Feb. 12, when they defeated the New Orleans team, 6 to 1. The visitor's batted Widner freely, their hits including a home-run by Fennelly, and five two-baggers. Vian held the New Orleans down to six scattering hits, three of which were made by Sneed.

THE baseball players of San Francisco, Cal., have organized a club for social and beneficial purposes. Ward, Denny, Foutz, Irwin, Carroll, Tom Brown, Van Haltren, Bill Brown and Manager Hart were elected honorary members. The new organization will give a grand ball Feb. 21 as a farewell compliment to the Eastern professionals.

THE so-called eleven-men rule has not been adopted, as has been commonly understood, the American Association having refused to concur in the action of the National League. The extra men can sit on the bench, but they cannot be changed for players on the field, except in the case of accident, as heretofore.

THE STOCKTON CLUB of Stockton, Cal., will present the following team: Stockwell and De Pangher, catchers; Lorrigan and Flynn, pitchers; Sweeney, O'Day and Whitehead, on the bases; Bentle, short-stop; Hayes and Selna, in the outfield. The championship season of the California League opens in Stockton March 25.

IN SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 4, the Haverlys of that city were defeated for the fourth time by the visiting Los Angeles team, the score being 16 to 0. On the following afternoon the visitors defeated the champion Pioneers by 6 to 5. Williamson and Carroll strengthened the home teams in the two games.

UMPIRE DOSCHER has accepted an offer to umpire the exhibition games the Athletics will play next April in Philadelphia. Bob Ferguson will umpire all the exhibition games played in Brooklyn and vicinity, and Umpire Gaffney has been secured by the Cincinnati Club for all its home games prior to the opening of the championship season.

THE Spring contests between the St. Louis and Detroit teams have been limited to three games. St. Louis will enter the list this time with all to win and nothing to lose, as it is not expected that they can play the game this Spring with five of their team gone, that they did last Fall.

IN THE LIST of contributors to the new edition of Chambers' Cyclopaedia, Henry Chadwick's name appears as the author of the article on baseball. He has also contributed similar articles to Appleton's and Johnson's Cyclopaedias, published in this country.

A MACHINE, it is said, has recently been invented, intended to take the place of a pitcher in practicing baseball. This is probably nothing more than the catapulta, which has been used for many years in England as a substitute for a bowler in practicing cricket.

CARROLL and Miller have signed with Pittsburg, and the veteran Galvin will soon be in line and then Pittsburg will enter the National League Championship arena for 1888 well fitted to cope successfully with the strongest of their opponents.

THE SENSATIONALISTS are at work trying to get up a row between the two Kansas City clubs, but there will be no trouble between them at all. Dave Rowe and Menges are well up to the little game of getting free advertising.

FRANK HART, the colored pedestrian who figured in the recent walk, was the bat-carrier of the original St. Louis Browns in the palmy days about a dozen years ago, when professional baseball was a novelty in the Mound City.

THE CHICAGO TEAM will again visit the Hot Springs, Ark., about March 1. They will take a course of baths, and will give exhibition-games during their stay. The Louisvilles will also visit the Hot Springs on or about the same time.

PRESIDENT VON DER AHE of the St. Louis Browns arrived in this city from Europe Feb. 11. His brief foreign trip was a most enjoyable one. There is no truth in the statement that he intends taking two teams to Europe at the close of next season.

A MEETING of the old Western League is to be held Feb. 26 in St. Joseph, Mo.

JAMES OWEN O'CONOR.

James Owen O'Conor, the tragedian whose impersonations of Shylock and Hamlet created such a FUROR in this city, two or three week's ago, writes to the STANDARD that his manager, E. Stanhope Percy, has fled to Canada. The people who met Percy here were uncertain as to his status. He spoke in a low, soft voice and appeared to be as guileless as a child. O'Conor is now in New York, reorganizing his company. A petition to which is attached the names of prominent clergymen, bishops, college professors, United States Senators, Congressmen, bank presidents and excise commissioners, has been sent to Mr. O'Conor urging him to play a return engagement in this city, and he will consent. The stage of Shakespeare Hall is hardly large enough for him to display his powers to the best advantage, and the Alhambra will probably be engaged for him. His acting of Hamlet was so pleasing to those who heard it, that the play will be reproduced. It is the intention to have O'Conor make at least three appearances, and Richard III. and Richelieu will probably be his other characters. Announcement of the dates will be made within a few days.—DAILY STANDARD, Syracuse, N. Y., Feb 6, 1886

Wherever O'CONOR appears he creates a SENSATION. He will yet SURPRISE the Metropolis.—MIRROR, N. Y., Feb 4, 1888.

O'CONOR is a singularly gifted actor.—DAILY EAGLE, Brooklyn, N. Y., Feb. 5, 1888. Mr. O'CONNOR will shortly appear in this city. See future advertisements.

WANTED, legitimate artists, with their own costumes. All must be "up" in "Marble Heart" (dream only), "Merchant of Venice," "Hamlet," "Othello," "Richelieu," "Stranger," "Lady of Lyons," "Richard the Third." Positively no amateurs. State lowest salary (I pay board). Send photo, references, experience, lines of business, height, weight. No advances to anyone.

THE NIGHT OWLS.

SOME MALICIOUS, LYING PERSON,

Trying to injure my business by circulating through the East that my Company is behind on salaries and in a bad condition, causing managers to feel uneasy about my bookings, allow me to state that my dates this and next season will be filled to the letter and with that was ever organized, and the positive proof is the managers' opinions and the business we do. This is the second season of the NIGHT OWLS, and I will give to performers who can say that they have not received their salaries every week with my show, and the same amount to anyone who can say that the NIGHT OWLS owe one dollar. I don't advertise but I have got a great many on my books, and I find I have all I can do to attend to my own business. I am not putting this ad. in for any dates, for my time is filled for this and next season in

$1,000.00

BANNER WEEKS,

WEEK STANDS ONLY,

But I only wish to let Managers and Performers know that

A DOG WHO WILL BRING A BONE WILL CARRY ONE BACK.

Any artist who has a novelty can always get a first-class engagement with this company. Yours respectfully, ROBT. MANCHESTER,

SOLE PROPRIETOR NIGHT OWLS BURLESQUE CO.,

Hyde & Behman's Theatre, Brooklyn, this week; and I invite Managers and Performers to attend and witness

"NEVER KNOWN TO FAIL."

TARRANT'S EXTRACT OF CUBEBS AND COPAIBA

is an old, tried remedy, superior to any preparation hitherto invented, combining in a very highly concentrated form the medical properties of the Cubebs and Copaiba. Its neat, portable form, freedom from taste and speedy action (it frequently cures in three or four days and always in less time than any other preparation) make "Tarrant's Extract" the most desirable remedy ever manufactured. To prevent fraud see that each package has a red strip across the face of Label, with the signature of TARRANT & Co., N. Y., upon it. Price, $1. Sold by all druggists.

CONSUMPTION

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, CATARRH, and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for NERVOUS DEBILITY Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper.
